William M. Daily, Henry P. Taylor—2.

1. WILLIAM M. DAILY was born in Cohocton, Ohio, in 1812. The same year his father moved to Indiana, and located his family in Franklin County, on a farm near Brookville, the county town. There he spent his childhood days, attended the county school when there was one. Having a frail constitution, it was thought, when he was quite young, that he would never be fit for manual labor. When he had learned all he could at the county school he was sent to Brookville, where he learned all that was taught there. At fifteen he left home to take charge of a school in an adjoining county and begin life for himself, which he preferred to do, although his father was in comfortable circumstances. He was baptized in infancy, and grew up in the Church. At sixteen he exhorted and preached, the people going for miles to hear him—the "boy preacher," as he was called. In 1831 he joined the Conference; in 1833 he was ordained deacon, and in 1835 he was ordained elder. While discharging all the duties the Church required of him as a minister, which were very laborious in those days, he kept up his studies, rising at four o'clock in the morning that he might get a few hours at his books, as well as studying on horseback when going to his appointments. In 1835 and 1836 he was stationed at Bloomington, Indiana, where he discharged the duties of pastor and student, graduating in 1836, in the Indiana State University. In 1837 he was agent of the Preachers' Aid Society; in 1838 he was transferred to the Missouri Conference, and stationed in Saint Louis. Soon after he was elected a professor in Saint Charles College. He remained in Missouri until 1840, when he returned to Indiana in broken health. He rested a year or two with his father and visiting old friends. His trouble was hemorrhage of the lungs. In the spring of 1843, at the suggestion of Bishop Ames, he was called to take charge of a congregation in Madison, Indiana. Here he met and was married to Miss Permelia A. Northcraft, who survives to mourn. In the winter of 1844 and 1845 Dr. Daily was chaplain in the United States Congress. After which he was stationed at Rising Sun and Evansville; then agent for the Asbury University, then presiding elder of the Bloomington and Madison Districts. In 1852 Dr. Daily was a member of the General Conference. In 1853 he was elected President of the Indiana State University, when, after six years of hard labor, he resigned and returned to Madison in 1859. The parents of Mrs. Daily having died, Dr. Daily settled the business of their estate. In 1862 he was appointed hospital chaplain at Saint Louis by Mr. Lincoln, which position he held until the close of the war in 1865. At the close of the war, being desirous of going South, at the request of General Yates, he was appointed Special Mail Agent. He received the degree of A.M. from the Indiana State University, and Augusta College, Ky., when Bishop Bascom was President of the latter. He received the title of D.D. from Indiana State University in 1852, and the degree of LL.D. from the University of Louisville.

Dr. Daily became connected with the Louisiana Conference in January, 1869, and was appointed to the Baton Rouge District; then to the Upper Coast District; each of which he served a term of four years. He was next appointed to the North New Orleans District, but the time for his departure had come. A few days after Conference he was taken seriously ill, and in a few days passed away. Shortly before he died, as Drs. Hartzell and Braun, of the Louisiana Conference stood by his bedside, the former remarked, "Doctor, you are almost home." His reply was, "Yes, almost home; and all prepared." These were his last words. His funeral was very largely attended in Ames Church, New Orleans, and his remains, a few months after his death, were removed to Madison, Indiana, his old home, where they now repose.

2. HENRY P. TAYLOR was born in Charleston, S. C., and died at Houma, La., January 15, 1877, aged sixty-one years. He was converted at the early age of thirteen. He was born in slavery, but such were his natural abilities that he received an education with the free children of his native place. He came to Louisiana in 1845, and assisted in the erection of Wesley Chapel, New Orleans. He joined the Louisiana Conference in 1873 as an elder from the African Zion Church, and brought with him a whole congregation. He was appointed two years to Plum-street, New Orleans, and two years to Houma, where he died. He was twice married. His first wife died some nineteen years ago, leaving three children, who are an honor to their parents. His last wife survives him, and with those children mourns his sudden decease. His last sickness was brief, but it found him at his post and ready to depart. He died in the triumphs of faith, dearly beloved by his brethren in the Church and ministry. Their memory of him is pleasant, and he, "being dead, yet speaketh." He was a fine vocalist, but his voice is mingled with the song of the redeemed in glory. Thus passed away a Christian gentleman, a dearly beloved father and husband, and a highly respected servant of the Lord Jesus Christ. His end was peace.

Albert C. M'Donald.

ALBERT C. M'DONALD was born in Henry County, Indiana, and died March 16, 1877, in Marshall County, Mississippi. He was a Christian from his youth, and was never able to point to any particular time when he was converted. He joined the Church when quite young, and was soon licensed to preach. So earnest was he to enter at once upon the full work of the ministry that he was loth to give time to fully prepare himself. But he was convinced that he should take a collegiate course, and so entered the Asbury University, at Greencastle, Indiana, and graduated in 1853. He was received on trial in the Iowa Conference in 1853, in connection with which he served Maquoketa, Keasauqua, Birmingham, Ottumwa, and Des Moines City Mission. In 1859 he was transferred to the Missouri Conference, and appointed to Hedding Charge, Saint Louis. In 1861 he was appointed to Jefferson City, where he remained two years, and then entered the Federal Army as chaplain. At the close of the war Brother M'Donald became identified with the mission work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in the South in connection with the Mississippi Mission Conference, organized in New Orleans in 1866. In 1867 he was appointed by Bishop Simpson in charge of the Thomson Biblical Institute, an institution established for the training of young colored men for the ministry. In 1868 the work in Mississippi was organized into a regular Annual Conference, and Dr. M'Donald at once became a leader in the organization and development of the work of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Mississippi. He was secretary of his Conference from its organization until his death. For several years he served as presiding elder; but his chief work in Mississippi was in connection with the founding and building up of Shaw University at Holly Springs. Of this institution he was President from the time of its founding until within two years of his death. For it he gave his most earnest efforts as President, Financial Agent, and Professor. Within its walls he gathered many of the young men who now stand among the most worthy and honored members of the Mississippi Conference, and gave them that example and instruction which, with God's blessing, prepared them for their great work.

Dr. M'Donald was a member of the General Conferences of 1872 and 1876. In January, 1877, he was appointed presiding elder of Okolona District. This was his last appointment. He had for several years been broken in health. His labors in the University and Conference had been too much for his naturally delicate frame. He was out upon his district, and had reached Corinth, Miss., some seventy miles from his home. He started to ride the distance on horseback. He became sick on the way, and was overtaken by some friends, who found him sitting on his horse preaching, his mind having for the time lost its balance. He stopped over night with a friend, and, although unfit to travel, he continued his journey. Toward evening he was found by a colored man, who knew him, kneeling under a tree in prayer, so weak that he had to be helped on his horse. The next night, at the house of a friend, sixteen miles from home, he died. His wife reached him too late to be recognized by him. His last act of consciousness was to refuse a drink of brandy offered by his friend, hoping to revive him.

Dr. M'Donald leaves a wife and five children to mourn his loss. He was a man of great personal worth. As a Christian, he was devoted and earnest; as a friend, he was sincere and true; as a minister, he was instructive and at times powerful; as a thinker, he was clear and logical; as a Methodist, he believed in his Church and her doctrines and usages; as a husband and father, he was affectionate and kind. He died at his post, literally falling while in the field.

Ling Ching Ting.

LING CHING TING, a member of the Indiana Conference, died at Ting-tiong, in the Hok-Chiang District, Foochow, China, May 19, 1877. When nearly forty years of age he heard the Gospel preached, and decided to be a Christian. After making this decision his first step was to give up the use of opium, to which he had long been addicted. This was a very severe struggle, almost of despair. His battle with the powers of darkness was fierce, but his victory was complete. He set out in earnest to live a Christian life, and was continually talking of Jesus to others. With but little time for theological training, he was licensed to preach, pursuing a course of study while in the work. He had the cause of Christ at heart, and gave his best strength to the Church for sixteen years. Under his labors hundreds were received into the Church on trial. He had a remarkable power of winning people from their idols to earnest inquiry into Christianity. He was very impulsive, and sometimes made mistakes; but it was his great zeal for the success of the Church and his love for his brethren, which over-ruled his judgment, and sometimes led him into error. He has the blessing of those "persecuted for righteousness' sake," having endured "trials of cruel mockings and scourgings; yea, moreover, of bonds and imprisonments." But in all he could say, "None of these things move me; neither count I my life dear unto myself, so that I might . . . testify the Gospel of the grace of God." He was ordained by Bishop Kingsley in 1869. On hearing of the Bishop's death he wept like a child, and ever afterward held his memory in almost adoration. On Saturday evening, May 18, he sang two verses of the Saturday evening hymn, of which I do not know the original, thus:

"King pwo sie sen paing tieu tek;
Ming nang chiong siu ang sek nik."

Which means,

"This evening world's business all put away;
To-morrow carefully keep holy the Sabbath-day."

After resting a moment, finding himself unable to sing more, he slowly repeated the last stanza of the same hymn, thus:

"Ko chus sing ang mo kwa leu,
A hau Tieng tong, O ping keu."

Meaning,

"Resting on Jesus' breast, no need to doubt or fear;
I'll reach the heavenly home; my evidence is clear."

Then, looking tenderly upon his family and Christian brethren who were gathered around him, he gave them his blessing, and in a few moments he peacefully breathed his life away. The following Monday morning a little band of twenty native Christians committed his remains to a very humble grave on the hillside near the village where he died. His love for his converts and his zeal for the Church will long be remembered in the Church below, while he, in the Church above, joins in the song of praise with those "which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes and made them white in the blood of the Lamb."

Basil Barry, John M. Green, Edward Kinsey—3.

1. BASIL BARRY.—For sixty-two successive years the name of Basil Barry has been called at each session of the Baltimore Conference. He was one of the links that bound this generation to the "heroic age" of Methodism. Born while Wesley was living, entering the ministry before Asbury had passed away, his days covered the period during which our Church struggled through trial to triumph.

Brother Barry was born in Anne Arundel County, Md., March 1, 1789. Uniting with the Methodist Episcopal Church as a seeker of religion in his sixteenth year, in 1810, he received the assurance that God, for Christ's sake, had forgiven him his sins, and of the genuineness of his conversion he never had any doubt. Licensed on May 13, 1813, to preach, he was, in 1815, received into the Baltimore Conference, was ordained deacon in March, 1817, and elder in March, 1819. He remained an effective elder for twenty-nine years, the appointments to which he was assigned being as follows: Mahoning, Great Falls, Staunton, New River, Alleghany, Aughwick, Severn, Calvert, Prince George, Harford, York, Baltimore Circuit, Staunton, Montgomery, Chambersburgh, Clear Spring, Cumberland, Alleghany, Rock Creek, Liberty, Great Falls, Montgomery. In 1844 he was compelled by ill-health to retire from the active work of the ministry. He located at Rockville, Montgomery County, Md., which was thenceforward his home. In this peaceful harbor he found quiet and rest. Here, in the house of his son-in-law, he was called from labor to reward on Sunday, September 2, 1877, in the eighty-ninth year of his age.

As a preacher, Brother Barry was solid and sound. He was a diligent student of the word of God. His knowledge of the Bible was extensive, and his quotations from it in his pulpit efforts were always apt, appropriate, and forcible. The matter of his discourses was plain and simple; his manner solemn, impressive, and earnest, though not vehement. His labors were blessed to the awakening and conversion of souls, and extensive revivals sometimes accompanied his ministrations. When his health permitted he was always ready to assist the preachers of the circuit within the bounds of which he lived. As a man, Brother Barry was affectionate, kind, and genial in all the relations of life—warm and tenacious in his friendships. He possessed more vivacity of spirits than his grave manner would indicate, and retained in his old age much youthfulness of feeling.

Brother Barry's religious experience was deep, but quiet. His testimonies as to his spiritual state were characterized by great humility, mixed, however, with unwavering faith in the sufficiency of the atonement of Christ. At the Washington Grove Camp-meeting of 1876 he quoted, as the sentiment of his heart, Saint Paul's expression: "If our earthly house of this tabernacle were dissolved we have a building of God, . . . eternal in the heavens." He compared his body to a worn and weather-beaten tent, the canvas discolored, tattered, and decayed, the cords blackened and rotten, the stakes loosened, the whole ready to go down, and then exclaimed, "Let it go! I am not shelterless. Away over yonder there rises a mansion indestructible and incorruptible, and I exult in the prospect of living in it." At the last session of the Conference he felt a premonition such, he said, as he had never had, that it would be the last one he would attend.

Upon his return home from the Camp-meeting of last summer, his bodily infirmities increased so that he rarely left his room. Retaining his mental faculties to the last, while conscious that death was gradually approaching, he grew more trustful and confident. He said of himself that "the religion he had preached to others sustained him;" that "he had no doubts nor fears;" that he was "clinging to the cross." He was overheard repeating to himself, "As the mountains are round about Jerusalem, so the Lord is round about his people." Among the last utterances that fell from his lips were the words of the dying Stephen, "Lord Jesus, receive my spirit," and then he fell asleep. His remains were deposited beside those of his wife, who had long preceded him. He had but one child, a daughter, who survives him.

2. JOHN M. GREEN was born near Harrisburgh, Pa., October 14, 1812, and died in Washington City, D. C., December 28, 1877, in his sixty-sixth year. In early life Dr. Green chose for himself the profession of medicine as his life-work, and after due preparation entered upon the active duties of his calling in 1833. His whole purposes and plans were soon, however, changed by his conversion to God, and, as the result of this, a persuasion that he must dedicate his life to the work of preaching the Gospel. In 1839 he was received into the Baltimore Conference. The fields of labor to which he was assigned were as follows: Licking Creek, Concord, Bedford Circuit, supernumerary two years, Mercersburgh, M'Connellsburgh, Shippensburgh, Shepherdstown, Stafford, Lexington, Salem, Staunton, West River, supernumerary one year, superannuated one year, Asbury and Orchard-street, Baltimore, Chaplain U. S. Army three years, Shepherdstown, Fletcher Chapel, Washington. In 1870 his health gave way, so that he was no longer able to take an appointment, and he was allowed a superannuated relation, in which relation he continued. He made his home in Washington City, identifying himself in his latter years with Mount Zion Church, which he largely aided in establishing, and to which he was a tower of strength.

Of Dr. Green's religious character it is easy to describe the prominent traits; difficult to justly portray them. It is hardly possible to speak the truth of him as a Christian without seeming to exaggerate. He was an earnest advocate of the Wesleyan doctrine of Christian Perfection, and defended it with all his powers of persuasion; but his most powerful argument was himself—his testimony and walk. "His life," says his pastor, "challenged the criticism of the world. Honest in purpose and consistent in everything, his life was a constant rebuke to sin. In his presence the evil-minded were ashamed, and even the openly profane were dumb. His religion was not spasmodical nor periodical. At home or abroad, among friends or strangers, in the pulpit or in the walks of life, he was the same." Yet Dr. Green was no ascetic. He was deeply interested in all questions of life, though tried by feeble health and by adverse temporal circumstances. "Patience" had so truly in him "its perfect work" that sorrow could not sadden, affliction could not vex, poverty could not provoke him to impatience or doubt. As a preacher he was good rather than great; clear, forcible, persuasive, tender, and sympathetic. There was no uncertain sound in his ministry. He spake from a heart-felt experience, and he never lacked seals to his ministry.

Dr. Green's death was comparatively sudden. His illness was brief. He was perfectly aware of its severity and of the approach of death, but, with neither doubt nor fear, he calmly awaited its coming. "He left," says his pastor, beautifully and truthfully, "no word of testimony in death, nor was it needful. His life-record was sufficient—the bright flash of the eye bespoke, more eloquently than words could have done, that he had already entered upon the border of that land where the sun never goes down." Thus passed away to his eternal reward this godly man. Dr. Green had no children; his wife survives him.

3. Edward Kinsey was born March 21, 1829, near Triadelphia, Montgomery County, Md. His parents were of Quaker descent. In early life his mother became a pious and active member of the Methodist Episcopal Church. Of ten children Edward was the seventh. Owing to the lack of schools in the neighborhood, the boyhood-life of Brother Kinsey was one of scanty educational advantages. His religious opportunities also were few. He was twelve years old, or more, before he had any Sabbath privileges. About this time a house of worship was erected near his home, where he regularly listened to the word of life and received instruction in its Sunday-school. At eighteen he sought and found the "pearl of great price." Referring to that important event of his life he recorded, with emphasis, the jubilant exclamation, "Glory be unto the Father, and unto the Son, and unto the Holy Ghost forever!" He at once became a worker in his Master's cause. The night after his conversion he was asked to lead in prayer, and did so. A short time subsequently he was made superintendent of the Sunday-school, and such was his efficiency in that office that it was accepted as an indication that God intended him for a wider field of usefulness, and he was given a license to exhort. A few months thereafter, at the request of his brethren, he was licensed to preach, and duly recommended as a suitable person to be received on trial in the traveling connection. In March, 1853, he was admitted into the Baltimore Conference, and appointed to Bladensburgh Circuit, with Rev. Charles B. Young as preacher in charge. Thus began his itinerant life, which continued without interruption until it was arrested by failing health. During a gracious revival at Union Square, Baltimore, in the autumn of 1873, he was seized with congestion of the brain, from which he never entirely recovered. Still hoping, however, that his disease might yield to proper remedies, aided by country air and exercise, he received an appointment to Hereford Circuit in the spring of 1874. This was his last field of labor. A few months after he entered upon it a slight stroke of paralysis almost wholly deprived his right eye of sight, and so shattered his already enfeebled nervous system that he never sufficiently rallied to be able to do effective service. Notwithstanding this he remained three years on Hereford, whose people nobly cared for him to the end of his time. At the following Conference he reluctantly took a supernumerary relation. From Hereford he removed to Keyser, Mineral County, Va., where, on the evening of September 10, 1877, he was attacked with a second stroke of paralysis. He soon became unconscious, and in that condition he lingered until the 12th, at 4 A.M., when

"His languishing head was at rest;
Its thinking and aching were o'er;
His quiet, immovable breast
Was heaved by affliction no more."

Brother Kinsey was married in 1860 to Miss Martha C. Wells, of Harford County, Md., a lady whose estimable qualities well fitted her to be the companion of his life. Two daughters and a son survive their father.

Edward Kinsey was a man whose purity of character none who knew him could question. What he preached to others he illustrated in his own life, thus giving force to his ministry by the power of his example. As a preacher, in view of all the disadvantages of his early life, he was above mediocrity. Simple, systematic, and impressive, he seldom failed to reach both the minds and hearts of his hearers. So ardently did he love his work that he spared not himself, and, at times, allowed his zeal to overreach his strength. Even during the last months of his life the least abatement of his disease rekindled in his heart the hope that he might yet do more work for Jesus. But it was otherwise ordered by God.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

I. Granville Grace, Zachariah W. Harper, William Milburn—3.

1. I. G. GRACE is with us no longer, for God has taken him from his post of duty to his reward in heaven. He was converted and joined the Church in 1868, and was admitted on trial in the Virginia Conference in 1874. He served faithfully and diligently the charges to which he was appointed. By his deeds of kindness and his words of love he reared a monument of affection in the hearts of the people among whom he labored. He gathered many sheaves for the garner of the Lord, and has gone home to live forever.

2. Z. W. HARPER was taken from the Church militant to the Church triumphant October 17, 1877. Of his early history little is known. He was born into the kingdom of grace in 1867, and joined the Virginia Conference in 1873. He was an earnest and efficient worker in his Master's vineyard. Many souls were brought to Christ through his instrumentality, and many loving hearts cherish his memory. Concerning few, if any, have we entertained greater hopes of usefulness. Brother Harper is not dead, but sleepeth, and will awake in the morning of a brighter day. To his bereaved companion and friends we tender our prayerful sympathies. May their lives be as pure and their reward as glorious as his!

3. WILLIAM MILBURN entered the traveling ministry in 1843, in which he labored for more than thirty years as a faithful and efficient minister. He was ever at his post—ready for work on earth, or rest in heaven. Brother Milburn's faithfulness and earnestness were such as to make us feel that we have a noble example to follow. His words near the close of his life were, "I have fought a good fight; I have kept the faith." To his bereaved widow and family we extend our hearty sympathies, and with them mourn, yet realizing that our loss is his gain. He is with us no longer, but has gone home to heaven.

John W. Weston, John D. Curtis, David R. Thomas—3.

1. JOHN W. WESTON was born near Easton, Maryland, January 1, 1839, and died in Wilmington, Del., April 23, 1877. His conversion occurred in 1856, and soon after he felt he was called to the ministry. He first served the Church as a supply on Centerville Charge. In 1862 he was received on trial into the Philadelphia Conference, and successively served the following appointments: Talbot, Felton, Harrington, Saudlersville, Federalsburgh, Frankford, Zion, Cherry Hill, Mount Salem. In the spring of 1875 he entered upon his work with great earnestness and zeal. His health, however, from the outset, was by no means reliable, and he was frequently obliged to call to his aid local preachers and others. Toward the spring of 1876 his health had somewhat improved, and the Conference returned him to Mount Salem for another year; but his health declining again, he was obliged to depend more largely upon such pulpit help as he could secure. He was a skillful manager, however, and God so blessed his labors and those of his helpers that the entire year was one of revival and prosperity, and he left the Church in a vigorous and healthful condition. It was the opinion of his brethren that at the Conference of 1877 he should ask for absolute rest, but he was unwilling to do so. His soul was full of zeal, and he wanted to be in the battle, even in the very front. He therefore repaired to Milford, pale and wasted, to attend the Conference; and day by day he was in his place, until within three days of the adjournment, when he became so exhausted that he felt compelled to return to his home to seek recuperation in retirement and rest, still hoping that in a few days his health would be permanently improved, so that he might go to his new field, which the Conference decided should be Delaware City. Consumption, however, was rapidly doing its work, and the great Head of the Church saw fit to change his appointment and call him home. His death was eminently peaceful. When he had come quite to Jordan's brink he seemed to have bright visions of the better land, and, turning to a brother minister, he said: "Tell the people of the charge I am all ready for home, all ready; and now," said he, "let me talk plainly with you. Brother S., live near to Christ; be plain, be pointed, be searching in your preaching." Such were the words of a brother whose pulpit was his death-bed, whose outlook was eternity, and whose only motive for speaking thus was his love for Christ and for immortal souls.

Brother Weston was a good preacher, a skillful workman, an upright man, whose memory is fondly cherished alike by the rich and the poor. He leaves a widow and five children, and a very large circle of friends, to mourn; but our loss is his infinite gain, for "blessed are the dead which die in the Lord."

2. JOHN D. CURTIS was born in Plymouth, England, February 29, 1816. About three years afterward his parents and family came to the United States, and settled in Philadelphia, where, having been members of the Wesleyan Society in England, they at once connected themselves with the "Union" Charge, in Fourth-st. In early life John manifested the fruits of careful religious training, and before he had reached his majority he "stood forth" not only as a member, but also as an active worker in the Church of his choice. When about twenty years of age he was employed by the presiding elder on Germantown Circuit. In 1837 he was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference, and appointed to the Centerville Circuit, Maryland; the next year to Talbot, and in 1839 he was ordained deacon, and appointed to Delaware City Circuit. In 1840 he was appointed to Elkton Charge, and during the year was married to Miss Sarah Gray, of Whaleyville, Worcester County, Md. In 1841 he was ordained elder, and served the following charges: Snow Hill, Northampton, Va.; Norristown, Pa.; Twelfth-st., Philadelphia; Germantown, Pa.; Strasburgh, Pa.; Port Deposit, Md.; Reading District, Pa.; Harrisburgh, Pa.; St. George's, Philadelphia; Easton, Md.; Dover, Del.; Elkton, Md.; Union Church, Asbury, Wilmington; Wilmington District; North East, and, in 1875, to St. Michael's, Md. While prosecuting his work on this charge his health declined. Acting under honest convictions of duty, in the spring of 1876, he asked for and obtained a superannuated relation, having faithfully labored in the effective work for forty years.

After the session of the Conference he selected the city of Wilmington as his residence. For fifteen months his alternating health seemed tending toward improvement; but when hope began to brighten into seeming reality, disease came unexpectedly, and in a few short days the work of death was done—the roll of the honorably discharged was called on high, and he was one. He died July 25, 1877, in his sixty-second year.

As a preacher, the character of the charges which he filled and the official positions which he occupied will indicate the estimation in which Brother Curtis was held by the Church. He possessed a vigorous mind. His style was more remarkable for clearness of thought and pathetic persuasiveness than for poetic beauties or flashings of imagination. His agreeableness in social life won for him increased popularity outside of the pulpit. In public discussion he was thoughtful, clear, and sometimes pungent; but seldom did he evince sternness or severity in either language or manner. As a Christian and ministerial worker his faith, fervor, and pathos made him effective. As he approached the end of life's journey he was permitted to realize an increased nearness to God, in stronger trust and richer spiritual enjoyments, and his last of conscious recognition showed that his faith was strong and abiding in Jesus, his Saviour and Lord.

3. DAVID R. THOMAS, M.D., died at his residence, in Wilmington, Wednesday afternoon, February 13, 1878, aged fifty-eight. He was born August 8, 1820, in Philadelphia, Pa. His father, David Thomas, was the first class-leader in Nazareth M. E. Church. He was appointed while yet a member of St. George's, the mother Church of Philadelphia Methodism. Reared by parents devoted to God, it is no wonder that David R. Thomas became a Christian in his twentieth year, and a member of Nazareth Church. Although impressed with the conviction that it was his duty to give his life to the work of the ministry, he kept putting it off until late in 1843, when he felt that he could not rest until he entered into a covenant that he would no longer resist, but would enter any open door, and thus test the question of his call to preach. He was, immediately after his conversion, waited upon by a committee of the Quarterly Conference, who were appointed to talk with him upon the subject. Meanwhile he was given a license to exhort. He was soon advised to preach a trial sermon before the meeting of the Quarterly Conference. It was a severe ordeal, and Brother Thomas felt that it was to fix and settle the question of his life-work. After some hesitation, however, he went into the pulpit, and so ended the controversy. On the next day, at the Quarterly Conference, he was duly examined on doctrines and discipline, licensed to preach, and recommended to the presiding elder as a suitable person to be employed. A week afterward he was on Pottstown Circuit, with Rev. Peter Coe, preacher in charge. The first Sunday he was required to preach three times, twice in Pottstown, and thus the young preacher was made to feel that he was to have plenty to do. In the ministry of Methodism preaching has been the special work. With the early preachers it was an every-day duty.

In 1845 Brother Thomas was admitted on trial in the Philadelphia Conference, and sent to Church Hill Circuit as junior preacher. He then served successively Milford, Talbot, Bethel and Evansburgh, Allentown, Tamaqua, Chester, Millington, Bridesburgh, Port Richmond, and M'Kendree. In the spring of 1856 he located, on account of failing health, and was some time in Central America practicing medicine. He returned home, went to Illinois, and was readmitted to the itinerancy in that Conference. In 1866 he came to us again, was regularly transferred, and served Sassafras, Seaford, Georgetown, Felton, Delaware City, and North East. At the last-named place his health was so poor that he concluded to take a supernumerary relation, which was granted him in the spring of 1876, hoping it might be the will of God to restore his health and give him additional opportunities of usefulness.

In 1868 Brother Thomas was married to Miss Mary S. Vance, of Salisbury, Md., who shared with him nearly ten years of itinerant service, and now sorrows because of the separation, yet rejoices in the hope of meeting him where sorrow and sighing flee away.

Brother Thomas was reticent respecting his religious life. He lacked self-appreciation, and failed to assume what he was fairly entitled to by his culture and intellectual vigor. As a minister he was faithful and deserved success, if he did not always obtain it. He was a devoted husband, an affectionate father, and an upright man. When inquired of as to the future he said: "I feel that I am saved, saved by the redemption of Jesus Christ. He is my Saviour." To a brother he said, "It is as bright as day," and as the brother remarked, "Jesus does not forsake you now," he answered, "No, and never will. Bless his name!" Brother Thomas then passed away to the land where there is no night.

J. C. Harrison, J. B. Gragson—2.

1. JOHN CHRISTIAN HARRISON was born in Mecklenburgh Co., N. C., October 1, 1809. His father, Samuel Harrison, was for several years a member of the South Carolina Conference, and his mother, Ann Rogers, was among the first-fruits of Methodism in Roanoke County, Virginia. In February, 1819, the family removed to Kentucky, where their children were trained in the nurture and admonition of the Lord. As a result, John Christian united with the M. E. Church in Shelby County, Ky., August 29, 1827. Soon after his conversion he was impressed that it was his duty to preach the word. After much prayer he became obedient to the divine call. In 1828 he was appointed class-leader; 1829, licensed to exhort; 1830, to preach; and in October, of the same year, he was admitted on trial in the Kentucky Conference. His first appointment was to the Rock Castle Circuit. The fruits of his ministry soon appeared. There were many conversions and accessions to the Church during the year. Being returned to the same charge the next year, the Lord blessed his labor with continued success. At the conference session in October, 1833, he was received into full connection, and ordained deacon. In 1835 he was ordained elder, and elected as a reserve delegate to the next ensuing General Conference of 1836. He filled the best and most responsible appointments in the conference; was presiding elder twenty-one years, and occupied a seat in seven General Conferences. In all the positions he was called to fill he acquitted himself with great acceptability and usefulness. The last four years of his life were spent on the Lexington District. He was nearly through his last round when he was attacked with his fatal illness in the southern part of the district. With difficulty he got home on Wednesday, February 27. Such was the character of the disease that he slept most of the time. About midnight, March 10, his suffering became very severe, and he said, "This is a crisis I must meet." His wife said to him, in the words of Jesus, "It is I, be not afraid." Near the closing scene he said, "I am clinging to the cross." At half-past five o'clock on Monday morning, March 11, 1878, Brother Harrison fell asleep in Jesus.

In 1839 he was united in marriage with Miss Virginia J. Coke, who shared with him the toils of the itinerancy till December 28, 1852, when she was removed to the heavenly home, leaving three children. In September, 1854, he was married to Miss Mary P. Winlock, an amiable and accomplished lady, who aided him in the moral and religious culture of his children, and who now sorrows, but not as those who have no hope.

John Christian Harrison, D.D., was wise in counsel, and possessed of a clear and logical mind far above mediocrity. Though firm for the right, he was always kind and affectionate in his bearing toward his brethren, especially toward the young men in his district. He was one of the purest men we have ever known; always affable, kind, and reliable; a man of God, full of faith and the Holy Ghost.

2. JOHN B. GRAGSON was born in Grayson County, Ky., March, 1832. He was converted under the ministry of Rev. James W. Taylor in 1851; licensed to preach in 1861, and admitted on trial in the Kentucky Conference in 1867. The following are the appointments he so successfully filled: Booneville, Warren, Scottville, Tompkinsville, Litchfield, and Warren. To the last-named place he was reappointed in the spring of 1875, and after making one round on his work he was stricken down with disease. He returned to his home, and lingered until September 13, when he closed his labors in triumph.

Brother Gragson was a man of untiring energy and sincere piety. Though his early educational advantages were limited, he was a good student, and was faithful to the trust committed to his care. He died a witness to the cleansing power of the blood of Christ, and has passed from labor to reward. By his death the Church has lost a faithful worker, the community an honored citizen, and his family a devoted husband and father.

W. S. Wilson, J. H. Ockmay, J. H. Brice—3.

1. WILLIAM S. WILSON was born in Fairfax County, Va., December 25, 1816. He was born a slave, and held as such until he was eighteen years of age, when his master died and willed him his liberty. Although he never attended a day-school, yet he was very fond of acquiring knowledge, availing himself of every opportunity to gain it. He was converted when seventeen years of age, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. After obtaining his liberty he moved to Alexandria, Va.; there he again attached himself to the Methodist Episcopal Church, and the year following he was licensed a local preacher. In 1840 he moved to Washington, D.C. In 1856 he withdrew from the Methodist Episcopal Church, and united with the African Methodist Episcopal Zion Church, in which he remained until 1866, when he returned to the Methodist Episcopal Church. On March 11, 1866, he was admitted into the Washington Conference, and appointed successively to Linganore Circuit; Cumland, Md.; John Wesley Church, Baltimore; Wheeling, Va.; Parkersburgh, Va.; and Salem District, on which he served one year and nine months, when he finished his probationary state in the Church militant, and passed away with a bright hope of immortality to the Church triumphant in glory.

Brother Wilson was a man of great moral worth. The qualities that make up true nobleness in man were very conspicuously seen in him. As a Christian man he exhibited simplicity, conscientiousness, and unblamableness of life. The Bible was to him the book of books. He studied it, not merely to illuminate his understanding, but to bring his whole being under the influence of its grand truths. He was a man of prayer. He communed with God, face to face in faith, and derived the benefits of so doing. In preaching he was clear and forcible, and in its application convincing, teaching and building up all who received the truth. Often immediate effects attended his preaching; and as for his appointments few have been more successful than Brother Wilson in leading souls to Christ. In the pastoral work he was a man almost peerless, as well as in his ministrations. He was on his way to Baltimore on business when he was taken ill in Washington City, D.C., and grew worse and worse until he passed away with a bright hope of immortality and glory.

2. JAMES H. OCKMAY embraced the religion of Christianity, and became a member of John Wesley Chapel, Baltimore, where he was associated with some of the best Christian men of the city, and therein had an opportunity of being fostered and reared in real Methodism. He often said that he was nursed in a Methodist cradle. He was earnest and faithful in the meetings of the Church, and by his precise Christian life was the instrument in the hand of the Lord in accomplishing much good in the conversion of souls. During this time he felt deeply the divine call to the work of the ministry, and making this known to certain brethren they advised him to apply for an exhorter's license, which he did. In a year he received a preaching license. In 1865 he was received into the Washington Conference, and appointed to West River Circuit. He thenceforward served Annapolis, Md.; Staunton, Va.; Orchard street Church, Baltimore, Md.; Frederick City, Md., where he finished his work of faith and labor of love, May 13, 1877. He was in his pulpit on the Sabbath previous and preached twice, after which he went out of the altar singing, "I am coming, Lord: coming now to thee." His last words were, "My work is done—I am done praying." Thus this servant of God closed his labors, and, we believe, has gone to receive a blissful reward.

3. JOHN H. BRICE was born in Annapolis, Md., in 1813, and died June 6, 1877, in his sixty-fourth year. He was converted when quite young, and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church. Being moved by the Holy Spirit to proclaim the gospel of our Lord Jesus Christ, he did not hesitate in telling his minister about it. In 1836 he obtained a local license, and became very useful in the Church of his Redeemer. He was a useful minister among the Sabbath-school children. This work seemed to be his delight. He joined the Washington Conference in 1864, and was appointed to Mount Zion Church, Georgetown, D.C. He then served Sharp-street Church, Baltimore, Md.; Asbury Church, Baltimore; Lynchburgh District for four years; John Wesley Chapel, Baltimore, Md. His health failing in 1876, he accepted of a supernumerary relation. In 1877 he seemed to be conscious of approaching death, but his faith was strong in the Lord. He therefore looked beyond the grave, and shortly before he died exclaimed, "Wait, brethren: I am coming!" In great peace he fell asleep in Jesus, and has now gone to receive his reward at the right hand of the Father.

1. WILLIAM A. WILMER, son of Lambert and Rebecca Wilmer, was born in Philadelphia, April 16, 1805. He was early the subject of converting grace, and joined the Union Methodist Episcopal Church in his native city, February 4, 1822, then in his seventeenth year, under the ministry of Rev. Thomas Burch. Sedate, thoughtful, and a diligent student in the home and Sabbath-school departments of instruction, he grew rapidly in knowledge and the things of God. He graduated regularly as teacher, superintendent, class-leader, exhorter, and local preacher, and was received into the Philadelphia Conference at its session in April, 1830. His first appointment was Burlington Circuit. In 1831 he was sent to Tuckerton, then a large and laborious field of labor. In 1832 he was ordained deacon, and sent to Elizabethtown, N. J., where he became acquainted with Rev. Thomas Morrell, whose daughter, Catharine, he married March 9, 1834. In 1833 he was appointed to New Brunswick and Somerville. At the Conference of 1834 he was ordained elder, and with his young wife went to Asbury Circuit, where he remained two years. His subsequent appointments were Whippany, Rahway, New Providence, Springfield and Middleville, Sharpstown and Woodstown, Pemberton, Northfield, Staten Island; Woodbridge, Belleville, Paterson District, Trenton District. In 1857 he was transferred to the Illinois Conference, and for three years was connected with Pana Charge as supernumerary. In 1861 he was appointed to Mattoon. Soon after his removal to Illinois he was called to mourn the loss of the wife of his youth; then two of his sons, William and Francis, were slain in battle, and, lastly, his only daughter, Rebecca, slept in death. These were great trials, but he bowed in quietness to the wise behests of his heavenly Father, and bore them as a man of God. On the 12th of April, 1862, he was married to Miss Hester Griffith, a lady highly esteemed, whose loving ministries became the support and comfort of his declining years.

In March, 1862, by a vote of the New Jersey Conference, Brother Wilmer was invited to return to his old field of labor, and make his home among the friendships of his early years. This kind expression of fraternal regard was highly appreciated, and at the next session of the Illinois Conference the transfer was made. In 1866, having returned to New Jersey, he was stationed at Winslow and Waterford, where he remained one year. At the Conference of 1867 he was granted a supernumerary relation at his own request, in which he continued at the time of his death.

Brother Wilmer was in every respect a thorough Methodist. His parents were among the early Methodists of this country, the father, though a citizen of Philadelphia, being one of the first trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Trenton, N. J., where a deed bears the date of 1773, in which is found these provisions: "The preachers shall not only preach the doctrines of John and Charles Wesley, as taught in the New Testament, but they shall preach on every week-day evening, every week, and every morning at five o'clock, and every Sabbath day, at such times as shall be thought proper." His first wife was the daughter of an old and prominent Methodist, and all his brothers and sisters were influential and leading members of the Church. His second wife was likewise from a Methodist family, and his children members of the same Church. These surroundings qualified him for usefulness as a pastor, but they were especially valuable to him as a presiding elder, in which office he rendered the best service of his life. In his religious experience he was clear, earnest, and emphatic; never demonstrative, but always steadfast, and ready to give a cheerful testimony of the hope within him. He was distinguished for his fidelity, and in benevolence he was quite beyond the average of those of equal means. To aid in the erection of churches, and to contribute to the various charities of the Church, was to him not only a felt duty, but a high privilege and real joy, and in this he engaged continuously, until by a heavy reduction of his means the holy privilege was denied. He was a constant student of Church history and the current literature of the day, which kept him abreast of the times, fresh and vigorous in thought, and cheerful in spirit. His suggestions to young ministers with whom he came in contact were often valuable, and they loved him as a father. His last illness, erysipelas, was brief, commencing on Thursday morning and terminating in death on Sabbath evening, March 10, 1878. His last moments were peaceful beyond the power of language to describe. He leaves to the sympathies of the Church he served so long and well a widow and two sons.

2. JOHN H. STOCKTON was born in New Hope, Bucks County, Pa., April 19, 1813. He died at the residence of his brother-in-law, Mr. Rowland, in Philadelphia, March 25, 1877. His parents were members of the Presbyterian Church in Lambertville, N. J. In his early youth he was the subject of deep religious convictions, but for many years neglected to give his heart to God. He says in his diary, "I was early taught the nature and importance of religion by the example and instruction of a deeply pious mother, but through evil associations I was led into sin, and on the threshold of manhood was far from God." During long years of waiting this excellent mother kept importuning the throne of grace for the salvation of her son. By a wonderful combination of judgments and mercies God answers prayer, and brings redemption to those who are afar off. During the summer of 1832 the Methodists held a camp-meeting near Paulsborough, N. J., in the vicinity of Philadelphia. This camp-meeting was signally blessed of God. In the providence of God John H. Stockton, then in his twentieth year, was led to attend this camp-meeting. He remained, not having any particular purpose, until the close of the meeting. The children of God were marching around the ground singing, shouting, and weeping. Their hearts were full of faith and the Holy Ghost, and their mouths were filled with laughter. During these exercises he was powerfully convicted of sin. He was completely broken up. Tears streamed from his eyes, and in his heart he called upon God to have mercy upon him. He would publicly have sought God then and there, but the tents were struck, the people were moving away, and he was left alone, when the fearful thought was forcibly presented to his mind, "The harvest is past, the summer is ended, and we are not saved." He says, "Alarmed, I started for home; I walked, I ran, I cried; I went to my room, and spent nearly the whole of the night in prayer. Before the morning light came I found the Saviour, to the satisfaction of my soul. I was the happiest person living." He immediately wrote to his mother, giving the particulars of his conversion to God. After her death, this letter was found in her drawer, yellow with age, and worn to pieces by frequent perusal. His conversion was sanctified to the conviction of his employer, a man formerly opposed to religion, who was soon afterward converted to God. On the evening of the day of his conversion he persuaded two of his young companions to go to prayer-meeting, and as they bowed to seek Jesus, he kneeled between them, and instructed them in the way of life.

For forty-seven years he was an honored instrument in the hand of God to do good. By the power of song, by the force of personal influence, and by his ability in the pulpit, he won very many from sin to holiness.

In 1838 he united with the M. E. Church at New Hope, Pa.; 1843 was made class leader; 1844 received license to exhort; 1846 was licensed to preach by the Rev. J. H. M'Farland, and on the evening of the same day preached his first sermon. This was a heavy cross, but he tried to carry it. Not having the liberty which he desired, he was led to believe a mistake had been made in licensing him to preach. He entertained this idea, and it caused him for several years a struggle with conflicting thoughts respecting his duty to preach the Gospel.

August 12, 1850, he was married to his third wife, Miss Anna M. Bunting, of Philadelphia. In 1851, being at Lambertville, N. J., Dr. Hance, recognizing in him abilities for usefulness, gave him work. The blessing of God attended his labors, and he received plain and repeated calls to enter the ministry. He could not believe he was adapted to the work of an itinerant, but by grace he was enabled to say, "Here am I, send me." While in this state of mind and much unsettled as to his future, he received a letter from his brother William, who was laboring on Freehold Circuit, to come and assist him in an extra meeting. He obeyed this call, and three hundred souls were converted to God through their joint instrumentality. In 1852 the Rev. J. K. Shaw, P.E. of Trenton District, appointed him to Englishtown Circuit. He labored in this new field with success; about one hundred souls were united to the Churches on that circuit. April 19, 1853, his fortieth birthday, he was received on trial in the New Jersey Conference, and appointed to Middlesex Mission, where one hundred and twenty souls were converted to God. In 1854 he was returned to the Middlesex Mission. In August of this year Brother Stockton received the blessing of perfect love. In 1855 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Waugh, and appointed to Chapel Circuit. In 1856 ill health compelled him to take a supernumerary relation. This was a critical period in his life. His brightest anticipations were clouded. His successful labors were suspended; his shattered system demanded rest. But he was wonderfully sustained of God. In 1857 his health improved and he was ordained elder by Bishop Morris, admitted into full connection in the New Jersey Conference, and was appointed to New Egypt. In 1858 he was reappointed to New Egypt. In 1859 he was appointed to Sharpstown; 1860–61, Winslow and Waterford; 1862–63, Blackwoodtown; 1864–65, Tabernacle Church, Camden. He labored faithfully for two years on this charge, although in poor health; he enjoyed much of the divine favor himself, the membership of the Church was doubled, and arrangements were made for the erection of a new place of worship. In 1866–67 he was appointed to Trinity Church, Bridgeton; 1868–69, Cranberry. At the union services in Cranberry, in which he was the chiefest instrument of God, one hundred and eighty-nine souls professed to find peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. During his pastorate here he was very ill for several weeks. And when he stood as it were on the narrow isthmus of time, the glory of eternity flashed upon him, the powers of the world to come, love, peace, and joy, filled his soul. God wonderfully blessed his labors in that place. In 1870 he was again appointed to Blackwoodtown. In 1871 he was appointed to Bridgeport. His health was rapidly failing, and in 1872 he took a supernumerary relation. He continued in very feeble health during the winter of 1873–74, residing with his brother-in-law, Mr. Rowland, at Philadelphia, where he received the kindest attention, and found a congenial home. The succeeding spring and summer his health improved, though he was still unable to preach. But Brother Stockton could not be idle. He devoted his remaining strength to the preparation of Church music. In the fall of 1874 he published "Salvation Melodies," which was followed in 1875 by "Precious Songs." His hymns and songs were greatly appreciated. That sweet singer, I. D. Sankey, wrote to him, "I thank my heavenly Father for enabling you to write so much sweet music, as well as words; and I hope you may long be spared to bless the world with your 'precious songs.' I wish you to accept our regards for one whose songs have been blessed to tens of thousands in the lands beyond the seas." In 1875 he labored diligently and with great success in the inquiry meetings during the great revival of Moody and Sankey, in Philadelphia. On January 30, 1876, he preached his last sermon, in Immanuel Church, Thirty-fifth and Spring Garden streets, Philadelphia. At 3 P.M. he addressed a children's meeting, and at 4 P.M. he conducted an experience meeting. Nov. 8, while attending the funeral services of James Nicholson, in the Wharton-street Church, Philadelphia, he was attacked with typhoid pneumonia, from which he never fully recovered. During this long and serious illness he enjoyed very much of the divine presence. He frequently repeated the words, "Jesus, Jesus! the precious Saviour! The blood, the precious blood! it cleanses, it purifies! I am saved by the blood of the Lamb!" By January, 1877, he had partially regained his strength, but was still confined to the house. On February 11 he was privileged to attend service in the Tabernacle Church, Camden. He had an earnest desire to attend the session of the approaching Conference, but the critical state of his health forbade it. March 25, 1877, he attended service at the Arch-street M. E. Church, Philadelphia. Returning to Mr. Rowland's, he expressed himself as highly gratified with the service. In the course of conversation, Mrs. Rowland was describing Dr. Newton's sermon on the "wedding garment." "The righteousness of Christ is my wedding garment," was Brother Stockton's reply. This was his last testimony. That afternoon he was attacked with a severe hemorrhage. The family hastened to his relief, but in a few moments life was extinct. Absent from the body, he was present with the Lord.

Brother Stockton was a good man, a kind husband, and a true friend. He was of a genial and cheerful spirit, and possessed a rich religious experience. He was a practical preacher, a faithful pastor, and a successful minister of the Lord Jesus Christ.

3. EDWIN F. MOORE, son of Wm. H. and Rebecca O. Moore, was born in Rahway, Union County, New Jersey, January 6, 1848. He died at Hamilton Square, N. J., April 21, 1877, aged twenty-eight. He was educated at Pennington and Drew Theological Seminaries. He was converted to Christ while a student at Pennington, in the year 1866. He received his first license as a local preacher from the Quarterly Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Pennington. His first appointment was under the Presiding Elder, Rev. J. B. Dobbins, D.D., on the Jacobstown Circuit, in 1869. He joined the Conference in 1870, and was stationed at Titusville. In 1871 and 1872 his field of labor was Hamilton Square, and during his pastorate, December 19, 1872, was united in matrimony to Miss Emma Rogers, an estimable young lady, by Rev. Samuel Vansant, assisted by Rev. Dr. Thomas Hanlon. In 1873 and 1874 he was stationed at Asbury and Zion, Gloucester Circuit became the field of his labor in 1875 and 1876. Here his excessive toils and exposures resulted in sickness, which subsequently closed his earthly career. He entered the ministry at the early age of twenty-two, and was translated to glory at the age of twenty-nine. A short but successful ministration of seven years. He was a man of good natural ability, well-cultured mind, an able young minister of Christ, and a rising young man in our Conference. In every field where he labored many were added to the Church, the true seals of his divine ministry. He was a successful advocate of temperance, and an efficient worker in the Sabbath-school.

In the spring of 1877, at a Conference held at Trenton, it was evident that consumption, in its most rapid form, had marked him as its victim, and he reluctantly accepted a supernumerary relation. His health began to fail in January, 1876; he, however, struggled on, preaching every Sabbath. The Sunday before Conference he preached twice, and in six weeks from that time ceased his labors, sufferings, and life. During his last illness he was visited by Revs. Thorn, Sooy, and Collins, of this Conference, Rev. Bros. Perkins and Case of the Baptist Church, and Rev. Mr. Schenck of the Presbyterian Church; unto all of whom he clearly and fully expressed his hope of eternal glory. His ambition to serve the Master caused him to cling with tenacity to life, hoping that he might sufficiently recover to be able to preach the gospel he loved so dearly. He was patient in his affliction; viewed it in the light of Divine permission, constantly affirming, "If I ever get well, how I will work for Jesus!" He said, "I leave all in the hands of God. Tell the brethren of the ministry to pray for me, for I feel that my work is not yet half done." He was trustful that the year's rest would restore him, and that he would be able to resume work at this session of the Conference. But God willed it otherwise, and on the 21st day of April, 1877, peacefully he passed from this world to the "land beyond the river."

John D. Brown, John Foster Bell—2.

1. J. D. BROWN was born November 8, 1834, in Kishacoquillas Valley, Mifflin County, Pa. By the death of his father he was in very early life, to a considerable extent, thrown upon his own resources. After going to common school he pursued his studies at Tuscarora Academy and at Jefferson College. Though prevented by lack of means from completing the college course, he obtained a good practical education. He entered the East Baltimore Conference in 1859, and was sent to Birmingham Circuit, and the following year to Phillipsburgh Circuit. In the spring of 1861 a call was made for volunteers for the India Mission, when he offered his services and was accepted by the Missionary Society. As he was not to depart for India until August of the same year, he served as junior preacher on Half Moon Circuit. In August he embarked for India, and reached his destination in safety. He at once applied himself to the task of mastering the native tongue, and commenced to preach in the native language in about one year after his arrival. While in India he rendered himself useful not only in preaching and teaching, but also in the difficult work of translation. His first charge, Moradabad, was given him in February, 1862, where he remained nine months, teaching English and studying the language of the country. In November of the same year he went to Shahjehanpoor, where he remained until January, 1865, teaching and preaching in bazars and wherever he could command an audience. While here he built a zargat, or preaching place, in the midst of the bazar, or market, to attract the natives who would not go to church. In January, 1865, he went to Seetapoor, and remained there until 1870, when the ill-health of his faithful wife compelled him to return to this country. While in Seetapoor he translated into the language of the natives "Church Polity," by Bishop Morris; "Evidences of Christianity," "Mitchell's Letters to Indian Youth;" "Whirlpool of Intemperance," and other works of value. He was also author and publisher of "Inquirer after Truth," and a number of other books for Sunday-schools.

From the time Brother Brown arrived in America he was diligent in representing our mission work among the Churches, until the spring of 1871, when he was given charge of First Church, Carlisle, in his home Conference. At the end of the year, his wife's health having fully recovered, he again sailed for India. The pernicious climate of India and the entire absence of educational advantages compelled them to leave their two little boys in America. This to the fond parents was the severest trial of their life. Upon his return to India he went to Shahjehanpoor and remained a year. During this time he served as a member of the publishing committee in addition to his teaching and preaching. Leaving Shahjehanpoor he went to Bareilly, where for three years he spent most of his time, save six months at Nynee-Tal. During his stay at Bareilly, besides doing the regular work of a preacher, he translated the Berean Sunday-school lessons, and wrote and devised Sunday-school picture books for the natives. Then his work in India came suddenly to an end. His health became impaired, and, unable longer to endure the severity of the climate, he had no choice left him but to return home, which he did in the spring of 1876. During the balance of the year he was diligent, as his strength would permit, in impressing upon the Churches the claims of the missionary cause. In the spring of 1877 he asked his home Conference for work, and received the appointment of Sunday-School and Tract Agent, with special reference to the missionary work in our Sunday-schools, and in the Churches throughout the boundary of the Conference. After his appointment he made his home in Harrisburgh.

On the evening preceding his death, at Brother Brown's request, Luke xii, 22–40 was read in family worship, which now seems to have been almost prophetic in its import. About two o'clock Sabbath morning, Feb. 17, 1878, he was seized with sudden and severe illness, and at the hour of three, or at the "third watch," he breathed his last. He was unconscious in the final struggle. He leaves a widow and three children to mourn his loss, and to the care of the Church.

Brother Brown's love and zeal for the missionary cause were unbounded. When it was thought that for his support a part of the missionary collection would have to be contributed, he replied, "Let me dig or die rather than diminish the missionary collection." He was a man of strong faith, and he dared to ask God to give "the heathen to Jesus for an inheritance, and the uttermost part of the earth to our Lord for a possession."

For nineteen years Brother Brown was a faithful embassador of our Lord Jesus, during twelve years of which he preached the glad tidings of salvation to the perishing ones of darkened India, when God said, "It is enough. Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

2. JOHN FOSTER BELL was born October 16, 1844, and died at his father's house, near Lewistown, March 5, 1878. At the age of thirteen he was soundly converted. He was licensed to preach and admitted into the Annual Conference in 1869, his first appointment being Warrior's Mark Circuit. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Osceola, Beech Creek, Pine Grove, and Woodland. At the latter place, during the past winter, with the zeal that had characterized his entire ministerial life, he conducted a successful series of meetings, preaching almost every evening during five or six weeks. His excessive labors overtaxed his system, and nervous prostration ensued. Returning to his family from the last service he conducted, he requested his wife to prepare immediately to accompany him to his father's house. Rest and recuperation, however, were not in store for him. Typhoid fever and partial paralysis attacked his weakened body, and in the short space of twelve or fifteen days our dear brother yielded to the power of the destroyer, and ceased at once to work and live. A young wife and a dear little boy are left to lament his unexpected departure.

Brother Bell was one of our model young men of refined tastes and cultivated manners, he was peculiarly fitted to fill an important place in the ministry of the Church of his choice. His religious experience was remarkably rich and deep, and his warm sympathetic nature, graced by culture and piety, attracted everybody, and rendered him a most welcome visitor in every house of sorrow. One principal key to Brother Bell's success as a preacher is to be found in the fact that he emphatically "gloried in the cross of Christ," and that he could truly say, "The world is crucified unto me, and I unto the world." His eminently practical sermons, full of pathos and of Christ, produced impressions deep and lasting. Incapable alike of enmity or of making an enemy, to know our brother was to love him. The Master, who sustained him in the work of his life, illumined the valley as he passed through. He was ready to work or to die. He remarked: "If God were to ask me which I prefer, to go or stay, I would refer the question back to him." With a support more than earthly, he was able to look upon death rather as a friend than as the king of terrors, and with shouts of glory upon his lips he went "sweeping through the gates, washed in the blood of the Lamb."

1. JAMES HENDERSON ROMER was born in Greensburgh, Westchester County, N. Y., Feb. 7, 1798, and died at Kingston, N. Y., May 17, 1877, in his eightieth year. Although at the tender age of six years he was left fatherless, and his boyhood and early youth were years of privation and toil, yet he was greatly blessed in the instructions of a Christian mother and grandmother, both of whom were active members of the Methodist Episcopal Church. In early life he was soundly converted. Having received his mother's Saviour as his, he soon after united with the Church of her choice, became zealous in promoting its interests and enlarging its borders. March 11, 1828, he was licensed as a local preacher, and at the following session of the New York Conference was admitted on trial and sent to Stratford Circuit, whither he was returned the next year. In 1830 he was ordained deacon and sent to Phillipstown Circuit. During the year he crossed the Hudson and opened a preaching place at West Point, the seat of the United States Military Academy, where God signally owned and blessed his labors. In the audience and among his most attentive and interested hearers was frequently seen Professor Nast, a young German scholar of thorough education, but at this time of strong rationalistic and skeptical views; but the plain evangelical truths and fervent appeals which fell from the lips of Brother Romer did much, by the blessing of God, toward reclaiming him to the faith of the Reformation. The next year Brother Romer was returned to Phillipstown, and soon after conference organized the first class and Methodist society at West Point. In 1832 he was ordained elder. The new field of usefulness which had been so auspiciously opened by our brother induced the Bishops at this Conference to form the "West Point Mission," and Brother Romer was appointed missionary. In his first quarterly report to the Parent Society he says: 'In this place (West Point) are fifty members, principally young persons. It is a little more than one year since there was a class formed in this place. A number of our brethren here are enlisted in the United States service, and while it is manifest that they are as good or better soldiers than before their conversion, they give very good evidence that they have really enlisted under the Captain of our salvation. We have a society at Fort Montgomery, six miles south of here, of forty-five members, which has been formed a little more than a year; another meets in a schoolhouse four miles west of here, and is in a good state. I have recently organized a Sabbath-school, which, by one of the articles of its constitution, is made auxiliary to the Sunday-School Union of the Methodist Episcopal Church. I have obtained two preaching places besides those named above, where our congregations are large and generally attentive to the subject of religion, and of late there have been some conversions. The amount of our collections for the present quarter is $40 39." This quotation shows not only the incessant toil of this faithful itinerant, but also with what systematic fidelity all the interests of the Church were cared for by him. His subsequent appointments were as follows: Rossville, Montgomery, Marbletown, Rondout and Esopus, Dutchess, Bedford, Fishkill, New Canaan, Greenwich, New Windsor, Middletown and Bethel, Rossville, Plattekill, Fiftieth-street, New York.

During his term of service at Fiftieth-street the cholera visited the city, and the labors of his charge in connection with his constant attention to the sick and dying so impaired his health that he was compelled, by the advice of his physician, to leave his work, as the only chance of saving his life. He therefore, in 1856, took a supernumerary relation, which he held until 1861, when he became superannuated, and so continued.

In November, 1818, he was married to Miss Abigail Du Bois, with whom he lived most happily for fifty years, when she triumphantly passed over the river, where, "waiting, she watched him approaching the shore." What a happy meeting! What a blissful re-union! Eternal, too, in its duration, for death can no more separate.

Father Romer settled in Kingston, where for twenty years his familiar voice was heard in prayer and exhortation in the weekly meetings, as well as frequently in the pulpit when he was able. He loved the "gates of Zion more than all the dwellings of Jacob." He was always particular to notice children, and looked carefully after the welfare of the young, and by personal conversation and persuasion was instrumental in leading many to Christ. As the last session of his Conference was to sit in Kingston he anticipated the meeting of his brethren once more with great pleasure. When the roll was called he answered to his name, and enjoyed the sessions and fellowship with his brethren until Sunday, when, having taken a severe cold, he was too ill to attend afterward. He partially rallied after a week or two, but did not fully recover. On Sabbath, May 13, he attended church in the morning, Monday was out in the city, Tuesday walked around his premises, Wednesday led in the family prayer as usual, and in the evening walked out on the veranda, but spent a restless night. He arose Thursday morning at five, dressed himself, called the family together for prayer. The Scripture was read, but feeling unable himself, his son led the morning devotions. His responses to the prayer were frequent and fervent, and while the echoes of the last hearty amen still lingered in the room he was led to the sofa, where in a few moments, without a murmur or sigh, the hero of so many spiritual battles won his last and most triumphant one. He was not, for God took him.

Brother Romer by a close and constant study of the standard authors of Methodist theology became thoroughly acquainted with the doctrines of the Church. His pulpit utterances were clear and fervent, in demonstration of the Spirit and with power, turning many from sin to holiness. His love for the Church of his early choice was ardent and deep, and while he watched with jealous anxiety any deviations from the old paths, yet he always indorsed such new measures as seemed likely to increase her spirituality and strength. As a pastor he always maintained the dignity of the Christian minister, and won for himself the warm and affectionate regards of the people he served. His home was a well-ordered one, and to him the dearest place on earth. In it he was always firm, yet gentle and affectionate as a husband and father. His children and children's children to-day rise up to call him blessed. His life was a daily exemplification of the riches and power of divine grace, and he came to his grave in a full age, "as a shock of corn cometh in in his season."

2. O. G. HEDSTROM was born in Sweden in 1803, and died in New York city May 6, 1877. His father was a corporal in the army, and, although in humble circumstances, gave his sons a fair education. When twenty-two years of age he joined a volunteer band of adventurous youths, who had agreed to take two frigates from Sweden to one of the republics of South America, for which they had been purchased. Instead of reaching South America, after a tempestuous voyage, they landed in New York. He soon made all his arrangements for returning to Sweden, but on the eve of his departure was robbed of his money and unable to go. While thus detained he formed the acquaintance of a young lady, afterward his wife, and now his widow, and through her influence was led to Willett-street M. E. Church, and then to Christ. He soon after went home to Sweden to tell his friends what great things the Lord had done for his soul, where he held Methodist class-meetings and prayer-meetings, the first ever held in that kingdom. In 1835, having returned to this country, he united with the New York Conference, and traveled the following circuits: Charlotte, Jefferson, Coeymans, Windham, Catskill, and Prattsville. In all these circuits his labors were greatly blessed in the salvation of souls, and the upbuilding of the Church. In 1845 he was appointed to the Swedish Mission in the city of New York. And now commenced the great work of his life, a work which no imagination can picture or tongue describe. You can trace him by the souls converted and churches built, from Charlotte to Prattsville, but no human mind can tell the results of the last thirty years of his life.

> "When he first the work began > Small and feeble was his day."

Then we had no Norwegian Churches, and hardly another converted Swede on earth. Now we see costly churches in the East and the West, while over in Sweden we see a whole Conference, and as we traverse the ocean we hear from thousands of converted Swedes and Danes the song of salvation. Whence all this? Thirty years ago there was a handful of corn, (not on the mountain, but in the Bethel Ship, at the foot of Carlisle-street,) and it was sown upon the moist furrows of the deep, and the fruit thereof doth shake like Lebanon. But such results are not accomplished without great toil and sacrifice. In labors he was abundant. In a single day you might find him in the counting-room of the rich, gathering funds to carry on his work; then on the deck of some foreign ship, seeking the lost sheep; then at his desk, answering a score of letters from all parts of the world; then at the bedside of the sick and dying; then, as the evening shades gather, entering the pulpit and for hours pleading with the waiting throng to come to Christ. And he was well adapted to his work. He had that power of illustrating truth, which is the most effective of all kinds of preaching. The common people heard him gladly, because they could understand him. In every fiber of his being, so far as doctrine and experience go, he was a Methodist; but over all, above all, and best of all, he was a Christian. At an early period in his Christian life "he entered the valley of blessing," and, living near the stream of that river which flows from under the throne of God, could ever say, "My cup runneth over." While on his way to attend the Conference, one year ago, he was stricken with fatal sickness while at a house of a friend in New York city. For weeks he lingered in great pain, but his triumph was complete. During his last hours the following are a few of the expressions which fell from his lips: "I have known much of the consolations of religion, but never felt them as I do now." "This is no fancy, no vain delusion, but solid resting in Jesus." "No changes of season or place can make any change in my mind." "Though I walk through the valley and shadow of death, I will fear no evil, for Thou art with me." "I have fought the good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith; and henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of life."

3. Aaron L. Culver was born at Dobb's Ferry, N. Y., Feb. 19, 1841, and died Nov. 11, 1877. At the age of twelve years he was soundly converted near White Plains, N. Y., and ere long united with the M. E. Church. At the age of twenty-one he attended school at Claverack, returning from which place, in 1859 or 1860, he united with the M. E. Church at Sing Sing, N. Y., where he evinced such ability as a speaker and such power in exhortation that he was licensed to preach. The four following years he was "in labors abundant," now in study until midnight, now preaching to the poor, now in revival work at East Tarrytown, where scores of souls were saved. In 1865 he was received on trial in the New York Conference, in connection with which he filled the following appointments: Riverdale and Washington Heights, Fishkill Village, Pawlings, Hedding Church, Poughkeepsie, Cold Spring, and in 1877 supernumerary.

On October 11, 1865, Brother Culver was married to Josephine R., daughter of the late lamented J. B. Wakeley, of the New York Conference, who, during his twelve years of service and suffering, faithfully and tenderly ministered to his usefulness and comfort, and who still tarries on earth to mourn his great loss.

Brother Culver was a man of marked ability, both natural and acquired. He had a philosophic mind, "searching the deep things of God," a most retentive memory, and a warm, loving heart. Opposites in his character rendered him utterly unlike other men. In the pulpit he was as bold as a lion; out of it, reticent and timid as a child. When chided for his timidity he would say, "I am in good company; Moses took a back seat, and David was least of the shepherds of Bethlehem." To strangers he appeared cold, reserved, and almost reclusive; to those who knew him, genial, mirthful, and confiding. He was a thorough student, a master in science, history, and theology. As a preacher he was clear, polished, and, at times, overwhelmingly magnetic; as a result scores and hundreds were led to the cross through his ministry. Brother Culver was mighty in prayer. We cannot forget the hour at Poughkeepsie when he cried, "Lord, drive the devil out! out!! out!!!" and scoffers fled from the church pale and trembling, and where a work of grace broke out that night which never ceased until one hundred souls were "born again;" nor can we fail to remember that Sabbath morning petition at Cold Spring for the healing of Mrs. Dalzell, who mended from that hour, though for fourteen months she had not left her bed; nor that plea to heaven which once made his study at Poughkeepsie a transfiguration mount, when some lay like dead men. Brother Culver was never robust in health. In the fall of 1876 he preached his last sermon to his weeping people at Cold Spring. He was weak and pale; his text was, "If ye loved me ye would rejoice, because I said unto you, I go unto my Father." In December, 1876, he writes from Columbia, S. C., where he had gone to spend the winter: "I have but little ecstacy, but great peace; my Patmos consists in being touched by him who hath said, 'Fear not, I am the first and the last.'" After returning from the South in April, he failed rapidly, but was ever triumphant in Christ. "After an experience of twenty-four years," said he, "the atonement of the Lord Jesus Christ is sufficient; he saves me, there is no question about that. I realize the truth of the words, 'Kept by the power of God, through faith, unto salvation."

On Sunday evening, Nov. 11, he rounded the cape, dropped the anchor, and so a world heretofore silent and formless burst upon his vision; yea, doubtless, streets of gold, and a sea of glass, on which the harpers stand, stretching away in the distance, while crowding down to the river's brink, and standing upon the pearly beach were his already glorified children, his translated brothers and sisters, and Professor Martin, with harp in hand, and these, with the sainted Wakeley, welcomed him to the "house not made with hands." Thus passed from earth one of the purest spirits we ever knew.

4. Thomas Sparkes was born in the city of Hereford, Eng., Nov. 5, 1790, and died at New Castle, N. Y., October 20, 1877, aged nearly eighty-seven. After devoting his early years to the acquisition of a good English education, he entered upon the business of a wool merchant, which he prosecuted successfully in his native land, and afterward in America. At the age of seventeen he was converted to God under the influence of the Wesleyans, with whom he promptly united, and two years later he was licensed to preach the Gospel, and his name was enrolled on the circuit "plan" for systematic Sabbath labor. His parents were stanch adherents of the Established Church, and bitterly opposed his uniting with the Wesleyans, but after he became a preacher they often took pleasure in hearing him.

On April 25, 1819, he landed at New York, after a perilous voyage of forty-two days. In February, 1821, he was united in marriage to Miss Elizabeth M. Granger, of Wolcottville, Conn., a Christian lady eminently worthy of his companionship. For more than fifty-six years, amid varying vicissitudes, she nobly performed her part, entering heartily into all his plans, supporting finally his fainting head in the hour of his dissolution.

In 1832 Brother Sparkes was received on trial in the New York Conference, and received successively the following appointments: Salisbury, Lee and Lenox, Canaan, New Rochelle, Ridgefield, Derby and Middlebury, Sing Sing and Croton, Sing Sing, Dutchess, Bedford, Shrub Oaks, New Castle and Pine's Bridge, Cortland. In 1853–54 he was supernumerary; and from 1855 to 1877 superannuated. On all his charges the precious fruit of an earnest ministry appeared. His sermons were well studied, earnest, logical, scriptural, informing the intellect, and moving the heart. It has been said that great sorrows either break or make men. Our sainted brother drank deeply from the cup of sorrow. The year after he landed at New York he followed to the grave a younger brother, the only relative this side of the Atlantic. Eight children were subsequently born into his family, filling parental hearts with hope and gladness. But sickness followed, and then death, until they were all surrendered to mother dust. Four died in childhood, four advanced to maturity, two of whom were married and left families. The aged pair stood at the graves of their eight children, and at the graves of some of their grandchildren. Under this stern discipline our brother was subdued and sweetened. When he found it necessary to retire from the active ranks, in 1853, he purchased a little homestead at New Castle, where, amid a loving people, to whom he had ministered, he spent nearly twenty-five of his ripened years. There many of us found him, and knew him for the first time. His mind was ever vigorous and cheerful. He went from his books to his garden, and when able to attend was never absent from the house of God. He was remarkably free from egotism and dogmatism. He was affable, modest, bland—a cultivated Christian gentleman of the rarest mold. His last years were spent in great feebleness, under increasing bodily infirmities, but his mind was too well poised and too well anchored to admit a murmur or a doubt. He had well learned the greatest lessons of human life, how to labor, to suffer, and to wait. In August he was seized with malarial fever, which refused to relinquish its grasp. His final discharge came at length, and the long chastened spirit took its flight to the realms of brightness and song.

5. ANDREW R. BURROUGHS was born at Stamford, N. Y., June 19, 1839, and died at Purdy's Station, Nov. 28, 1877. He was blessed with religious parents, who labored to train him in the way he should go, and their labors were not in vain. In early manhood he gave himself to the service of his God. His conversion occurred on Thanksgiving evening, Nov. 25, 1857. The change wrought in his heart by the Holy Spirit, when he surrendered to Christ, was of such a nature, and the evidences of its reality so clear, that he had no doubts. The day of his birth into the Christian life was to him the best of all he had known. It was an introduction to those joys in which the people of God rejoice while toiling on these lower grounds. From his conversion to the day of his death his watchword was "Onward," and his motto, "Holiness to the Lord."

Brother Burroughs joined the New York Conference in 1863, and received the following appointments: Durham, Livingstonville, Summit, Walton, Delhi, Malden, Purdy's Station, from which he was received to the Eternal City.

Brother Burroughs was a devoted husband, a kind father, and an earnest minister of the gospel of Jesus. His preaching ability was above the average. He was sound in doctrine and discipline, standing by the old landmarks, and yet keeping pace with the Church in her progress. Every charge he served was blessed by the pureness of his gospel teachings. His every-day life was a sermon to his people, and his social qualities secured him many friends. His last days were what might have been expected, days of peace and victorious joy. When he thought himself dying he said, "I have come down to the river, and all before me is bright and glorious. I did not think there could be so much joy. This is not dying; it is just beginning to live. The boatman is nearing the shore; I soon will be passing over. I shall soon be in heaven, washed in the blood of the Lamb." Many similar utterances fell from his lips. No doubts or fears were suffered for a moment to prevail. He gave loving advice to his family and attendant friends, and dictated messages to absent ones. Among his last words he was heard to say, "Jesus, never more near, never more dear, never more precious!" when he sang so as to be heard through the house—

"Jesus all the day long
Was my joy and my song."

6. WILLIAM HALL was born at Claryville, Sullivan County, N.Y., March 1, 1829, and died at West Hurley, New York, January 24, 1878, in his forty-ninth year. The prayers and religious training of a godly mother produced a salutary influence on his young life, and when eighteen years of age, at a watch-night service, he was happily converted, and united with the M. E. Church. To prepare for such work as the Spirit might indicate, he spent some time in acquiring an academic education at Liberty and Charlotteville. At the session of the New York Conference in 1853 he was admitted on trial, and stationed at Windham. The following February he was married to Miss Sarah J. Bushnell, who has proved herself well qualified for the responsible position she then assumed. His successive appointments were as follows: Livingstonville, Walton, Andes and Bovina, Prattsville, Ashland, Durham, Stone Ridge, Lee, Pleasant Valley, North Egremont and North Hillsdale, West Taghkanic and Glencoe Mills, and West Hurley. Most of his appointments were large circuits, and all very laborious, but in every one he left full proof of his ministry. During a very gracious revival which God gave him at Andes and Bovina, Brothers Walter Telford, A. R. Burroughs, J. J. Dean, and E. A. Boggs were brought into the Church, all of whom afterward became members of our Conference; the first two preceded and welcomed him to the Church triumphant.

While laboring at the District Camp-meeting, last August, Brother Hall was taken quite ill, and though he soon rallied so as to go on with his work, yet it became apparent that his general health was gradually failing. No one realized this more fully than himself, and he often remarked, "It seems to me that my work is fast closing up, and that what I do I must do quickly." Under this impression in the early fall he commenced extra meetings, and labored night after night with increasing success until, by the state of his health, he was compelled to close them. With the aid of his Church he conducted, as usual, a watch-night service, and at its close stated that it was the best he had ever enjoyed. The theme of his sermon was entire consecration, and the whole occasion was one never to be forgotten by those who enjoyed it. Through the Week of Prayer he held very impressive meetings each night until Saturday, Jan. 12, when he was too ill to attend. The severe cold he had taken terminated in pneumonia. He was conscious all through his sickness, and perfectly resigned. Apprehending that death was near he felt no alarm, but cheerfully gave up all for Christ. To a brother minister who called to see him, he said, "At the next Conference I complete twenty-five years of ministerial service, and I have thought it would be glorious for me to pass through the gate now. My thoughts will not stay here; they keep going on to the glory beyond. There are so many young men waiting at the Conference door, I am thinking perhaps God is about to make room for some one." When asked if he found the doctrines he had preached able to support him now, he answered, "O, yes, yes; I rest upon them; they are my support!" To another brother, he said, "I am securely resting on Christ; tell my congregation to place their whole trust in him." His family, consisting of a beloved wife and four children, lay very near his heart. His prayer for them was: "O Lord, I do not ask for them wealth or honor, but O give them new hearts, clean hearts, holy hearts; give them thyself;" and in reference to the same he said, "I have committed them to God; he can and will take care of them." As the time of his departure drew near, he said, "With Paul I can say, 'I have finished my course' joyfully; my soul has bathed in glory all day: I have perfect peace and confidence; if this is death, it is glorious! I have not a shadow of doubt; I have no right to doubt; I am going soon to see my Master." His triumph through divine grace was complete, till at last "the weary wheels of life stood still," and he exchanged the cross for the crown, the pain for the palm, and the thorn for the throne.

Brother Hall was a faithful minister of the New Testament, diligent, laborious, and zealous; excelling as a pastor and Sabbath-school worker, clear and demonstrative as a preacher, bold as a champion of the truth, and firm and persevering in waging war against evil; he was an able advocate of the temperance cause, untiring in its defense, practically carrying out its principles to the end of life. His physicians prescribed the use of ardent spirits as a stimulant in his last sickness, but he positively refused to take or even be bathed with it, unless he could be assured that it would positively save his life. As this could not be done, he died without its use, true to his convictions of principle and duty. In all his home relations and duties he was pleasant, affectionate, and faithful, honored and respected most by those who knew him best.

Amos Binney, Abraham M. Osgood,* Thomas J. Abbott, Hector Brownson—4.

1. AMOS BINNEY was born in Hull, Mass., October 30, 1802, and died in peace in New Haven, Conn., March 29, 1878. At the age of sixteen he was converted under the labors of Rev. E. T. Taylor, by whom he was baptized and received into the Church, and who always called him "my boy." He attended the New Market Academy, where during one year he received all his institutional education above the common school. He left the academy and entered upon mercantile business, thinking he was called only to the local ministry; but under a fervent sermon by Bishop George, at the session of the New England Conference, in 1825, at East Cambridge, he was constrained to give himself wholly to the Christian ministry by entering the itinerant ranks in 1826. He received the following appointments from the New England Conference: Kingston, N. H.; Little Compton, R. I.; Mansfield, Mass.; Stonington, Conn.; Mansfield and Taunton; Rochester, R. I.; Falmouth, Weston, South-st., Lynn; Easton and Stoughton, Andover and North Reading, Newburyport, Roxbury, Danvers, Park-street, Worcester, Three Rivers, Agent of Wesleyan University, Springfield District, Charlestown District. He located in 1854, but in 1857 he was readmitted, and thenceforward was either supernumerary or nominally appointed. He was a delegate to the General Conference in 1852.

To Brother Binney it was a comforting reflection that he should be preaching the glorious Gospel when his tongue should be silent in death. In his last sickness he expressed full trust in the Lord Jesus Christ. His last words were, "All is well, all is well!"

Brother Binney was married to Caroline Wilder, who died in 1847. Her daughter, Harriet Binney, is the wife of Daniel Steele, of the New England Conference. He was married the second time, in 1849, to Isabella Hill, who survives him.

Brother Binney was characterized by great fidelity to the M. E. Church, and by a spirit of liberality and cheerful self-sacrifice in promoting her interests. He rendered excellent pioneer service in four New England States. He was also characterized by tireless industry in every department of pastoral labor, and especially by constant efforts for the theological enlightenment of the masses. He had a remarkable insight into the religious wants and difficulties of the common people. His ability to supply such wants was his particular genius, or gift of the Spirit, as is shown by the remarkable success of his "Theological Compend," which has attained a circulation of forty thousand in the English language. It was found by our missionaries and by some others that this book contains the most clear and succinct statement of Christian truth. Hence it has been translated into Arabic, Chinese, German, Swedish, Bulgarian, and Spanish, and efforts are now being made to translate it into Italian and Japanese. The last eighteen years of his life were spent in the preparation of the "People's Commentary." A few days before his death a copy of the published work was put into his hands. He received it with tears of gratitude to God for prolonging his life in answer to prayer in 1864, when he was stricken by sickness and his life was despaired of by the best physicians. This commentary is the first which Methodism has completed since the publication of Adam Clarke's annotations.

* Obituary not received.

2. THOMAS J. ABBOTT was born in Hartley, Canada, July 5, 1831. He was converted in very early life. He joined the Church at Derby, Vt., in 1849. His preparation for the ministry was made at the Theological School in Concord, from which institution he graduated with honor. In 1853 he was licensed to preach, and in April, 1858, was admitted on trial in the New England Conference, his first appointment being East Brookfield. He was subsequently stationed at Dudley, Oakdale, Southbridge, Leominster, Swampscott, Marlborough, Holyoke, and Greenfield, all in the New England Conference.

In 1873 he was transferred to South Carolina Conference and stationed at Centenary Church, Charleston, which he served for three years. He then returned to this Conference and was stationed at South Lawrence. On Sabbath, March 3, he preached on the "sure foundation." On his return home he was annoyed by an irritation which by Wednesday developed into a malignant pustule. He suddenly became delirious, and on Thursday, March 7, he ended his labors, and entered into rest.

Brother Abbott was a conscientious, outspoken man, and in all things relating to human freedom he was as heroic as John Brown, and as intense a hater of caste as was that remarkable man. He was a man of great simplicity as well as earnestness of character. It is recorded in the volume in which the New England Conferences embalms the memories of its sons, that on entering the ministry he bound himself by the two following resolutions:—

"1. That, after the example of our fathers in the Gospel, with all plainness of speech I would preach a free, full, and present salvation from all sin. And in this great work my only reliance for success shall be on the Holy Ghost, by whose inspiration alone it is that the Gospel is made the power of God unto salvation; and in my Master's service I solemnly promise to labor until I

> My body and my charge lay down,
> And cease at once to work and live.

"2. Knowing the power and sin of covetousness, I do hereby solemnly promise that one tenth of my salary, be it great or small, shall be devoted to benevolent objects such as in my judgment I shall think proper.

"These resolutions, made on entering the ministry have never been made public, not even to the most intimate, and should you put them on the Conference record, where they will remain silent until I shall cease to speak, you are at liberty to do so."

It may be truthfully said that Brother Abbott lived and died in the spirit of these resolutions. He was a man of great simplicity and earnestness of character. He did his work as a Methodist preacher with rare fidelity. In life he was prayerful and pure; in death he was triumphant. "Blessed is the man who at the coming of his Lord shall in like manner be found watching."

3. HECTOR BROWNSON was born at Vernon, Conn., October 7, 1791. He belonged to a typical Puritan family. On him its stern moral teachings were not lost, and when he was twenty years of age its essential evangelical truth bore spiritual fruit in a genuine conversion. He was powerfully awakened under a sermon by a pioneer Methodist preacher, and converted soon after under a parlor exhortation given by a Mrs. Hanks, one of the noble Christian women of her day. He immediately joined the Methodists, much to the grief, at the time, of his truly pious mother. But the itinerants soon came to the mother's village, and she followed her son into the fold under their care. Brownson's sterling good sense, sanctified by a deep work of grace, soon gave him prominence, especially as a class leader. He enlisted in the service of his country in the war of 1812; was in several engagements; came out of it with great credit and a lieutenant's commission.

Brother Brownson was married to Lucy Gallup, December, 1815, a lady of gifts, culture, and great weight of Christian character—a character which ever broadened and grew more commanding in its influence. To her he owed a perpetual inspiration to holy living and efficient labor for Christ. They celebrated their golden wedding January 1, 1865.

He commenced preaching, in 1825; was ordained deacon at Lynn in 1828, and elder in 1830. In 1838 he entered the service of the American Bible Society, in which he continued thirty-nine years, closing his labors and his life nearly at the same time.

Many will remember his semi-centennial sermon at the session of this Conference held in Lynn, in 1877. When the choir sang, "My latest sun is sinking fast," his soul was thrilled with joy. He seemed to hear "the noise of wings," and catch the not far-off songs of the angel welcome home. The Sabbath before he left his family for the Conference he assisted his pastor in the administration of the Lord's Supper. He said, "This is probably the last communion I shall enjoy with you. For sixty-eight years I have been in the service of Jesus. It never was more blessed than now. The prospect before me was never brighter." A few weeks later, when he was struck down by sickness, he said, "Tell my brethren of the New England Conference I die in peace." On the Sabbath morning of April 30, 1877, he was seated in his rocking-chair. His head reclined, and his countenance lighted up with a pleasant smile, as if while seeming to fall asleep in death he was waking to eternal life.

QUEST. 12. Have any Withdrawn?

T. R. Slicer, W. Lawrence, J. L. Hall, Richard Meredith—4.

QUEST. 13. Have any been Transferred, and to what Conference?

William Elder, to Michigan; S. C. Keeler, to New Hampshire —2.

QUEST. 14. Have any been Expelled?

None.

QUEST. 15. Have any died?

A. B. Pulling, C. B. Sing, E. E. Griswold—3.

1. ALONZO B. PULLING was born at Ridgefield, Conn., Nov. 28, 1818. He experienced religion in the summer of 1840. In 1842 he was given a license to exhort, and March 1, 1845, to preach. He was received in the New York Conference in the following May, and appointed to Ponsett and Killingworth Circuit, which he served two years. He was admitted to full membership June 21, 1848, and ordained Deacon. He was then appointed to West Granby, which charge he served two years; ordained an elder at New Haven, May, 1850, and appointed to Pleasant Valley and New Hartford Mission, where he labored two years. He thenceforth served New Milford, Woodbury, Berlin, supernumerary one year, Southington and Forestville, Westport, Ansonia, Seymour, New Milford, Nichol's Farms, Roxbury, East Village and Riverside. At the close of these years, in 1876, his failing health compelled him to take a superannuated relation. During the year the Church at Seymour was left without pastor, and, by its request, notwithstanding his extreme physical weakness, he removed his family there and served it until the close of the Conference year, when he returned to East Village, where in calm trust in God, and in great peace of soul, he went slowly down to the crossing of Jordan. He died Jan. 12, 1878, his last official act being the uniting in marriage his daughter to Mr. Bliss, of East Village.

Brother Pulling loved his work. His heart was given to the Church. It was to him an inspiration, and he toiled on gladly, ofttimes in such bodily infirmity that from a sense of dizziness he often feared that he would fall prostrate in the pulpit. He was a good minister of the Lord Jesus Christ. His mind was active and fruitful to devise ways and means to secure the prosperity of the Churches he served. He possessed good sterling common sense, and had a rare capability of attending to all matters of interest to the Churches. In the twenty-seven years of efficient work he left but one charge at the end of the first year, and in one he labored five years. We regard this a good record. In his ministry he was successful. Revivals resulted from God's blessing upon his preaching, and he was careful that, as far as possible, none of the converts should be lost to the Church. He was a faithful shepherd, feeding the lambs of the Lord's flock. If a minister is to be estimated by the amount of good and permanent work which, under God, he accomplishes, then may Alonzo B. Pulling be highly esteemed, and his name be a fragrance in the remembrance of his brethren.

2. CHARLES B. SING died in Brooklyn, Feb. 28, 1878. He was born at Sing Sing, Sept. 15, 1815. In 1831 he entered the Military Academy at West Point, and graduated with honor in 1835. After a brief interval he was assigned to duty as a lieutenant in the Seminole War in Florida. At the conclusion of the war he resigned his commission and commenced the study of the law at Sing Sing. The occasional reading of an old copy of the Bible, used in the office for the administration of oaths, led to the discovery of his condition as a sinner before God. He at once became intensely concerned for the salvation of his soul; but a deeply wrought conviction that, in the event of his conversion, he must become a Methodist preacher, operated as an obstruction to the full surrender of himself to God. During the debate which occurred in his mind, alternating between hope and despair, which continued for several weeks, he visited a camp-meeting in the neighborhood; and while listening to a sermon on Luke xiv, 26, he resolutely determined to abandon all for Christ. This was quickly followed by the clear and satisfactory assurance of the divine acceptance. Following the guidance of the Holy Spirit, he exercised himself in prayer and exhortation until, in 1839, he was licensed to preach, and in the spring of 1840 was admitted on trial in the New York Conference. In the New York and New York East Conferences he filled successively the following appointments: Riverhead, Southold, and Greenport, Bushwick, (now Cook-street,) Bridgehampton, Red Hook Mission, Rhinebeck, Mulberry-street, (now St. Paul's,) New York, New Rochelle, White Plains, Newburgh, First Church; Eighteenth-street, New York; Tarrytown, Red Hook; First Church, Kingston; Summerfield Church, Brooklyn; South Second-street, Brooklyn; Twenty-seventh-street, New York; Middletown, Presiding Elder Long Island North District; supernumerary one year, and in 1877, Conference Temperance Agent. A record unsurpassed in the history of the pastorate, and clearly indicating the high estimate in which he was held by the authorities of the Church.

Two elements pre-eminently distinguished our lamented brother, great conscientiousness and extreme diffidence—the former a religious, the latter a constitutional element. His conscientiousness led him to perform duty and meet responsibility with unswerving fidelity. His diffidence led him to undervalue his own capabilities and possibilities, and induced him to prefer others to himself. There is every reason to believe that nothing but a conscientious conviction of duty could have either engaged or continued him in the work of the Christian ministry. In his mental structure Brother Sing was solid rather than brilliant, practical rather than speculative. Hence he dealt in verities rather than in fancies, and was happily preserved from those questionings which not unfrequently unsettle faith in cardinal truths of revelation, and engender a spirit of disloyalty to established principles of Church order. As a preacher, he was didactic and strictly evangelical. He taught the people out of the Scriptures, if not with vehemence and impassioned eloquence, yet with perspicuity and impressiveness. In style he was compact, lucid, and oftentimes forcible. His thoughts were well arranged, and his subjects well digested. In manner he was dignified, and courteous in his bearing. As a Christian, in the various relations of life, in all things he adorned the doctrines of God our Saviour—maintaining to the end a reputation for integrity and consistency unsullied and irreproachable. Viewed as a whole, he presented a character of rare excellence, well rounded and symmetrical. His death came suddenly and unexpectedly. But calmly, confidently, and hopefully he acquiesced in the divine mandate, expressing his implicit trust in the sufficiency of the atonement, and his hope of a blissful immortality.

3. EDWIN E. GRISWOLD died in Danbury, Conn., April 3, in the seventy-eighth year of his age and forty-ninth of his ministry. He had been a member of the New York East Conference since its organization, having been a member of the New York Conference since 1829.

Brother Griswold was of New England birth, and received the culture afforded by her common schools, and widened that culture by persistent reading, until he stood among our best English scholars. During his ministry he filled with acceptance some of the best appointments in our work. As a preacher he commanded the respect of all his congregations, and was noticeable for sound sense, and an impressive utterance, and the clearest rhetoric. He was one of the most successful ministers in public prayer, and was sought for on all public occasions to which he had any relation for the performance of this service. There was no man among us, when he was in the prime of his ministry, that was more to be relied upon in the expression and enforcement of his convictions. He was not given to over frequent utterances before the Conference; but he never faltered in maintaining what he thought to be just and right. In all the slavery agitation in this country he was steadily an advocate for freedom. His ministry was, perhaps, most remarkable for its influence in perfecting the saints; but he had a number of important revivals during his ministry, the most remarkable of which was while he was pastor at Newburgh. As a Presiding Elder he was conscientious and kind and modest, and was regarded by the authorities as a safe and reliable counselor. For the last six years he has sustained a superannuated relation, and for the most part has had very feeble health; but he maintained a dignified and patient spirit, and died in the faith of the Gospel he preached, in the community where he has lived, as pastor, presiding elder, and superannuate, for nearly a quarter of a century, universally respected and beloved.

J. M. Brown, R. Burns, J. R. Davis—3.

1. JOHN M. BROWN was born in Mayfield, N. Y., August 12, 1835. About twenty-five years ago he removed to Steuben County, Ind., where he was married to Miss Arlitta Holden, with whom he lived until her death. During the late civil war he served his country faithfully for more than three years. December 28, 1863, he was united in marriage to Mary J. Sloan, who still survives to mourn her loss. In 1870 he was appointed by the presiding elder of Fort Wayne District as supply on the Corunna Circuit. He filled out the year very acceptably, and at its close was admitted on trial in the North Indiana Conference, and appointed in charge of Harlem Circuit, where he served for three years with great acceptability. From thence he went to the Warren Circuit, where he labored for two years, when he was sent to the Antioch Circuit, and was filling out his second year when he was suddenly stricken down.

Brother Brown was a man of unswerving fidelity. The Sabbath before his death he preached three times, and returned home at night after a long ride through muddy roads. From that time until the evening before his death he suffered with pain in his head; he preached night after night, however, during the week, and seemed to labor with his usual fervor on Thursday evening. On Friday morning, January 18, as he went with a friend to Huntington, he was taken with a severe pain in his head, but he continued his journey until he arrived at the Methodist parsonage in Huntington, when it was found that he was unable to help himself from the buggy, and his friends carried him to the house. A dispatch was immediately sent to his wife and family, but though only six miles away they could not reach the place before his spirit had taken its flight. Death found him ready, and with full assurance of a blessed home in heaven he sank peacefully to rest in the arms of Jesus.

2. ROBERT BURNS was born in South Carolina, April 10, 1794, and died near Akron, Indiana, October 2, 1877, in his eighty-third year. In his ninth year his parents moved to Warren County, Ohio, where he spent the years of his youth. Though his opportunities for obtaining an education were limited, yet he diligently stored his mind with knowledge, which was of great benefit to him in after years. His parents being members of the Baptist Church, he was early taught to reverence the house of God and his word. In his seventeenth year he was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, and soon began to exercise his gifts in singing, praying, and exhorting. In his twenty-second year he was licensed to preach, and was soon after sent by the presiding elder to labor on Paint Creek Circuit. Here he commenced his grand itinerant work, extending over a period of fifty-six years. In 1824 he came to Indiana, at that time almost a wilderness, where his voice was heard in the log-cabins proclaiming salvation to a people hungry for the Gospel. He was admitted into the Illinois Conference in 1826, which then embraced most of the State of Indiana, and appointed to Connersville Circuit, where for two years he labored with great acceptability. He continued to travel in the White Water Valley until he was appointed presiding elder of Centerville District, where he remained four years, giving good satisfaction to both preachers and people. At last his strong constitution gave way, and in 1843 he was granted a superannuated relation, which he held up to the time of his death. In this relation he was not idle, but as his health permitted he preached Christ and him crucified to the people. The Sabbath previous to his last sickness he proclaimed the Gospel he loved so well. The next day he was taken with a chill, and continued to decline until he joyfully and triumphantly entered into rest.

As a man, Father Brown was beloved: as a preacher, he was clear, pointed, and successful. The oldest member of his Conference, he has joined the conference above, having closed up a long religious and ministerial life nobly and grandly.

8 J. R. DAVIS was born in Cartright County, N. C., in 1812. He moved to Indiana in 1831, and was married about 1835. He was, by birthright, a member of the Friends Society until 1837, when he united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was licensed to exhort in 1841, and to preach in 1843. He entered the North Indiana Conference in 1845, and labored with great success until 1860, when he broke down in health, and took a superannuated relation, which he sustained until death, which occurred in Wabash, Ind., May 17, 1877.

Brother Davis was a good husband, a kind father, and a devoted Christian—always sacrificing self-interest for the good of his family and the cause of his Master. His wife and four of his children preceded him to the better land. His resignation under adversity was exemplary, if not unequaled. Under affliction, which was often extreme, he bowed with Christian fortitude and submission to the will of the Master. During his last illness, which lasted only five days, he frequently expressed a wish to go and be at rest. His mind was constantly on the other world, so that expressions such as "O my blessed Jesus!" "My blessed Lord!" "My dear Saviour!" frequently dropped from his lips; and finally, surrounded by the remnants of his family, he passed quietly away, without a struggle or a murmur.

L. D. Barrows.

LORENZO DOW BARROWS, D.D. An eminent writer says: "Characters of exalted Christian and intellectual worth constitute an impressive heritage of the Church and the world." Of such a character we now give a brief record. Lorenzo Dow, son of Isaac and Hannah Barrows, was born in Windham, Vt., July 1, 1817. He was the fourth of six children. He was converted at Windham, Vt., in 1831, at the age of fourteen, and was baptized and received into the M. E. Church the same year. He was licensed to exhort in June, 1835, and to preach the latter part of the same year. He joined the New Hampshire Conference on trial in 1836, and was received into full connection and ordained deacon at Danville, Vt., in 1838, and elder in 1840. His appointments were as follows: Keene Circuit, Marlow, Rindge, N. H.; Perkinsville, Vt.; Plymouth, N. H.; Newbury, Vt.; Nashua, New Market, N. H.; Lawrence, Mass.; Manchester, N. H.; Clinton-street, Newark, N. J.; High-street, Charlestown; St. Paul's, Lowell, Mass.; Union Chapel, Cincinnati, Ohio; President of Pittsburgh Female College, Pa.; Sanbornton Bridge, N. H.; Tremont-street, Boston; Walnut-street, Chelsea, Mass.; President of New Hampshire Conference Seminary and Female College; Concord District; Grace Church, Haverhill; Haverhill-st., Lawrence, Mass.; Dover District; New Hampshire Conference Seminary and Female College. His intensely earnest and very useful earthly life terminated in Plymouth, N. H., at four P. M. on February 18th, 1878, in his sixty-first year.

Doctor Barrows received a thorough academic training at the New Hampshire and Vermont Conference Seminaries, but as he was a student by nature he carried his investigations far beyond the curriculum of those excellent institutions. He was an eminent educator. He was manly and dignified, but always easy and graceful, and his pupils felt free to manifest the best that was in them. His chapel exercises were neither dull nor tedious, but interesting and instructive. He endeavored to make the study of the Bible a delight. He was one of the originators of the "Methodist General Biblical Institute." He defended theological training when it was unpopular in our Church, and lived to see three such schools well established, and to see them recognized as indispensable aids in the preparation of young men for the most effective ministerial work. As a teacher he aimed at the broadest culture, and sought to educate the whole man. He had an exalted estimate of the importance of mental training. He felt that too little attention was given to the education of the true lady and gentleman. He had the most intense abhorrence of boorishness, and sought in the most inoffensive ways to correct the little faults that mar so many lives. His work at the institution which interested him so deeply was reluctantly relinquished but ten days before his death. The seminary, and especially the Ladd professorship, was on his heart, and was the frequent theme of his conversation till the last.

Doctor Barrows received the honorary degree of A.M. from Wesleyan University in 1858, and of D.D. from Washington College, Pa., in 1859. He represented his Conference in the General Conferences of 1848, 1860, 1868, and 1876. He was both a great and a good preacher, his preaching being characterized by singular clearness, great force, irresistible logic, and fervid eloquence. He also excelled as a platform speaker, and was a powerful advocate of our connectional interests. He found time to discuss all the vital questions of the day, and thus "served his own generation." The cause of temperance has had few advocates as effective as Dr. Barrows. In the pulpit and on the platform, at conferences and conventions, before legislatures, and in all proper places, he was ever ready to press the claims of this great cause. He was a warm friend of the Sunday-school, and was President of the New Hampshire State Sunday-School Association from November, 1876.

to the day of his death. While in the South in pursuit of health, during the fall and winter of 1871–2, he threw himself into the cause of the freedmen as he had thrown himself into the cause of the bondmen in former years. He returned full of zeal for the Freedmen's Aid Society, and pressed its claims upon us with great force. During the autumn of 1876 his brethren urged him to take a vacation, and he spent it visiting our fall conferences in the interest of this society.

As a writer Dr. Barrows manifested great good sense. His revision of Holyoake's "Rudiments of Public Speaking and Debate" showed his ability as a critic. Though this work has been before the public nearly twenty years, it is abreast of the age today. His "Manual of Chapel Services," for schools and colleges, and also for the family, is a useful work, and one that has done good service in the past and will live for years to come. His establishment of the "Prohibition Herald," which he edited and controlled from March, 1870, till September, 1871, in addition to his other duties, was no mean index of his power as a writer and editor.

Doctor Barrows was married June 29, 1839, at the age of twenty-two, to Miss Minerva E. Chase, who is still with us, greatly esteemed and beloved by all who know her. This union has been exceptionally happy, and has been blessed by the gift of three daughters, whose character and accomplishments evince the bestowment of careful culture on the part of their parents. Doctor Barrows was very courteous and hospitable in his home. He was a kind husband and a tender father. He was a strict economist, and so was enabled to aid the various benevolent objects of the Church. One of his last acts before his departure was to send his check for fifty dollars each to our Churches at Keene and Newmarket.

"A great and a good man in Israel has fallen." In the midst of those he loved, to whom he gave the parting message of sanctified affection, and with triumphant utterances of Christian trust and hope, he peacefully and painlessly departed to the delightful and unwearying activities of the Church triumphant. His last utterances were what we might expect at the close of such a life: "I desire to know all that Paul meant by glorying in tribulations." "Bury me under the pines, by the side of little Nina, there to remain until the earth shall give up her dead." "Take care of the Ladd professorship; the people will, if you tell them." "Farewell, wife; farewell to those who are not here; farewell to my fellow-workers; farewell to all."

C. C. Gilbert, Geo. S. Gold—2.

1. CHARLES C. GILBERT was admitted on trial in the Troy Conference in 1843, and died in Champlain, of nervous prostration, on March 13, 1878.

Brother Gilbert was one of nature's noblemen; dignified, unassuming, and thoughtful. Few men were more prudent and safe in council. With a power of discernment and a heart to sympathize with others, he was an excellent adviser in all business complications and difficulties, whether in the affairs of the Church or of his friends. As a preacher he was discreet, thoughtful, safe, and sound; and the people were edified and instructed by his ministrations.

The peculiar nature of the disease of which he died subjected him to very severe and protracted suffering. For two years he was never free from pain, and this often depressed his spirit; so much so that he talked but little, but his life and confidently expressed faith in God give us good reason to hope that with him to die was gain. A widow and three adult sons remain to mourn his decease.

2. GEORGE S. GOLD was born in Edinburgh, Scotland, Nov. 11, 1813, and died in Greenfield, N. Y., Feb. 21, 1878. When he was but nine years old (his father having died) his mother brought him and a brother a few years older to this country, and settled in Willsborough, N. Y. At the age of nineteen he united with the M. E. Church, and joined the Troy Conference in 1841. In 1846 he married Mary E. Rood, of Mooers, N. Y., a most estimable lady. Five children, with their mother, mourn his death. The name of our departed brother well expresses his character. He was of sound judgment, stern integrity, and great faithfulness in all the work which God gave him to do. No long eulogy of well-turned periods is needed to render his name fragrant in the memory of all who knew him.

In the thirty-seven years of his ministry he served in seventeen different charges; to three he was returned after a lapse of years. In most of them he preached two years, and in the last two before that on which he died, three years.

While yet a youth he and his brother were called to South Carolina as heirs in the estate of a deceased uncle. They found that in the division of the property their share came to them in slaves. They felt that these were wards providentially committed to them, for whose welfare they were responsible. For one who wished to remain they obtained, at some expense, free papers. In the case of another, in whom they were part owners, they purchased the rights of the other heirs. And then they brought them all north, and settled them in the town where they themselves resided. The whole affair cost them, of their own hard earnings, nearly seven hundred dollars. The nobility of this act will be seen when it will be remembered that the slave power was never more arrogant than at that period, while the whole North, secular and ecclesiastical, either openly defended or persistently apologized for slavery. The very few that dared to speak a word against property in man—the old Methodist doctrine—were reproached, denounced, and persecuted. His early educational advantages appear to have been limited to the common school. But by reading and reflection he secured such knowledge of men and things, in the history of the past and the current events of the day, that he was often spoken of, as a living or walking encyclopedia. His well-stored mind made his preaching solid and instructive rather than showy and sensational. While he was not a revival preacher, he was by no means without fruit in the conversion of souls. By the poor he was greatly beloved, and every-where he commanded the respect of the men of the highest intelligence. He was well read in medicine, and was ready at proper times to afford help in needy cases. A member of his last charge writes: "We had learned to highly prize Brother Gold; his ways were so pleasant and kind to all. With his quiet manner he silenced all controversy by listening to, but not repeating, the tales of trouble and annoyance in the Church and community, and every body loved him. We feel that the Church generally, as well as ourselves, have lost a good and noble man." On February 21, with his wife, he spent the day in visiting some members who had been kept from the sanctuary by illness. Returning home at evening, he was unloosing his horse from the carriage, when, suddenly taken with great pain, he turned to go to the house. He took a few steps, fell, and expired. His son, who was present, ran to him, but he was gone.

Hezekiah S. Ramsdell, Anthony Palmer—2.

1. Hezekiah S. Ramsdell was born at Chatham, Conn., Dec. 4, 1804. When ten years old, at the death of his father, he began to work his own way in life. He was converted at sixteen, and commenced preaching at nineteen. He joined the New England Conference on trial in 1825, and was ordained deacon in 1827 and elder in 1829. His fields of labor were Needham, Chelsea, Vt.; Craftsbury, Vt.; Irisburgh, Vt.; Tolland, Conn.; Windsor, Conn.; Tolland and Stafford, Manchester, Conn.; East Putnam, Conn.; Colchester, Conn.; East Putnam, Vernon, Conn.; Vernon and Windsorville, East Putnam, Coventry. From 1833 to 1861, and again from 1868 to his death, Brother Ramsdell was retired from active work through failing health, yet occasionally preached. He also delivered addresses and lectures, especially on temperance, of which he was an earnest, able advocate. He served with marked ability in the Senate of the State of Connecticut, and filled various offices of responsibility and trust. Those conversant with his comparatively brief active ministry speak of him as an able, eloquent preacher, and as equally an indefatigable pastor. In one locality his earnest advocacy of truth raised the anger of some, and they resolved at his next visit to tar and feather him. It was no idle threat; the preparations were made; his brethren urged him not to go, but he was fearless, and went. The leader of the mob was awakened, converted, and became his fast friend. Many living revere his name, and many spiritual children preceded him to the heavenly land. A few days after his death a letter was received by the family addressed to him from a lady, Dr. Rachel H. Allyn, who about fifty years ago was converted to God, then a young girl, under his pastoral care. The letter is vital with fragrant memories of the pious influence and affectionate care of her then young pastor. It came too late; being suddenly smitten with apoplexy he passed from earth to heaven October 23, 1877.

Brother Ramsdell was married in 1829 to Miss Emeline Nichols, of Thompson, Conn., who, after nearly a half century, now in advanced life and widowhood, with the surviving children, lives to mourn and wait. To her and them we offer our tender sympathy and kindly regards.

2. ANTHONY PALMER was born in Woodstock, Conn., March 23, 1815, and died in Norwich, Conn., June 13, 1877. He was joyously converted May 25, 1830, and during the summer united with the Congregational Church, of which his parents were worthy members. He ever cherished a high regard for the Church of his fathers.

Feeling that a "dispensation of the Gospel" was committed to him, he commenced a course of study with a view to that calling. In 1834 he took a letter from his Church, and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. The same year he entered Wesleyan University, Middletown. He was licensed to preach June 13, 1837. In July, 1838, he was admitted on trial in the New England Conference, and appointed to South Wellfleet. He graduated from college the same year, and soon after receiving his diploma he started for his charge. He remained two years, and had a revival each year, resulting in an addition of fifty members. He was ordained deacon July 5, 1840, and appointed to Yarmouth Port. "After Conference," he says, "I took a trip to Tolland, and was married to Lydia Howard, July 21, 1840, by Brother Caleb Rogers." His wife was from old Methodist stock, and was an intelligent, devoted Christian lady.

The same year (1840) the New England Conference was divided, and the Providence Conference was formed, of which he became a member. In 1841 his appointment was Northwestern Bridgewater, where he remained two years, and witnessed a wonderful work of grace, which resulted in the organization of the Church at North Bridgewater, now Brockton. He was ordained elder July 12, 1842. After this he served Monument, Fisherville, Thompsonville, Rockville, Greenville, South Truro, Eastham, Colchester, Hazardville, New London District, Mystic Bridge, Danielsonville, Fisherville, Chaplain of the Twelfth New York Cavalry, Centerville, R. I., supernumerary one year, Baltic, Conn. His wife, who had patiently endured the trials of the itinerancy for twenty-eight years, went to this station with impaired health, and suddenly passed to her heavenly home shortly after Conference.

In 1869 he was stationed for the second time in Greenville, Conn. In the spring of that year he was married to Mrs. Fanny Buell. He then served East Haddam, Niantic, and, in 1875, Cumberland, R. I. In great feebleness he closed the year and his effective work in the ministry. In 1876 he was returned superannuated, and took up his residence in Norwich, Conn., where he died in full hope of a blessed immortality, leaving his wife and two daughters, with a large circle of friends, to mourn their loss.

Brother Palmer possessed some of the most essential qualities and characteristics for success in the ministry. He had a somewhat commanding presence. His voice was excellent. Many will recall his songs, exhortations, prayers, and sermons at our camp-meetings. He was a plain and fearless preacher. Convinced that he was called of God, he endeavored to carry out the mind of God as far as possible. He was an excellent pastor and social friend. He entertained very humble views of himself. Other men, with less abilities, would have secured position; but he evidently thought that the greatest honor mortal could share would be the reward of fidelity to Christ and souls. He was conscientious almost to a fault, and at the same time he possessed a remarkable fondness for social life and enjoyment; but all must be in harmony with his profession and the Gospel he preached. He was a progressive man, and enjoyed educational and reformatory assemblages. It was with some effort and self-denial that he contributed to the cause of education. But his work is done. He died well. The Gospel he had preached to others for forty years sustained him. During his last days he gave such a living demonstration of the doctrine he believed and preached—"The blood of Jesus Christ his Son cleanseth from all sin"—that the exclamation fell from the lips of loved ones in deep sympathy with him, "Perfect through suffering!"

Jonathan Fairbanks, Ruel F. French, James Armstrong, Noah Hobart—4.

1. JONATHAN FAIRBANKS was born in Harrison, Maine, April 1, 1811, and died May 16, 1877, aged sixty-six years. For some years he held a local preacher's license, and in 1836 was ordained a local deacon by Bishop Hedding, at Portland. In 1844 he joined the Maine Conference, and was ordained elder by the same bishop. For thirty years he sustained an effective relation to the Maine Conference, filling the various appointments assigned him with fidelity and success. In his last field of labor at Fairfield Center he wrought with more than his wonted zeal and success, and as the result a goodly number were converted. He scarcely left an appointment without seals of his ministry in the conversion of souls.

In 1877 he was appointed to North Augusta by Bishop Scott; but ere he could reach this field, the great Shepherd and chief Bishop of the Church militant called him to paradise. The last weeks of his life were attended with great suffering, and with corresponding triumph. He loved the Church of his choice, her doctrines and discipline; was a good man, and a sound, successful preacher. He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him.

RUEL F. FRENCH was born in Athens, Me., July 30, 1834, and died at the same place August 29, 1877, aged forty-three years. He was converted in 1869 and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. Was licensed as a local preacher in 1870, and joined the Maine Conference in 1871. In 1873 he was ordained deacon by Bishop Haven, and Elder by Bishop Andrews in 1875. For six years he performed faithful service for Christ and his Church in the Maine Conference, and gave promise of much future usefulness. But through the inscrutable providence of God, his prospects were blighted by disease, which prematurely terminated his earthly career, and our brother now awaits the reward of his brief but faithful ministry.

3. JAMES ARMSTRONG entered the Maine Conference in 1854, and died in Cambridge, Mass., Nov. 22, 1877, aged fifty-four years. For some fifteen years Brother Armstrong performed efficient service in the Maine Conference; afterward he sustained a supernumerary and superannuated relation to the Conference to the time of his decease.

As a preacher he was original, able, and eloquent. Prior to his death he expressed a desire that no eulogy of him or his services should be spoken or written after his decease save this, "Saved through the merit of Christ, and if made useful to others, it was by his grace." Just as he was entering the gate of death his companion asked, "Is all well now?" he replied, "Yes, all is well." "The gospel I preached to others I fully trust," and passed over the river.

NOAH HOBART was born in Temple, Me., April 20, 1814, and died in Augusta December 20, 1877, aged sixty-three years. He was converted and united with the M. E. Church at the early age of seventeen years. He united with the Maine Conference in 1842, and sustained an effective relation in the Conference until 1877, at which time failing health compelled him to take a superannuated relation, having been thirty-five years in the regular work. He was a good man, with marked traits of character, upright, like the palm-tree, correct in life and conversation, and possessing a goodness of heart which gave a luster and charm to all his endowments and ministerial work. As a preacher he was original, fearless in the utterance of truth, attempting no display, and content with an approving conscience and the honor of his Lord. He was a peacemaker, a seed-sower, and the fields of his labor were often the scenes of gracious revivals. In his decease the Conference has lost one of its most faithful co-laborers and worthy members.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

G. P. Porter, D. Davies, J. Mulkey—3.

1. GEORGE P. PORTER was born in Berwick, Pa., and died in Cowlesville, N. Y., June 11, 1877. When about four years of age he came with his parents to Wilkesbarre, Pa., where he spent his boyhood. At twenty-one he was emphatically a man of the world, a very fast young man. He did not believe in a religion that proposed the least check upon the indulgences which his strong nature craved. But by some means he was induced to attend a religious meeting where God was converting sinners, and, to the great astonishment of all who knew him, when the invitation was given George P. Porter went forward, earnestly sought and triumphantly found "the great salvation." The news of his wonderful conversion spread near and far. His old companions could not doubt his sincerity and honesty; they trembled under the power of an experience uttered in terms so impressive and eloquent, and enforced by an example that declared it all genuine—a work of God. He immediately united with the Methodist Episcopal Church. From the beginning he seemed to feel that it was his duty to preach the Gospel, and commenced at once calling sinners to repentance. As nearly as the writer can ascertain it was in the year 1847, while residing in Kingston, that he traveled the North Moreland Circuit. In the year 1848 he was married to Miss Frances Worthing, the excellent preceptress of Wyoming Seminary, a lady whose praise has been, as it deserved to be, in all the Churches where she and her husband labored. His next charge was Montrose, where he gave proof of a strong ministry. He joined the Oneida Conference in 1849, of which he remained a member until the division of said Conference, when he became a member of Wyoming Conference. After serving a number of years on important stations and in the office of presiding elder, he took a transfer to the Western New York Conference, and was stationed at Grace Church, in the city of Buffalo, where we heard of him as a mighty preacher. After serving other fields he was, by special request, returned to Wyoming Conference, and stationed in the city of Scranton. He was still a son of thunder; but impaired and failing health pointed to retirement from the active ranks, and he took a superannuated relation and settled at Cowlesville. In the language of a venerated Methodist historian, he was "rein-racked and center shook;" and no wonder, for usually when he preached every power of mind, soul, and body was taxed to its utmost capacity, producing a strain that would have worn out ordinary constitutions many years before his powerful organism gave way. As a consequence, he was a great sufferer from nervous depression.

Brother Porter was a man of extraordinary mental endowments—a sort of natural orator. Having a towering imagination and almost unsurpassed power of description, he was enabled to seize and utilize the beautiful, the grand, or the sublime, at will. He had few equals in the pulpit in the line of argumentation and description, meriting in both the ascription of masterly. Years ago, when stationed at Waverly, N. Y., he was induced to engage in a debate with a noted infidel named Joseph Barker—since converted to Christianity, and finally dying in the faith. He was not worsted in the discussion, yet somehow his own faith in the atonement and the Christian religion was shaken. But after a time there broke upon him again the blessed light from the distant headlands, and, being restored, he immediately resumed his life-work, and seemed a mightier champion than ever before for the faith once delivered to the saints. In this state of mind he wrote that little, but great book, entitled, "From Atheism to Christianity." His entire religious life was an earnest struggle with early-acquired appetites, passions, and habits. Grace finally triumphed; and now, while we drop a tear for infirmities and mistakes, covering all with the mantle of a brother's charity, let us rejoice in the victory which he finally achieved through our Lord Jesus Christ. He died as a Christian only can die, in full and certain hope of an immortality amid beatitudes, where we hope again to meet him "when the warfare is ended."

2. DAVID DAVIES was born in Newtown, Montgomery County, Wales, June 10, 1807, and emigrated to this country in the year 1831, and died in Janesville, Wisconsin, February 2, 1878. He was licensed to exhort in his native land, when but sixteen years of age. He was received into the Oneida Conference in 1833, and up to 1873 was but two years on the superannuated list. He thus held position in the effective ranks of the Conference for thirty-eight years, and well and truly did he serve. Five years ago he was so far affected by blindness as to disqualify him for effective service, consequently he took a superannuated relation to the Conference, and moved West, where he had living two sons and one daughter. He was suddenly struck down by paralysis, which rendered him unconscious to the last, hence he was prevented from giving a dying testimony of his prospects beyond; yet, from his well-defined Christian experience and the truly pious devotion of his life, there are no grounds for questioning in regard to his future. As an embassador for Christ he filled his mission, and God called him home to rest and reward. He leaves the companion of his youth, who shared with him the toils and privations incident to our itinerant ministry of former years, to pass on solitary and alone, until she shall hear the Master say, "It is enough; come up higher."

Brother Davies was a minister of very respectable gifts, somewhat above mediocrity. He was bold in his address, practical and earnest in his teaching and pulpit exercises, and was greatly respected and beloved by all who knew him.

3. JOHN MULKEY, a superannuated member of the Wyoming Conference, died near Montrose, Pa., April 22, 1877. He was born at Stonington, Conn., in 1804, and converted in 1833. The Master soon called him to the ministry, and the M. E. Church licensed him a local preacher. This relation he improved, with rich results, until 1841, when he entered the itinerancy. For fourteen years following he manifested the spirit, "Here am I, send me." No field of labor, however large, had any terrors for him. His first charge was Smithborough, then Abington, and next Canaan. At the latter place he was called to bear the bereavement of burying his companion, the choice of his youth. His next charge was Northmoreland, where he married Hannah Jones. In the course of Conference appointments he served Springville and Montrose Circuits, when they included territory that is now divided into eleven stations and charges. Long distances separated appointments, and roads were rough, yet it is averred that, excepting in a single instance, he never disappointed a congregation; that he was always on time, and would open services at the minute. He exhibited covetable talents and rare harmony of endowments. His mental powers were burnished by praiseworthy application to books, these being almost exclusively his teachers. Orphaned by his father's death in the war of 1812, educational advantages were never his; yet by studiousness and system he mastered the Greek and Hebrew languages. Previous to a paralytic stroke in 1855 his rule was revivals every year, and to this he stated only a single exception. He partially recovered from paralysis, and continued to labor until 1875, when he suffered a second attack, which impaired all his faculties. His endurance was great, but it only fitted him for the "more exceeding and eternal weight of glory." He possessed a most congenial disposition, and was a special lover of children. Many of his spiritual children, who were privileged to visit him during the years of affliction, received sanctified counsel, and were made stronger by his resignation and reproachless life. It was precious to be in his presence. His conversation was of "perfect love" and "filled with the Holy Ghost." A father in Israel has fallen, a pioneer preacher passed to his reward. The widow and five children who survive him have the prayerful sympathies of friends and the Church.

P. Higgins, O. R. Wilson—2.

1. PHINEAS HIGGINS was born in Bucksport, Me., March 8, 1806. At the age of twelve he accepted Christ as his Saviour and the M. E. Church as his spiritual home. In early manhood he yielded to the impressions of duty made upon his heart by the Holy Ghost, and at the age of twenty-two received license to preach. In 1833 he was sent to supply Belfast charge under the Presiding Elder. Sickness, however, in his father's family soon compelled him to leave his work. For some cause he remained out of the work until the spring of 1840, when he joined the Conference, and in connection with which he was sent to the following appointments: Prospect, Calais, Cumberland, Newfield, Prospect, North Searsport, Oromo, Castine, Winslow and East Hallowell, Camden, Cornish, Exeter, Hampden, superannuated one year, South Orrington, Cherryfield, Waldoborough, Bristol, East Pittstown, Unity, Dresden, Woolwich, Hodgden's Mills and Boothbay Harbor, Hodgden's Mills, Breman and Round Pond, Winslow and Vassalborough, Georgetown, and, in 1877, superannuated, and settled in Damariscotta, where he died in great peace January 14, 1878, aged seventy-two years.

In 1833 Brother Higgins married Miss Cynthia E. Nichols, of Bucksport, who for thirty-eight years shared with him the privations and labors, as well as the joys and triumphs, of an itinerant life.

Brother Higgins possessed a physical frame of more than ordinary strength and commanding presence. His personal appearance was prepossessing, and his manner dignified. A good preacher, a faithful pastor, and sincere friend. He always loved the work of the ministry. His last year on earth was one of great peace. His interest in the Church remained to the last. The day before he was called to his rest, he preached with unusual vigor and unction, leaving a deep impression on the minds of his hearers. One who heard him says, "I doubt if in all his ministry he ever preached with more acceptability to the people." His work on earth is ended. His record is on high.

2. O. R. WILSON was born in the pretty sea-side village of Camden, Maine, Sept. 17, 1821. Of his earlier life but little is known—suffice it to say he entered the itinerant ranks in this Conference at the age of thirty-four, in connection with which he received the following appointments: East Machias, Crawford and Wesley, Eastport, East Bucksport, North Bucksport, Bear Hill and Charleston, Sangerville and Parkman, Veazie and Upper Stillwater, Surry, Harrington, East Bucksport, Penobscot and Brooksville, Franklin and Sullivan, supernumerary, East Bucksport, and Surry. In every charge he grew in the esteem and love of his people with every month of his stay. He was faithful if not brilliant, and a sound preacher. He was loyal, taking his work cheerfully, like a true itinerant. And in this he had a strong helper in his worthy wife; one who bore her part bravely and lovingly. And these hardships in their case were real, for Brother Wilson was no pet of fortune. He knew adversity and the necessity of economy. His piety and manhood were fully tested. A single year's experience in the West only proved to him how he loved his own State and Conference, and he gladly returned to live and die at home. And the end was nearer than he knew. Spending a single year at East Bucksport, he was reappointed to Surry, where death found him November 12, 1877, just one month after the death of his beloved wife. But he was ready, and went, like a tired child, to the rest of God's workers, and life was done. There was deep sorrow for his loss not only in his orphaned family, but in the hearts of his people and his Church. His brethren sincerely respected him, and regret his loss. "The Lord gave, the Lord hath taken away," let us say, "Blessed be the name of the Lord."

J. C. Berry.

JOHN CALVIN BERRY was born in Belmont County, Ohio, March 11, 1833. His parents were members of the United Presbyterian Church, and trained him carefully, not without hope that he might be called to the work of the ministry. They gave him fair advantages of academical education, and he was for a time a student at the Ohio University, at Athens. He was converted February 9, 1857; was licensed to exhort soon after, and to preach January 12, 1861. While serving the Church as a local preacher he engaged in teaching, and was later in the service of the American Bible Society in Eastern Ohio. In 1867 he came to Missouri, and was soon employed to supply the Smithton Circuit; and in the following spring he was admitted into the Conference on trial. He was appointed successively to the Richwood, Warsaw, Warrensburgh, Grant, and Butler Circuits, spending seven years in active service, when failing health compelled him to take a superannuated relation. In 1875 he removed to Iowa, but his health did not improve, and he was not able to preach much. His last days were spent in Des Moines, among those who had known him in his youth and appreciated his worth. On April 19, 1877, after ten days of acute suffering, in which his mind wandered at times, he died triumphant in the hope of a better and eternal inheritance.

Brother Berry did good service in the Saint Louis Conference, even in failing health, and when he was too feeble for the work assigned him. He was a faithful, spiritual, earnest worker, with no higher ambition than to save souls. A wife and five children, two sons and three daughters, survive him, and demand our sympathy and our prayers.

OBITUARY

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN PROPER PLACE.

Philadelphia Conference.

FRANCIS HODGSON was born of Christian parents, members of the Wesleyan Church, in Driffield, England, February 13, 1805. In his youth he came to this country with his parents, who settled in West Chester, Pa., where he spent his early years and the opening days of his noble manhood without contracting any of the fashionable vices and bad habits but too common to youth; and here he commenced the formation of that character which made him a man, and which found its completion by a constant, loving, life-long faith in Christ, on Tuesday, April 16, 1877, when the worn, patient sufferer received his discharge from earth and entered into a better life.

Doctor Hodgson was received on probation in the Philadelphia Conference in the spring of 1828, and was sent to Dauphin Circuit. He then served Elkton, Md.; St. George's, Philadelphia; Harrisburgh Circuit, and Columbia. He was transferred to the New York Conference in 1836, and stationed at Vestry-st. Charge, Mulberry-street, Middletown, Hartford, and New Haven. In 1845 he was retransferred to the Philadelphia Conference, and sent to Trinity Charge, Phila.; Salem Charge, Pa.; Harrisburgh, Pa.; St. Paul's, Wilmington; St. George's Charge, Phila.; Union Charge, Phila.; Lancaster Church, Pa.; South Philadelphia District; Fifth-st., Phila.; again to Salem, Pa.; and in 1868, being transferred to Central Pennsylvania Conference, he was appointed successively to Danville, Lewisburgh, and Chambersburgh. In 1876, finding himself no longer able to do the work of the pastorate, he took a supernumerary relation, and, being retransferred to the Philadelphia Conference, he returned to the city of Philadelphia, where he remained until he ascended to his home in heaven.

Doctor Hodgson owed much to nature, and more to the grace of God. He was gifted with a constitution fitted for labor and endurance; a heart incapable of the base or groveling, but gushing with noble impulses and generous affections; and a mind so richly endowed that he needed but little, outside of himself and God, to rise. And he did rise in all the commanding forces of a master, an able minister of Christ, a persuasive orator, a successful preacher, a profound theologian, and a skillful polemic. He has made a character and won a name that will grace the pages of the future historian of Methodism. It may be truthfully said of him, as the royal David said of Abner, "A prince and a mighty man has fallen." From his twenty-third to his seventy-second year, without intermission, his name and ministerial usefulness are identified with the history of the Annual and General Conferences of the Methodist Episcopal Church. He was not merely one of a thousand, but of many thousands, who by the force of native genius rise above the common level of humanity, so as to fix the attention and command the respect, veneration, and esteem of multitudes of the most intelligent and estimable people. This Doctor Hodgson did, not only within the bounds of his own denomination, where his valuable services were sought and enjoyed, but also in other denominations of the Christian Church, both among ministers and people, whom he occasionally served. His light was never put under a bushel. His positions, in relation both to ecclesiastical polity and civil affairs, were clearly defined and openly defended on all proper occasions; and, however men might differ with him, as sometimes they did, they were forced to admit he was an intelligent, sober-minded, earnest man, that sought truth, and would not barter it for gold. He was "zealously affected always in a good thing," as Saint Paul enjoined. His mind was illumined with hard study and constant research, and his heart was often on fire with the love of Christ and of souls, that made him as forcible in argument and eloquent in words as he was tolerant in deeds. The love of Christ constrained him to guard and defend all the outposts of truth, as well as the citadel; and his grave, dignified deportment, like a herald going before him, informed the people he was a man charged with a great message, who had neither time nor disposition to trifle or glorify himself. His one great business in the world was to persuade men to be reconciled to God. Few have ever lived a more uniform, devoted life; and few abler expounders of God's truth, if any, are left among us. His preaching, always evangelical, clear, and forcible, was at times overwhelmingly grand, with his logic on fire and his rhetoric in a blaze, so that great masses of people were moved by his argument and eloquence, as the trees are moved by the wind.

Doctor Hodgson was born too early in the first century of Methodism to enjoy the benefits of well-appointed churches, well-furnished parsonages, good libraries, summer vacations, foreign travel, and adequate support. In his early ministry he did pioneer work, with hard toil and small remuneration, and he did it well. He helped to lay the foundations of the M. E. Church deep, broad, and strong. He studied hard, with few books, and learned what books can never teach — heart history, human experience under hard conditions, bravely battling on, amid opposing forces, to fulfill his mission. The sons know but little of the hardships encountered by the fathers. It was not plain, unobstructed, flowery pathways for the Methodist itinerant fifty years ago. He often came in contact not only with poor fare, hard service, and little sympathy, but with the sharp angles of sectarian bigotry and ministerial superciliousness. But young Hodgson proved himself even then a man equal to any emergency, and when the time came that demanded culture, refinement, gentlemanly bearing, and the highest order of ministerial qualifications for the pulpit, he was found among the chief of his brethren. It is said that "An honest man is the noblest work of God," and Doctor Hodgson's honesty was like Cesar's wife—beyond suspicion as well as beyond reproach. He was incapable of stratagem to gain a selfish end. Sincere in his convictions, he was fearless in supporting them; no favor, no flattery, no fear of periled popularity or interest, could move him. Firm as the ocean rock, he might be overwhelmed, as the rock is by the tidal wave, but he was as immovable and sometimes apparently as hard; but he had always a deep, religious consciousness pervading his being, nothing being put on for effect. He was just what he seemed—an honest man, a devoted Christian, an able, faithful minister of Christ; and time's great corrective, like summer sunshine on autumnal fruits, removed all seeming acidity and sharpness, and left only the mellowness and sweetness of a sanctified life throughout his later years. He died beloved and regretted; but he died, too, as the hero dies, who has fought the good fight, and has the consciousness that he has gained the victory.

Gottfried Heugel.

GOTTFRIED HEUGEL was born at Oetisheim, Wurtemberg, in 1844. He was converted in his nineteenth year at Pforzheim, and traveled some years under a presiding elder. In 1874 he joined the Conference in its session at Schaffhausen, and traveled the Circuits of Herrenberg, Rheinpreussen, and Dillenburg. He was a beloved preacher, a great friend of children, and a good, energetic, and practical man, who worked with great success. But by the hard work in Rheinpreussen, where he enlarged the circuit, he was caused to labor far beyond his strength, walking many miles, and preaching nearly forty times a month. He took sick and died just after the close of the Conference at Ludwigsburg, July 22, 1877. When his appointment was brought to him, he said to the brethren who brought it: "You come too late; I will get my appointment in heaven." His wife arrived just in time to see him die. He went home in peace. His last words were: "How wonderful is the Lord's ways! He makes all things work well, both for his glory and for my good."

From Baltimore he removed to Port Deposit, where he married Miss Millicent Hill; and in 1844 he moved to Towanda, Pa., and there joined the Wesleyan Methodist Church, where he was licensed as a local preacher, and was also ordained deacon and elder. He was very active, and built a church. In 1869 he was received on his credentials a full member of the Delaware Conference, and served with great acceptability the following places: John Wesley and Centerville, one year; Bridgeton and Goshen, one year; Dover, three years; E. S. S. Wilson, Thomas Cleghorn, G. A. Phillips, F. M. Deitz —4.

1. SAMUEL SHEPHERD WILSON was born in Hope, Durham Co., Ontario, July 21, 1835. Converted in his eighteenth year, he immediately testified "to his father's house" the saving love of Jesus. Two of his brothers were converted the same day, and are now honored ministers in the Wesleyan connection, Canada. In 1858 he married Mary Ann Taylor, who, with five children, survives him. He emigrated to Northern Michigan in 1868, and was admitted on trial in the Michigan Conference the following year. He served the Church in Millbrook, Morley, Bedford, Kendall, and Parkville Charges with great acceptability. Hundreds were converted under his ministry. His second year at Parkerville began auspiciously. About the 10th of January, 1878, he was attacked with a severe cold, by which he was immediately prostrated. Medical skill proved of no avail. He expired, in great peace, on the 18th, surrounded by his family and parishioners, who seemed alike bereaved.

Brother Wilson was, in the best sense, a believer. The Bible was to him, indeed, the word of God, and ruled his heart and life. He was a model Christian gentleman. "As I witnessed his life for eight successive years," says his presiding elder, "my heart was constrained to feel the force of the apostle's words, 'Ye are the temple of God, and the Spirit of God dwelleth in you.'" Always cheerful and trusting, his life proved the most intimate communion and fellowship with Jesus. During his last illness he was assailed with the fiercest temptations, but his soul was delivered with great power. "O how excellent!" he exclaimed; "how precious! He keeps me in his arms! My soul rejoices in his full salvation! All is bright and glorious!" Thus he triumphed in the Lord. It was an occasion never to be forgotten by those who witnessed it. He was conscious, and his soul was full of holy triumph to the last moment. Just before his death he placed his hand on the head of each of his three sons separately, and blessed them, beginning with the youngest, John Wesley, whom he recalled, and solemnly dedicated to the work of the ministry.

2. THOMAS CLEGHORN was born in Ogdensburgh, Saint Lawrence County, New York, in 1821, and died in Casnovia, Michigan, February 24, 1878, aged fifty-six. Converted in early life, his attention was soon turned to the sacred office of the ministry. In 1846 he was received into the traveling connection of the Wesleyan Church, in Canada. His educational advantages had been such as to fit him commendably for his work, and rapidly he rose to the occupancy of important fields. He was chairman of three districts, and his administration was characterized by sound judgment, deep piety, and solid culture. He was earnest and spiritual, and evinced more than ordinary ability as an expounder of the word. In 1871, after twenty-five years of labor in Canada, he was transferred to the Michigan Conference. At the time of his death he was serving on his sixth charge in this Conference, having been previously at White Hall, Richland, Oshtemo, Alaska, and Ada, where he had done faithful work for God, and was esteemed by his people. In the midst of active labors and apparently good health, loved and sustained by his parishioners, and without, as far as we know, a moment's warning, death came and closed his earthly career. He had preached twice that Sabbath, traveling fourteen miles, and entered the sacred desk for evening worship. After the singing and prayer he rose and read for his Scripture lesson the sixteenth chapter of the Gospel by John, where we find these words, "A little while, and ye shall not see me: and again a little while, and ye shall see me, because I go to the Father." While some of these beautiful verses were being read the summons came, and he was speechless. Casting an anxious look toward his loving wife, who had been the sharer of his joys and sorrows, then turning, with beaming and heavenly countenance, he pronounced a silent benediction on the congregation. He never spoke again, but in a short time took his departure for the better land. There rests, however, on the Church, the perfume of his consecrated and valuable endeavors. The ancients were accustomed to represent mortality by a flower crushed in the hand, a pillar broken off at the top, a ship stranded on the beach, and they saw little or nothing beyond; but we look farther on, and behold in the life our brother has bequeathed to us a legacy of blessing that shall never perish.

3. Gilbert A. Phillips was born at Glen Ross, Ontario, July 14, 1837. His mother, a devoted Christian, early led him to the Saviour, and at a tender age, by his mother's knee, he professed salvation. Subsequently, however, as he neared manhood, he wandered away from God, and for a time became skeptical, and openly avowed his disbelief in the Christian religion. Nevertheless, the chords of influence stretching back to his childhood's home, and a mother's prayers, were so strong that while at Otsego, Michigan, during a series of meetings conducted by Rev. E. H. Day, Brother Phillips was led to renounce his skepticism, and give his heart fully to Christ. Immediately, conferring not with flesh and blood, he entered upon the work of winning souls. During that winter he held a series of meetings upon his own responsibility in the vicinity of Otsego, and, by his fervid exhortations and godly admonitions, was the happy instrument in awakening and bringing to Christ about twenty-five persons. On March 17, 1860, Brother Phillips was married to Mary M. Rankins. To say that Sister Phillips was his faithful counselor and assistant in his ministry, and his unfailing support and companion in his affliction, would be but a tribute to her love and devotion. She remains, with five children, to mourn their loved one gone. In 1868 Brother Phillips received his first appointment, at Ludington. Two years of successful labor at that point were passed, and then he was sent to Hart two years, success crowning his efforts. In 1872 he was ordained elder, and sent to Wayland. While there, his health failing him, he attempted to recruit in California, with partial success. Returning to his work in Wayland, he remained with that people three years, honored and signally useful. From thence he went to Orange Circuit. Upon this field of labor he wrought wondrous things for God. While there he built two fine churches and a parsonage, besides reorganizing the circuit, and in an encouraging degree building up the spiritual interests of the charge. But the work was too severe. His overtasked powers constantly demanded rest, but the indomitable energy of the man held him to his task until the session of Conference. It was plain now to himself that he must yield, yet there was a touching tremor in his voice as he said to the writer of this memoir, "I wanted, God willing, to die in the pulpit." Sadly, and suffering greatly, he made his way to the Conference. With tearful eyes he gazed upon the old, familiar faces and Conference scenes, then turned away from us, expecting to see his brethren no more on earth. He left the parsonage at Orange, which was largely built by his tireless energy, and, a dying man, with a sorrowful wife and five helpless children, he moved to Lyons—to die. That was the saddest removal within the bounds of the Michigan Conference. Yet, with a tender, child-like faith, he conformed to the will of God, and patiently awaited the call of his Lord. That call came upon a quiet Sunday evening, November 4. His faith seemed to intensify and absorb all his waning powers and faculties as he drew near to the eternal world, till it mastered all other forces of his nature, and he died, sending back to the brethren of his Conference his dying testimony: "Tell them I am free. Tell them all I am free. Victory! Victory! Victory!" Thus passed the strong, heroic soul away.

4. Fred. M. Deitz was born in Webster, Monroe County, N. Y., and died in Northport, Michigan, September 11, 1877. In 1844 his parents, with a large family, removed to Maple Corners, Ionia County, Michigan, where he experienced religion in 1850, and united with the M. E. Church, and ever after manifested an earnest zeal in the cause of Christ. A part of his early manhood was spent as a teacher, in which avocation he succeeded well, giving satisfaction wherever employed. In 1864 he received license to preach. His first pastoral charge was as a supply on the Ravenna Circuit, Grand Rapids District. He was received on trial in the Michigan Conference in September, 1866, and appointed as junior preacher to Cedar Springs Circuit, where he remained in the same relation the year following. At the Conference of 1868 he was received into full connection and appointed to Paris, where he remained two years. His subsequent appointments are as follows: Mattawan, Ganges, Northport, Monroe Center, Manton. On this charge the disease (consumption) which terminated his life manifested itself, and, to his inexpressible grief, he was obliged to resign his work before the year was half through. He was married to Miss Eliza Inwood, of Northport, in September, 1875. Their wedded life was brief, her death occurring in June, 1876. In his death the Church has lost an exemplary member, the Michigan Conference an earnest laborer, and the community a good citizen. He leaves an aged father and several brothers and sisters to mourn his departure.

Brother Deitz died a martyr to overwork. His duties compelled him to preach three times on each Sabbath, and walk from one appointment to the other. On the alternate Sundays the distance to be walked through the deep snow was from eight to twelve miles. Under this excessive labor his naturally strong constitution broke down. He was a man of uncompromising fidelity to his convictions, and his death was one of serene Christian triumph.

Julius G. Hood, Harmon G. Richardson—2.

1. JULIUS G. HOOD was born in Burk County, N. C., June 28, 1843, and was drowned in Flat Rock River, Friday night, February 8, 1878. In his early life his father emigrated to Indiana, and settled in Rush County, where Brother Hood spent his boyhood days. Being very anxious to obtain a liberal education, he spent nearly three years at Moore's Hill College. While there he made a grand record as a diligent student and perfect gentleman. February 20, 1870, he was happily converted to God, and joined the M. E. Church at Raleigh, Rush County, Indiana. He was licensed to preach in January, 1871; was admitted to South-east Indiana Conference in 1873, and appointed to Wooster Circuit; in 1874 was returned. In 1875–77 he was appointed to Marietta Circuit, now called Flat Rock. He was married to Miss Sallie C. Sears, May 22, 1873, who is now left to mourn. As a preacher Brother Hood was evangelical, clear, and earnest. He sought to win souls, to bring the Church up to a high state of grace, and lead on the host of God's elect from conquering to conquest. He was held in high esteem in his Conference, and though his ministerial life was short his record is one of success. As a student he was careful, diligent, and accurate. As a pastor he was faithful, loving, and beloved. Around the fireside he loved to tell the story of "Jesus and his love." Many a home will miss his genial face, and winning ways, and spiritual conversation. He loved to take the wanderer by the hand, and invite and entreat him to come back to the "Father's house." As a husband and father he was passionately attached to his home and carefully solicitous for his family. It was this anxiety that moved him to brave the storm and flood, which, alas! resulted so unfortunately. As a citizen he was patriotic. During the late Rebellion he went bravely forward to defend the flag he so sacredly loved. As a Christian he was fully assured of the divine acceptance, and conscious of readiness to depart and be with Christ. Upon the Church has fallen a sad dispensation; upon a loving and Christian family a terrible blow. But amid all there is one glorious comfort—he was ready. It is a deep and impenetrable mystery why young men of such talent and consecration should be taken away so early in life from the midst of such usefulness. But the great Master says, "What I do thou knowest not now, but thou shalt know hereafter." It makes but little difference whether the workman be called from the bed of pain or from the building of the wall; whether the soldier fall in the battle or die in the hospital; whether the man of God drop in the pulpit or on the street, or, as in the sad death of our beloved brother, be washed away by the cruel flood; we know, thank God! that the reward "is at the end of the race."

2. HARMON G. RICHARDSON was born in Scott, New York, June 29, 1810, and died in Delaware, Indiana, December 7, 1877, aged sixty-seven years. At a camp-meeting held in his native State he was converted and joined the Church. About two years subsequently he was united in marriage to Miss Nancy Ackles, in Cardiff, New York. He came to Indiana in 1835, and settled in old Milan. In 1840 he removed to Delaware. He was licensed to preach in 1842; was admitted to Indiana Conference in 1850, and appointed to Logan Charge. He also served Sugar Creek, Saint Louis, and was superannuated from 1853 to 1859; then Guilford, Morris, and from 1865 to 1877 was again superannuated.

As a minister Brother Richardson was faithful and earnest. He dealt in the truth in his public and private ministrations, constantly insisting, both by precept and practice, upon the doctrine of faith in Christ, and sanctification through faith in his blood. As a Christian man his was a life of great spiritual enjoyment. He was a man of remarkable faith. The songs of Zion were to him precious jewels, which shone with increased luster the more they were used. As a citizen and neighbor he was kind and obliging. As a husband and father he was provident and kind. For years he has been a sufferer, but not until last July was he confined to his room. Since then he has suffered excruciating pain, but not a word of complaint escaped his lips. Especially was he careful in regard to his private and family devotion. Until about two weeks prior to his death he conducted family worship, but, growing steadily weaker, he was unable to attend to it. This gave him great uneasiness. He, however, requested his pastor, if possible, to come every day and conduct family worship, at which times he would often exult with spiritual delight. One day he was thus filled with the divine love, and, in telling of it, said, "O, what have I done, that I should be thus honored with such a view of the infinite love of the Lamb of God?" When the announcement was made to him of the near approach of death, he affectionately bade farewell to each of the members of his family, and then, turning to his pastor, stretched out his hand and said, "Almost home." He then said, "Sing, sing." And while, amid tears and sobs, the afflicted friends tried to sing, the spirit of Father Richardson spread wing for the breast of its Redeemer. In his death the Church has lost a true friend, humanity a beaming light, and the Conference one of its most useful members.

John S. Donaldson.

JOHN SMITH DONALDSON died in great peace, in Nebraska, May 11, 1878, aged seventy. He was born in Mercer County, Pennsylvania, August 31, 1808; converted when ten years old; removed to Indiana in 1838; was admitted on trial in the Indiana Conference in 1839, and appointed to Pendleton Circuit; thence to Muncie in 1840. In 1841 he was admitted into full connection, and ordained deacon, and again appointed to Pendleton, and in 1842 to Marion Circuit. At the close of this Conference year he was ordained elder, and appointed to Knightstown. He afterward served Greenfield, Noblesville, Granville Circuit, Peru, Independence Circuit, Attica, Covington, Union Circuit, Sumption Prairie, Dayton Circuit, and Fillmore Circuit. In consequence of failing health, through abundant labors, he took a supernumerary relation in 1859, and continued in that relation two years. In 1861 he was made effective, and appointed to Terre Haute Circuit, and to Clinton in 1862. He received the appointment of chaplain in the army in 1863, and remained with the army two years. In 1865 he labored on Argos Circuit, in 1866 Rochester, and 1867 Walkerton. He then took a superannuated relation for 1868–69. In 1870 he was agent of the American Bible Society. He labored on Covington and State Line in 1871, and in 1872 again superannuated, and soon moved to Merrick Co., Nebraska, where he has since labored successfully, and continued to the last, as he had strength and ability.

As a minister and pastor Brother Donaldson was industrious, ardent, and successful in his work. In a letter from Nebraska it is said, "Brother Donaldson came to Nebraska about six years ago, and has been employed by the presiding elder of the Kearney District since coming here." On Clarksville Circuit, the past winter, he received one hundred and forty into Church; and no storm, even in Nebraska, was too severe to prevent him from attending his appointment. On May 7 he received internal injuries from a fall, which caused his death. He suffered greatly for four days, but died in peace.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

George Harmon,* John W. Armstrong, Albert B. Gregg, Martin Jerome Murphy—4.

1. JOHN W. ARMSTRONG was born in Woolwich, England, September 20, 1812, and died in Fredonia, New York, August 12, 1878. In 1824 he came to Canada with his father, who settled in Quebec. Here he passed the period of his youth under the influence of a Christian home. At about the age of sixteen he publicly professed faith in Christ, and connected himself with the Wesleyan Church, in which his father was a local preacher. In 1835 he entered the seminary at Cazenovia as a student. Having completed a course of study at the seminary, in 1839 he became principal of the Nichols Academy, in Tioga County. In 1841 he was principal of the academy at Red Creek, Wayne County, New York. During this year he received license as a local preacher, and in 1842 joined the Black River Conference on trial, and was sent to Gouverneur, and thence to Evan's Mills. In 1844 he was appointed as principal of Gouverneur Wesleyan Seminary, and so continued until, in 1850, he accepted an election to the chair of Natural Sciences in Cazenovia Seminary, where he remained four years. He was then elected principal of Falley Seminary, at Fulton. At the close of the year he was prevailed upon to open the Susquehanna Seminary, at Binghamton. In 1856 he returned to the pastoral work, and was stationed at Watertown. In 1857 he reluctantly accepted a call to the principalship of Amenia Seminary. Returning again to the pastorate in 1859, he was successively stationed at Adams, Lowville, Theresa, and Arsenal-street, Watertown. In 1865 he was appointed presiding elder of Watertown District. Toward the end of the year he accepted the position of head master and teacher of science in the State Normal School at Oswego, which he held till 1869, when he was advanced to the principalship of the State Normal and Training School at Fredonia, New York, where he remained until his decease.

Brother Armstrong was a delegate from the Black River Conference to the General Conferences of 1860, 1864, and 1868. While he was principal of the Gouverneur Seminary the Wesleyan University honored him with the degree of Doctor of Divinity, the same degree being also conferred upon him by the Genesee College. For a number of years he was president of the Association of Principals of the Normal Schools of the State of New York. As to his general and educational character we can do no better than to quote from an appreciative tribute by Professor J. H. Hoose:—

He was a man of rare intellectual endowments, and was by habit and desire a student in the highest sense of the term. While he was never under the discipline of college teaching, yet he applied himself to study with success so marked that he arrived at great eminence as a linguist, scientist, psychologist, mathematician, and artist. His mind was especially remarkable for its retentive powers. He also possessed superior powers of perception, and as a logician he took high rank. Because of his attainments he was widely consulted by authors, and he did much work as reader and censor for publishers. As an educator he was thoroughly inductive in his methods of study and practice. His powers of invention were so well developed that he could readily construct, when necessary, the required instruments for performing his experiments while pursuing his investigations in new and advanced fields of scientific research. His intense spirit of progress in studying educational processes led him occasionally, perhaps, to be in advance of his time in methods of teaching, as judged by the age in which he labored. While he was always true to his convictions of truth in educational matters, yet he was ever ready to learn the better ways. His earnest and intelligent efforts to elevate and ennoble the profession of education; his profound comprehension of the theories of teaching; his skill as an experimentalist; his tenacity of purpose; his confidence that a brighter day is dawning upon the art and the science of education—all these joined to place him high among the men whose fame shall descend as a blessing upon their fellow-men. As a student he was not only intense in his habits of thinking, but he was habitually under thorough self-control, and was always calm and composed. This enabled him to conserve his intellectual energies, and to accomplish a maximum of mental labor daily with the least expenditure of vital and nerve force. In disposition he was unassuming, retiring, and modest, shunning publicity and parade. He was always thoroughly dignified in his bearing, and candid in his conversation. As a companion he was genial, entertaining, instructive, courteous, kind-hearted, and never wounded the feelings of others whenever it could be avoided. Sometimes, perhaps, he erred on the side of leniency in discipline, when the good of the whole was considered. But even this error, if such it was, lay on the side of goodness of heart and kindness of sympathy. All who came in close contact with him loved him as a friend, and he was a true and valuable friend to all young people who were struggling with poverty and adversity for a nobler living. It was his constant practice to seek out and commend young men who were trying to rise to position in their professions. As a conversationalist he was almost without a peer, for he seemed equally at ease and ready in all fields of conversation, and with all classes of people. As a public speaker he was always interesting and instructive, never demonstrative, yet often eloquent.

But in his character as a cultured Christian man and minister of the Church of Christ Dr. Armstrong will stand highest and noblest. Meek in spirit, loving and gentle toward all, with a profound and clear faith in the Lord Jesus—while in the pastorate true and faithful, always ready for pulpit work, instructive and edifying, sympathetic and comforting—his memory will be cherished in this and other Conferences, and by the Church at large, as one of the most beautiful of Christians, and as an able minister of Christ. His patient, thoughtful, and loving spirit, and the unselfishness of his character, were manifest in his last illness, and particularly his abiding and intelligent appreciation of the never-failing foundations for his soul's rest in the atonement. Some one reminding him of his absorption in scientific pursuits, he replied, "I have made all my scientific studies for the glory of Christ. I have always kept him in view. I have not forgotten him." Noble Christian scientist, Jesus has not forgotten thee!

2. ALBERT B. GREGG was born in Augusta, Oneida County, New York, January 4, 1825, and died in Rome, New York, March 31, 1878, aged fifty-three. While quite young he was bereft of his mother, and but very little, if any, attention was paid to his religious education or training. By a wise use of his opportunities he qualified himself as a school-teacher, and for some five years he taught the school in Stockbridge, Madison County.

Brother Gregg was united in

* Obituary not received.

marriage, September 7, 1848, with Miss Susan S. White, an intelligent Christian lady, who did all in her power to assist him in his work as a minister. She and her two daughters now mourn the loss of a kind husband and an affectionate father.

Brother Gregg had, before his conversion, imbibed skeptical notions and ideas, but when God, by his Holy Spirit, arrested him during a powerful revival in Stockbridge, in the winter of 1850–51, his conversion was so sudden, clear, and powerful that Brother Gregg often expressed it as "a right-about-face" with him, resulting, of course, in an entire change of his previously-conceived opinions. The evidence was so clear, the truth and light so bright, that he was never left to doubt his conversion to God or his call to the ministry. In the spring of 1851 he moved with his family to Preble, Cortland County, to enter into a mercantile copartnership which had been agreed upon before he gave his heart to God. Here he found himself under the pastoral care of Rev. Chas. Blakeslee, who, no doubt, did much to encourage him to enter upon the work to which God had called him. His term of probation being ended, he returned to Stockbridge, and spent the Sabbath, where, in company with nearly all his father's family, he was baptized and received into the Church. With his Church letter was given him also an exhorter's license. He very soon afterward entered upon his life-work with zeal, his great heart filled with love to God and anxiety for the salvation of souls. In January, 1855, he was sent by the presiding elder to supply Lisle Circuit, which he did with great acceptability. At the end of the year he was received on trial in the Oneida Conference, and appointed to the same charge. His fields of labor thereafter were as follows: Fleming, two years; Moravia, two years; Port Byron, two years; Newfield, one year; Union Springs, two years; State-street, Utica, two years. He then took a supernumerary relation for a short time, after which he was appointed presiding elder of Herkimer District, which he served four years, and upon which he did a great deal of hard work. At the close of his term upon this district—which by the action of the General Conference had become a part of the Northern New York Conference—he was transferred into the Central New York Conference, and at its next session was appointed to Jordan Charge, where he served three years with great acceptability and success. His next and last charge was Baldwinsville, which he served faithfully, but under embarrassed circumstances, for a year and a half. In the midst of hard work and great anxiety for the good of his charge and the salvation of souls, he was attacked with typhoid fever. He seemed from the first to have the idea that his sickness would be unto death. Thinking that he might perhaps have better treatment and care at the home of his daughter, whose husband, Mr. Evans, is a physician in the city of Rome, he went there a little more than two weeks before his death. All that affection and skill could do for him was done. But the Master had called for him, and he must go, and, in holy triumph, he passed to his reward. To nearly all who visited him during the last few days of his life he said, "Keep up good courage, and be faithful." As he was dying he said to the dear ones standing around him, "I have tried to do my whole duty, and am resting in Jesus, in hope of heaven." May the dear ones all meet on the evergreen shore!

3. Martin Jerome Murphy was born in Brookfield, New York, March 11, 1839, and died in Tyre, New York, June, 1878, aged thirty-nine. His boyhood was marked by serious thoughtfulness and industry. At the age of seventeen he was converted, and united with the Free-Will Baptist Church at Unadilla Forks, New York. Removing soon after to Brookfield, his native home, he became a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church, in which he exhibited marked devotion to its interests. He was for several successive years the beloved superintendent of the Sunday-school. His social qualities, love of music, and ability to execute it with voice and instrument, made him a welcome companion in the best circles. His cheerful and unostentatious disposition gave him a large place in the affections and confidence of his brethren. It soon became evident to the Church that God had designed him to serve his cause in the sphere of the ministry. The purpose of God became more evident to his own mind when, in the early part of the same year in which he united with the Conference, he was led into the experience of perfect love. His transition into this state was attended by such phenomenon as made it memorable. Of it he often spoke in private, and into this relation to God he faithfully urged his hearers from his pulpit. He was admitted into the Conference in October, 1872, and served successively and successfully the following charges: North Lansing, Summer Hill, Bethel, and Tyre.

Our brother was a man of devotion to the duties of whatever relation he filled. His record in the Conference is that of a laborious and successful minister. He was respected and beloved by the people of his charges. In his pulpit ministrations he was clear, in his apprehensions terse, vigorous in style, and direct and personal in his applications of the truth. It was only to be expected that one of his endowments of mind and heart, coupled with dignity and warmth of manner, should have commanding influence over others. Of such an influence his universal success on the material and spiritual lives of his laity are witnesses. He died as he had lived, a fearless and confident believer, illustrating the saying of Mr. Wesley, "Our people die well." While the true soldier spirit within him resisted death, and he expected up to almost the very last to recover, so as to be able, as he said, "to preach a still plainer Gospel," still he knew the possibilities to the contrary, and as he faced them he often said, "All is well." In answer to inquiries, in his last sickness and in the presence of a possible early death, the grace of God, to which he had commended others, was a sufficiency; and he said, while his sightless eyes filled with tears, "Grace is according to our day and trial. Much as I thought I knew about it before, not until now have I had such a sweet sense of it. I cannot tell you how sweet Jesus is."

* Obituary not received.

1. LEONARD WESLEY WILSON, son of Hon. William R. Wilson, of Chippewa, near Doylestown, Wayne County, Ohio, was born Aug. 22, 1839, and died in Mount Hope, Ohio, May 10, 1878. He was converted and united with the Church in Doylestown in 1870, and began at once to live an active Christian life. Devoting himself to Church and Sunday-school work, he endeared himself to both. He was licensed to preach in 1873, was admitted to the North Ohio Conference in the same year, and was appointed to Chatham Circuit, where he labored very successfully two years. His second appointment was to Mount Hope Circuit, in 1875, where he was most cordially received by the officiary and membership, and labored with them three successive years, a goodly number uniting with the Church during his pastorate among them.

Brother Wilson was married October 29, 1873, to Miss Narsissa, the daughter of the Rev. Mishal Shank, who proved herself a truly devoted helpmeet to him in his work of faith and labor of love. She now remains, with a large circle of relatives and friends, to mourn her loss.

Brother Wilson was of a very hopeful and cheerful disposition, sociable and kind. His presence in the homes of his flock always brought sunshine and joy to parents; the children all loved him, and he loved all. In the pulpit he was warm-hearted and very energetic, some times in his zeal exerting himself more than his physical condition was well able to bear. He filled his appointments many times when it was painful for him to do so. He would not entertain the thought of retiring from his pulpit, but continued his work until the last week of his life. For Sabbath,

May 5, he had prepared and expected to preach, but at midnight, Saturday, his death-sickness came upon him. On Monday he expressed a desire to live and work for God and do good, but if the Lord willed otherwise, he was resigned, and ready to go to his reward, to which the Lord called him on Friday morning, at sunrise. He thus fell at his post, like a true soldier of the cross, with his face to the foe.

2. T. H. D. Bell was born March 7, 1836, in Coshocton County, O., and died March 31, 1878, in Wilmot, Stark County, O., aged forty-two. Being blessed with devoted religious parents, who early and faithfully taught him "the principles of the doctrine of Christ," he was soundly converted to God, and obtained pardon and peace in Christ in his fourteenth year. He united with the Church, and became a faithful working member, strictly attending to all his duties. In the following year he entered the West Bedford Academy as a student, giving close attention to study for two years, when he commenced the work of teaching. While thus engaged he did not forget the cause of his Master, to which he felt a special call. In some instances nearly his whole school were converted to God through his earnest and prayerful labors. But Brother Bell had a higher and a nobler calling, and to this he felt moved by the Holy Ghost. The Church of his early choice, witnessing his "gifts, graces, and usefulness," urged upon him the responsible work of the Christian ministry. He was licensed to preach in 1864, and in the fall of 1866 he was admitted on trial in the North Ohio Conference. The same year, Sept. 12, he was united in marriage to Miss Mary Crout, who faithfully shared with him in the labors and sacrifices of his itinerant life. His first appointment was to the East Union Circuit, where he spent one year in very acceptable and useful labors. His next appointment was to Bakersville Circuit, where he remained two years, leaving the charge with over three hundred members added to the Church. His next field of labor was Mount Eaton, where he remained three years, doing faithful work in organizing new societies, supervising church building, and leading many to Christ. His next three years were spent on Shreve Circuit. Here he built a fine parsonage, had extensive revivals, and added many to the Church. While on this work, after deep exercises and drawings of the Holy Spirit, he was led to experience fully the saving power of Christ, so that he was enabled to say, "The blood of Jesus Christ, his Son, cleanseth me from all sin." His next and last appointment was Wilmot. He was on his third year, in the midst of useful labors and Christian plans for the future. After a brief illness, during which he was unconscious most of the time, he breathed his last in great peace, surrounded by sympathizing and loving friends, leaving a devoted and faithful wife, with five children, to mourn his sudden departure.

Brother Bell was a good man, and a faithful and useful preacher. His ministry was short among us, but he has left many abiding monuments in the good he has done. He died well. In conversation with his wife, a short time before his death, he said, "If I cannot be permitted to speak in my last moments, and tell my friends I am going safe, I hope the Lord will permit me to raise my hand in token that I am landing safe on the golden shore." This desire was granted him. Early in the morning of the day he died, not being able to speak, he raised his hand, and then again, as high as he could reach, giving assurance that all was well. His tall and manly form, his genial and kindly spirit, his clear words of Christian testimony and earnest prayers, will long be remembered. May the Spirit of Christ that was in him, ever abide with us, and may we meet him in heaven!

3. James J. Henry was born in Lawrence County, Ohio, Jan. 9, 1853, and died in Bucyrus, Crawford County, Ohio, March 16, 1878. He was converted and united with the Church in the eighth year of his age, and appeared to be fully consecrated to Christ from that time forward. He began to preach the Gospel in the year 1871, and was admitted on trial in the North Ohio Conference in the fall of 1874, and served as supply on Olive Green Circuit with acceptability and great success for two years. His next appointment was Cardington, where he remained three years as successor of the eloquent veteran, Rev. L. B. Gurley, D.D. At the close of his second year on that charge the presiding elder received a paper signed by more than one thousand persons requesting his return. The request was granted, and he served them to the entire satisfaction of the Church. Indeed, such was his success and popularity that we have seen two hundred, and sometimes nearly three hundred, persons at his regular weekly prayer-meetings; and during those three years hundreds were converted and added to the Church. Last fall he was appointed to Bucyrus, where, in less than six months, he saw nearly two hundred persons converted to God. At the close of a meeting of five weeks' duration he was stricken down with cerebro-spinal-meningitis, and, after lingering about four weeks, his spirit passed away to the paradise of God.

Brother Henry possessed a combination of qualities which constituted a character of such beauty and symmetery as we seldom find in a man of his age, and which enabled him during the five and a half years of his active ministry to lead more souls to Christ than some have done in twenty-five years. If the Christian ministry has been instituted chiefly for the evangelization of the world in the conversion of men to Christ, then Rev. J. J. Henry filled the great design of his office in an eminent degree. If the man who succeeds in leading the largest number of souls to the Saviour is the greatest minister, then was he one of the greatest. The world, the Conference, and the Church endures not only a painful bereavement, but also a great loss, in the death of this young divine; but our sorrow is his joy, and our loss will be his everlasting gain.

4. William Hudson died May 2, 1878, aged sixty-two. He was born at Long, Collingham, England, Nov. 20, 1816; united with the Wesleyan Church when ten years of age; and in 1835 removed with his widowed mother to the United States, where he was married, in 1846, to Miss M. T. Savage, with whom he lived ten years, when she was called away by death, leaving four small children; and again, in 1856, to Miss S. A. Kenyon, who, with six children, survives him.

Brother Hudson was a successful worker in the Master's vineyard, and many souls were brought to Christ through his instrumentality. He was a strong defender of the doctrines of Christianity, a close student, a linguist of some celebrity, using four different languages with facility, and an able expounder of the Holy Scriptures. In 1871, finding his health gradually failing, he took a superannuated relation, and removed his family to a farm, near Marion, Ohio, where he continued to reside until his death. Having left his home one morning to attend to some business in Marion, in his usual health, he was suddenly taken ill before its completion, and found his way to the dwelling of his son-in-law, where, after an illness of some eight days, in which he suffered intensely, with all the surviving members of his family, save one, in his room, he calmly passed away. His end was triumphant. Among his last utterances he said, in reply to a question propounded by his wife, "Pa, you are almost home; are you happy?" "Yes, yes." Thus an itinerant of twenty-one, and a Christian of some fifty-two years passed away. A sterling Christian and a devoted minister has run his course, has kept the faith, while a crown of righteousness awaits him, with all that love Christ's appearing.

5. Moses C. Percival was born August 24, 1851, near Savannah, Ohio. In early life he manifested a thirst for knowledge, and at the proper age went to the Savannah Academy, where he prepared for college. In 1872 he entered the Ohio Wesleyan University, and for four years very faithfully and successfully prosecuted his studies, and graduated with honors in 1876. In September of the same year he was admitted on trial into the North Ohio Conference, and stationed at Iberia. In 1877 he was returned to the same place —his first and his last appointment—where he died of typhus-malaria, July 19, 1878.

Brother Percival was reared in a Christian home, and from childhood seemed thoughtful and devotionally inclined. As a student in college he conscientiously devoted himself to his studies. As a rule he allowed no interruptions from any source in his text-book study. In the recitation or lecture-room he was always in the receptive mood, and his questions always evinced careful discrimination and keen penetration. A symmetrical development of mind, a high grade of scholarship, and a wider range of information than most students acquire, was the result. During his whole college course he actively identified himself with the Christian element. While he was uniformly reticent and retiring in his disposition, he nevertheless proved to his fellow-students that he was interested in their souls' welfare. Christianity with him was a living power that sought expression in personal appeals to others, in systematic study of the Scriptures, in Sabbath-school work, and in doing in the Church whatever the time and occasion seemed to demand. His ministerial life was short, but very influential and promising. He loved most heartily the work to which the Master had called him. He prepared very carefully for the pulpit, and perhaps held his audience as much by the beauty of his composition and fullness and force of thought as by his manner of expression; but in both matter and manner he was most attractive and impressive to those who knew him best and who heard him most. As a pastor he mingled much with his people, and was greatly loved by them. He studiously guarded all the material and spiritual interests of his charge. His many years of careful preparation for the ministry, his scholarly attainments, his earnest piety, his knowledge of human nature, and his love for his work, gave promise of great usefulness. But in less than two short years he finished the work that was given him to do. Surrounded by his sorrowful people, who ministered to his every want, and whom he had so faithfully served, he suddenly ceased his labors, and, trustingly, triumphantly committed his spirit to Him who will continue his work, though he calls away the workmen. He leaves a wife and one child to the sympathies and prayers of all who knew the husband and father.

William H. M'Clintock.

WILLIAM H. M'CLINTOCK, son of John M'Clintock, of Glencoe Valley, Scotland, was born in Pittsburgh, Penn., Sept. 15, 1820. When about fourteen he was converted at a camp-meeting held near Pittsburgh. In 1848 he came from Marietta to Logan, O., where he was employed two years as a supply. August 11, 1850, he was married to Miss Eliza Jane Bowen, of Logan. There have been given them five children, four of whom remain, one having preceded the father. In 1853 he was admitted into the Ohio Conference, and his appointments have been as follows: Mount Pleasant, New Plymouth, Dunbarton, Frankfort, Staunton, Hamden, Worthington, Bainbridge, Westerville, Darbyville, Tarlton, Canal Winchester, Bowling Green, and Rushville, where his work was wonderfully blessed, to his own soul and to the souls of others. He had gained the affections of his people, and through his instrumentality the whole circuit was quickened. His people are truly bereaved. Saturday evening, Feb. 2, while enjoying the hospitalities of Joseph Linville, near Marsh's Chapel, he was threatened with a paralytic stroke. It was thought he would soon be able to resume work, and he seemed to improve slowly. Sabbath evening, Feb. 17, he attended prayer-meeting, and spoke rapturously of the hope beyond the grave. He then closed, exhorting for the last time in these words: "Where the Master leads, see well to it that you follow."

During Monday he walked about town, but at midnight he became unconscious, and remained so till seven o'clock the next morning, when, on February 19, he went home.

Brother M'Clintock certainly possessed what secured ministerial success. So far as known, his labors have been rewarded in each charge with a revival. He often reached the intemperate and the aged sinner with his appeals, while those whom others failed to gain for Christ were frequently the very ones that God gave him as seals to his ministry. His work is also seen in the erection, remodeling, and improvement, of quite a number of parsonages and churches. He not only drew plans and asked for money, but was often seen with his coat off, and leading in the manual labor, so as to urge his brethren to greater activity. He was a good preacher and an earnest one—a good pastor—and worked up the various charges he served with an ambition to make the most out of them he could. He rests from his labor, and his works do follow him.

N. Norton.

NIRAM NORTON died suddenly in Meadville, Pa., April 14, 1878, aged 60. He was born in Hanover, Cortland County, New York, Feb. 19, 1817. When he was thirteen years old his parents moved to Erie Co., Pa., near Wattsburgh. Six months later he was clearly and soundly converted. Ever after to him religious experience was matter of fact. He sought not for the ecstasies of joy, but for that fidelity to conviction, which, like a thread of gold, runs through a character that is built of pure and noble principles; hence, his religious life partook more of strength than emotion, stability in grace than enthusiasm. On December 24, 1840, he was married to Miss Ann M. Sterritt, who shared in his toils as a preacher for almost thirty years, when she died among her friends, and went to share the rest of the faithful. She left a daughter, Miss Mary P. L. Norton, of Meadville, and a son, Lysander S. Norton, a lawyer, who resides in Erie, both of whom survive the father. The daughter presided over the home until March 11, 1875, when Mr. Norton was married to Mrs. Angeline E. M'Clintock, of Meadville. He was an affectionate husband, and a kind and generous-hearted father.

Mr. Norton commenced his public life in 1836, and preached two years as a supply, under the Presiding Elder. In 1838 he joined the Erie Conference, in connection with which he served the following Churches as pastor: Panama, Forestville, Fredonia, N. Y.; Warren, Pa.; Silver Creek and Jamestown, N. Y.; Painesville, Ohio; Meadville, Pa.; Saegertown, Rousseville and Corry, Pa. He was pastor two terms at Jamestown and Fredonia, N. Y. Once he represented his brethren in the General Conference; three times he served the Church as Presiding Elder on the Warren, Meadville, and Jamestown Districts; while as Financial Agent of the Allegheny College, and a member of the Board of Trustees, he rendered important service to the cause of education.

Mr. Norton was a close observer of Conference business; as a wise counselor and a successful debater, he exhibited those qualities of mind and heart which placed him in the front rank at the inauguration of any new measures. Yet he was not a man who set the wheels of new movements in motion; he rather aimed at working the machinery of the Church as he found it, up to the maximum of its power. His loyalty to the Church was beyond question. His influence among the brethren he retained until the close of his life.

As a preacher he was clear, logical, and positive. He was not a man of brilliant gifts, nor, we may say, of eloquent tongue. His influence and power must be traced to a more substantial cause than these. It rested upon his character as a Christian and a gentleman, as a faithful preacher and a successful pastor. He closed his earthly life in the midst of his labors. In the middle of his second year at Corry he had the hearty co-operation of his people in his work. He saw a number of souls saved during the last winter. He preached to good congregations, was a great helper, and thus became a favorite in the Sunday-school. His whole influence was on the side of the temperance movements in the town. He preached twice the Sunday before his spirit departed, and as though the coming event cast its shadow into his soul, he addressed the following prelude to his congregation before he announced the text for his last Sunday morning sermon: "I have been very much benefited in preparing this sermon. When I sat down to write my outline, I thought how would I write this sermon if I knew it was to be my last one. How often would our actions be different if we knew that to-day would be our last on earth." A Methodist of the best type—a successful administrator of discipline, faithful in his work, he was felt as a true man of God alone is felt, among the people for whose good he had toiled. He diligently cultivated truthfulness, charity, honesty; and other virtues of a kindred nature, which gave a symmetry and completeness to his life. He built his hopes of future reward on a broad and firm foundation of truth, with Jesus Christ as the Alpha and Omega of the superstructure. The following brief entry made in August, 1872, by Brother Norton's own hand, and found among his private papers, indicates the depth of his religious convictions: "Fifty-four years this day I commenced my earthly pilgrimage. I am now past life's meridian—blessed with excellent health, and a precious hope of a blissful immortality." His personal presence was marked with dignity, and to many people he bore the appearance of a cold nature; but to those who knew him best he manifested a rare warmth of sympathy for those in need, as well as affection for his friends, and love for his Church and her doctrines. At a memorial service held in the Methodist Episcopal Church in Corry, Pa., of which Mr. Norton was pastor at the time of his death, a brother made these remarks: "When Brother Norton came among us I heard him preach, and I said, 'He is too slow for me;' I met him in social life, and heard him talk, and said to myself, 'He is too slow for me.' But when I remember the good counsel he gave me as my pastor, and the rich testimony he gave for Christ—I think he was faster than I was. He was a good man. To-day he is dead and in heaven, and I think he is a good deal faster than I am."

William P. Maywood, P. L. Sparrow—2.

1. WILLIAM P. MAYWOOD was born in Hull, Canada East, March 6, 1842. He afterward removed with his parents to Canada West. He was converted in his twenty-first year, and joined the Wesleyan Methodist Church. The same year he was licensed to preach, and the year following was recommended for admission to the Wesleyan Conference. He was appointed successively to Paisley, Chatham, and Kingsville Circuits. At the end of his second year he married Miss Martha Jane Wigle. He removed to Michigan, and was admitted to the Detroit Conference in 1870. His first appointment was at Memphis, where he remained three years. His next field of labor was Ausable, where he remained three years. From thence he removed to Caro. During his second year there he was attacked suddenly with hemorrhage of the lungs, and was greatly prostrated. At the next Conference he was placed upon the superannuated list. Hoping to be benefited by the mountain air, he went to Denver, Colorado, and for a time hoped that he might regain his health. His hopes were not realized. On November 17, 1877, he passed to his reward. He was a faithful, successful, and much loved pastor.

2. PETER L. SPARROW was born in Canada, in 1833. He joined this Conference in 1875. After two years of labor with us he asked for a superannuated relation, and during the last summer he died. His wife died also during the summer. Brother Sparrow left no children. But little is known respecting his life and death, there being no one left belonging to him to furnish the facts.

QUEST. 15. Have any Died?

Wm. Hunter, Samuel Gregg,* E. Birkett, Gustavus A. Lowman, H. C. Smith—5.

1. WILLIAM HUNTER was born in the north of Ireland, May 30, 1811, and died in Cleveland, O., Oct. 11, 1877. When a child he came to America with his parents, who settled in York County, Pa., where his father soon after died, leaving him with two brothers and a sister in the care of their mother. His early educational advantages were limited, but so well improved that when yet a youth he gave gratifying evidence of a vigorous, well-balanced mind, and considerable progress in culture, with more than ordinary genius for expressing his thoughts and sentiments in writing. Dr. Charles Elliott, an educator, at that time connected with Madison College, visited the neighborhood, and noticed with satisfaction the talents, character, tastes, and industrious habits of young Hunter, and, believing that he had abilities for greatly enlarged usefulness, advised and encouraged his efforts to obtain a thorough education. Though without money, and his friends at that time unable to help him, he resolutely started for college; crossed the Allegheny Mountains on foot, with his change of clothing swung from a stick on his shoulder, and entered as a student in Madison College, nobly resolved to work his way up to the highest plane of knowledge and culture for which his soul thirsted. His many excellent qualities of mind and heart soon won for him friends and assured success, while he religiously consecrated himself and all he acquired to Christ. In 1833, just after leaving college, he was received on trial in the Pittsburgh Conference, and at the close of his third year succeeded Dr. Elliott in the editorship of the "Pittsburgh Conference Journal"—a responsibility seldom thrust on so young a minister. He showed a marked ability for the work, and through it became widely known to the Church. He was thrice afterward elected to the same position by the General Conference, the name of the paper being changed to the "Pittsburgh Christian Advocate."

He spent in all sixteen years in editorial work, sixteen as Kramer Professor of Hebrew and Biblical Literature in Allegheny College, and thirteen years on circuits, stations, and districts; and in all these years and places did his work well, with singleness of purpose, and for the glory of God. At the last session of his Conference he was appointed to Cleveland District, and entered the forty-fifth year of his effective service in fine health, and high hope of continued usefulness. But in less than three weeks the summons came, and, after a few hours of suffering, he closed his useful life of labor and gained the promised rest.

Dr. Hunter was no ordinary man. As a preacher he was able rather than brilliant. A patient, diligent student, he was profound in his researches. In the pulpit and in the professor's chair he impressed all as a sound, thorough, evangelical expositor of the word, with great breadth of knowledge and deep thoughtfulness, using his ample stores skillfully, not for display, but to make the truth more plain. Though a great man in our Zion, he was profoundly humble, evidently much less conscious of the great influence he was exerting than others who felt and rejoiced in it. He seemed never to use the arts of the mere orator, but his sterling thoughts were well expressed, in a manner at once clear, chaste, and beautiful, without any need of ornament to embellish them. He connected with his regular work, whether as pastor, presiding elder, journalist, or professor in college, no small amount of other literary labor; was appointed by the Board of Bishops on the Committee of Fifteen to revise the Hymn Book, and during the last two years did much valuable service under that appointment. In his own hymns, and in his "Commentary on the Book of Proverbs," he has left a permanent and most valuable legacy to the Church. Our dear brother was of a genial disposition, unselfish in his aims, and generous in his estimate of others. So cordial and true in his friendships, he was trusted and loved by all who knew him. His family, the Conferences, and the Church at large, deeply feel his loss, but we hope to meet him again.

2. EDWARD BIRKETT was born in Kendall, Westmoreland, England, Jan. 4, 1812, and died Aug. 13, 1878, at Mount Union, Ohio. His father was a local preacher in the Wesleyan Society. At the age of fourteen he gave his heart to Christ, was soon licensed to exhort, and four years later was licensed as a local preacher. In May, 1835, he came to America, and in July of that year was appointed by Bishop Andrews to Warren and Hartford Charge in the Pittsburgh Conference. Erie Conference being organized the next year, he was appointed to Meadville, where he remained two years, after which he was transferred to the Pittsburgh Conference. His appointments were successively as follows: Canton, Allegheny, New Brighton, Canton, St. Clairsville; superannuated, one year; Morgantown, Uniontown, Washington, Birmingham and Wheeling; Liberty-st., Pittsburgh; Allegheny; Agent of American and Foreign Christian

* See page 89.

Union one year; Washington, Washington District, M'Keesport, Canton, Manchester, Wellsville, M'Connellsville, Steubenville, superannuated again two years, Coshocton, Mount Union, Mansfield, superannuated the third time one year, New Lisbon one year, and from 1872 to 1878, superannuated. Though not strong physically, Brother Birkett's mental power and attainments were of a superior order. He was sound in the faith and steady in his purpose to win souls to Christ. His sermons exhibited careful thought, and were clothed in chaste and beautiful language. For many months before his death he was a great sufferer, but he possessed his soul in great peace. He delighted in hearing the Scriptures read, and in Christian worship and song. Among his last words were: "I am under the shadow of the Almighty." His soul, we doubt not, is with God, and his body rests in hope of the resurrection of the dead.

3. GUSTAVUS A. LOWMAN was born in Morgantown, W. Va., January 19, 1819. His father was Rev. William Lowman, at one time a member of the Baltimore Conference. He was the youngest child of a family of three sons and two daughters. His father died when he was six years old. He was his father's choice for his successor in the ministry. In the realization of this hope of the father, Brother Lowman's first circuit was the last one served by his father. Brother Lowman was licensed as an exhorter, and as a local preacher, and admitted on trial into the Pittsburgh Conference in 1841. He was ordained deacon in July, 1843, and elder in July, 1845. At the first division of the Pittsburgh Conference Brother Lowman fell into the Pittsburgh division, and at the last division of the Conference he became a member of the East Ohio Conference. For thirty-seven years Brother Lowman was an itinerant Methodist preacher, serving the Church faithfully in various appointments. His death was sudden, but it was calm and peaceful. He died on June 2, 1878, in good hope of eternal life.

4. HENRY C. SMITH was born in Rockland, Venango County, Pa., September, 1841, and died in Hubbard, O., July 1, 1877. Blessed with pious parents, he was converted at the early age of twelve years. He early felt that he was divinely called to the ministry, but a sense of unworthiness kept him from it till he was thirty years of age, when he yielded, gave up the practice of medicine, in which he had good success, and gave himself to the ministry of the Gospel. His six years in the ministry were years of great usefulness. In the highest sense of the term he was successful. He joined the Erie Conference in 1872, and was appointed to Hendersonville Circuit, where he remained three years; then to New Wilmington, where he remained one year, at the close of which, the Conference being divided, at the earnest request of the people of Hubbard, O., he was transferred to the East Ohio Conference and stationed at Hubbard, where he died in holy triumph. He leaves a wife and three children. His end was peaceful and triumphant.

1. CHARLES F. JAY was born in Tioga County, Pa., February 7, 1820. He moved to Ohio in 1835, and from there to this State. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church when about sixteen years old. He was united in marriage to Miss Sarah Bryan, July 22, 1841. A short time before his marriage he was licensed to exhort, and soon afterward to preach. He was ordained deacon in 1851, and elder in 1853. He joined the Conference in 1849, located in 1857, joined again in 1872, and was given a superannuated relation. He received nine appointments, namely: Salem, Bunker Hill, Edwardsville, Pocahontas two years, Waterloo, Chester two years, and Sparta; and as a local and superannuated preacher he filled sixteen appointments, making in all twenty-five years of itinerant life. At his home near Steelesville, in Randolph County, Ill., on January 27, 1878, he died in great peace, respected and loved of all good people who knew him.

Brother Joy was a thorough Christian, a sound preacher, a firm patriot, and a true temperance advocate. The last time he was in town he was so unwell that he could not stay for the temperance meeting at night, but ere he left he obtained a Murphy card apiece for himself and wife and his five children. He was a kind husband and father, a safe religious counselor, and is greatly missed in the society where he lived.

2. D. B. Van Winkle was born in Shelby County, Ill., Feb. 1, 1832. He united with the Church in early life, finding peace with God through our Lord Jesus Christ. Joining the Southern Illinois Conference in 1858, he very acceptably filled the following appointments: Pulaski, Pinckneyville, Metropolis. Took a location in 1861, and entered the army, serving four years as lieutenant in Seventy-third Illinois Volunteers. In 1868 he was readmitted, and filled the following appointments: Jonesborough, Troy, Greencastle, Fidelity and Pisa, Mason, Salem Circuit, Patoka, Mason. At the Conference in 1877 he was granted a supernumerary relation on account of poor health, and removed to Du Quoin, his old home, where he immediately took hold of all work assigned him by the Church. He was unanimously elected superintendent of the Sunday-school, nearly doubling the school in three months. In this department of Church work he excelled. Being elected steward, he worked with a zeal which would do credit to a strong healthy man. His devotion to the Church and his sympathetic firmness for the pastor will never be forgotten. One would scarcely be willing to go to him the second time with an evil report concerning either. With what sudden abruptness the change came! Having spent Friday, Jan. 25, the day before our second quarterly meeting, in gathering up the financial fragments, attending a funeral, and attending the opening services of the quarterly meeting, concluding for the presiding elder, he retired from labor to enter it no more. On Saturday morning he took a severe chill. On Monday morning he was better, and conversed freely with the presiding elder, who called with the pastor. He called in his lawyer, and had all his financial business put in convenient form. On Tuesday morning he was much worse, the disease having fully developed into acute pneumonia. He sank rapidly from this time. On Friday it was evident he could not survive long; he, therefore, completed his business, arranging in detail even for his funeral. His pastor was with him constantly, with whom he very freely and fully conversed, giving undoubted assurance of a triumphant entering in through the gates into the city. In the afternoon a message was sent to a ministerial friend, as follows: "Tell Brother H. I shall die to-night, but I am all right." The following is his message to the Conference: "My heart is full of the love of Jesus. 'I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith: henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness, which the Lord, the righteous Judge, shall give me at that day.'" At seven o'clock Saturday morning, Feb. 2, he ceased to breathe. We can give no better eulogy than that his was a truly conscientious, earnest, uncompromising life for God. In his death the Conference has lost a true minister and a faithful worker, and his deeply bereaved companion a loving husband.

3. William C. Dickson was born in Louisville, Ky., Jan. 3, 1838, and died in Olney, Ill., Nov. 19, 1877. His parents were faithful and respected members of the Old School Presbyterian Church, by whom he was taught in early childhood the duties and obligations which God's word enjoins, and deep and lasting impressions were made upon his mind. At the age of seventeen he was converted and joined the Cumberland Presbyterian Church. Two years later he entered the Cumberland University, Tenn., where he continued his studies nearly four years, and until the beginning of the Rebellion. In college, as in after life, he was a close student. In addition to the regular course he mastered the German language and phonography, in the latter of which, especially, he acquired considerable proficiency. In 1860 he received license to preach, and Sept. 5, 1864, he was married to Miss Marzilla Webb, who shared with him the toils and privations of his ministerial life, and now survives to mourn his death. He joined the M. E. Church in 1867, and in the fall of the same year he was admitted on trial into the Southern Illinois Conference, in connection with which he labored faithfully for the Master and for the Church, always receiving his appointment without a murmur, and cheerfully going to his field of labor.

It may be truthfully said, Brother Dickson was a good man. Christianity with him was something more than a profession. It entered into and molded his daily life, in all its minutia. It was an inward principle of the soul, by which he strove to regulate every action, word, and thought. It was a vital union with God, through which all needed grace was supplied, and every righteous impulse was conveyed. He was a man of prayer, and his prayer was not a mere form of words, but the outpouring of a soul yearning for the divine presence. He prayed not to be heard of men, but that he might converse with God; not only in the congregation and around the family altar, but where only Christians do pray, in the closet and silent grove. And here, it would seem, his happiest hours were enjoyed, for often in his private journal does he speak of these precious seasons. An earnest, faithful minister of Christ has fallen. In his death the Church has lost a true herald of the cross, the Conference a member and brother beloved, and his family an affectionate and faithful husband, a kind and loving father. His life was one of labor, his death one of triumph, and he has gone to possess the inheritance of the children of God.

S. S. Meginnis.

SOLOMON SHARP MEGINNIS was a grandson of Rev. Solomon Sharp, one of the early and noted preachers of the Philadelphia Conference, and son of Rev. William Meginnis, of the Indiana Conference. He was born in Terre Haute, Indiana, July 30, 1837, the same year his father became a member of the Indiana Conference. He received his education at Asbury University, during the residence of his father in Greencastle as pastor and presiding elder. He was converted and joined the Methodist Episcopal Church, at a camp-meeting in Putnam County, Ind., in 1855. In 1857 he accepted a position as teacher in the public schools of Warsaw, Illinois, and in 1858 was licensed to preach, and recommended as a proper person to be received into the traveling connection. The Illinois Conference in 1858 received him on trial, and appointed him to the Lincoln Circuit as junior preacher, Rev. S. Shinn being in charge. In 1859 he was appointed to Chatham Circuit, with Rev. J. S. Barger in charge. He thenceforth served Chesterfield, Hillsborough, Shelbyville, Tuscola, Clinton, Winchester, Mattoon District, Trinity Church, Quincy, and, in 1877, Winchester Station, where he died August 2, 1878, after an illness of ten days, this being his twentieth year in the Illinois Conference.

Brother Meginnis was married in New York, June 4, 1863, to Miss Mary Tooke, who, with two sons, one thirteen and the other ten years old, mourn the loss of a husband and father, who was more than ordinarily tender and devoted; but they mourn not as those without hope, for in his devoted life and peaceful death he gave evidence that their loss was his gain, as he expressed his feelings to his wife and others during his sickness that all was right and he was resigned to the will of God. Thus from the Illinois Conference and from the ranks of the ministry has been taken a man in his prime, from the harvest a successful gleaner, and from the vineyard of the Master a patient, earnest, and effective worker. The prayers of the Church are asked for the bereaved family in this their great affliction.

G. H. Jennison, I. K. Fuller—2.

1. GEORGE H. JENNISON was born in Monroe, Vt., Dec. 16, 1819. He was early a subject of converting grace. He received a liberal education, and, feeling he was called of God to the work of the ministry, at once engaged in preaching Christ and him crucified. He was one of the early ministers of this State. He became connected with the Methodist Conference, and served some six years in Mount Pleasant, Salem, and other places. His last appointment before the division of the Conference was Marion, Linn County, Iowa, where he became somewhat discouraged, and asked and received of the Conference a location. But he soon found that his work was not yet done. He sought and obtained the blessing of a clean heart, offered himself again for the work of the ministry, and was sent to Anamosa. Here his health failed, and he soon had to take a superannuated relation, which continued till his death, which occurred suddenly near Marion, July 8, 1878.

Brother Jennison's deep piety and loving spirit gave him many friends. While superannuated he preached with great acceptability. His excellent wife died in Marion a few years since. He leaves two married daughters and three sons.

2. I. K. FULLER died in De Witt, Iowa, June 17, 1878. He was born in Berkshire County, Mass., but in early life he removed with his parents to New York, and in early manhood to Indiana. In 1855 he came to Iowa and located at Mechanicsville, where he engaged in the practice of medicine. Before leaving Indiana he had been a preacher in the Baptist Church, but as there was no society of that Church in Mechanicsville, he united with the M. E. Church, and entered heartily into all its work. He next removed to Mount Vernon, from which place he was recommended to the Upper Iowa Conference, in which he was admitted on trial in 1857. From that time till his death he was a loyal, faithful, efficient member of the Conference. The following charges were in turn committed to his care: Springville, Sioux City, Dubuque, Marshalltown, M'Gregor, Iowa City, Iowa City District, Davenport, Fifth-street, Springville, De Witt, and Waterloo.

After his pastorate at Dewitt ill health compelled him to take a year's rest. At the next Conference he asked to be made effective, and was appointed to Waterloo. In spite of growing infirmity he performed the duties of this charge with his usual faithfulness till the last Sabbath of the year, which found him too feeble to preach. In 1876 he returned to De Witt. During the remaining twenty months he was for most of the time confined to his room by paralysis, and a large part of the time to his bed. His disease progressed slowly till about five weeks before his death, from which time he failed rapidly.

Brother Fuller was not permitted to give any last testimony respecting the value of faith in Christ; his last hours were hours of unconsciousness; but the patient cheerfulness with which he bore the pain and weakness of his last sickness were a better testimony than any last words of ecstasy could have been. Through all these months he never complained, was never irritable or exacting. Though to those who saw his suffering and knew the perplexities of his business it seemed impossible, he often said, "The last year has been the best year of my life." He had learned to suffer as well as to do the will of his Father in heaven. Such a victory over circumstances so adverse, is strong evidence of the value of faith in Christ, and a character fashioned by that faith. He rests in peace, and his works do follow him.

T. A. Hull, A. J. Combes, David Hart—3.

1. T. A. HULL was born in Brokenstrom Township, Warren County, Pa., Feb. 9, 1821, and died March 1, 1878. Of the incidents and opportunities of his early years we have but little information. He was converted at about twelve years of age, and soon united with the M. E. Church. At sixteen he was appointed class-leader, and filled this office with great credit to himself and satisfaction and profit to the Church. He subsequently filled the office of steward, and exhibited rare business talent. Although often pressed by friends to preach, he repeatedly declined until about forty years of age, when he received a license to exhort. One year later he was licensed a local preacher, and immediately began the itinerant work. He was frequently employed as a "supply" by different presiding elders in Illinois, Missouri, and Nebraska, and rendered efficient service. About six years ago he was admitted on trial in this Conference, and continued a member of the same until his death. In all his relations to the Church he was a faithful and indefatigable laborer. His ministrations were earnest and successful in leading souls to Christ. With but limited advantages in early life, he was not known as a scholar. He, however, understood well the doctrines of our Church, and often defended them with zeal, and at times with surprising acuteness, against all assailants. He was generally regarded strict, if not rigid, as a disciplinarian. He was cordial, cheerful, and generous. His religious experience was deep and clear, always evincing a hope well grounded and a faith immovable. His preaching partook of the character of his experience, and was thoroughly Methodistic. He was fervent and devout. His moral sky seldom saw a cloud. His oft-repeated wish was "to die at his post;" hence no difficulties cooled his ardor, no afflictions moved his purpose, no sorrow blighted his faith in God. He met the responsibilities of life and all the demands of the Church with Christian fortitude and patience, until the Good Shepherd said, "It is enough, come up higher." As a citizen he was loyal and patriotic; as a friend, trustworthy and reliable; as a brother, true and amiable; as a father, kind and affectionate, and as a husband, faithful and considerate. He was much esteemed by all who knew him, and his death is a great loss to the Church. While engaged in a protracted meeting at one of his appointments he died, while in the pulpit. Robust and healthy at sunset, at nine he had ceased to work and live.

So sudden was his departure, and so unexpected, that he could leave no dying testimony; but a life of such earnest work, and a faith so steadfast, needs no closing shout of victory to tell us that the victor's crown is his. Thus has another veteran in the army of our Israel departed. He has passed from earth's sorrows to the joys of heaven. Many are the stars in the crown of his rejoicing as seals to his ministry. Sister Hull, with four of the children, lives at Peru, awaiting the call that shall summon her to a happy meeting in the world above.

2. A. J. COMBES was born in Indiana Nov. 12, 1845, and lived successively in Illinois, Iowa, and Nebraska. He was converted in 1865, and to the end of his life continued a true exemplar of the religion of our Lord. In 1869 he was married to Miss Mary Robinson, and three years later was licensed a preacher in the M. E. Church. He was admitted into this Conference on trial in 1875, and was appointed to David City. In 1877 he was received into full connection, and was appointed to the Osceola Charge. Notwithstanding his failing health he went heroically to his work, saying, "I will fall at my post." When advised to cease from labor he replied, "The Master sought not rest, and I do not seek it." He won the affection of all who knew him, and found a home in every heart. He was an earnest, faithful worker for God. During his illness he was a patient sufferer. He left as his dying words to his brethren in the ministry these words, "Tell them, 'Holy triumph,'" and in a few moments fell asleep in Jesus.

The life and death of Sister Combes are so identified with those of her husband that we shall not separate their memoirs. Sister Combes was a faithful and loving wife and earnest Christian mother. Her health fast declining at her husband's death, but a few months followed when she, too, departed this life and entered into the rest above. Three little boys, aged respectively four, six, and eight, are left to the care of this Conference. May God bless and save the children!

3. DAVID HART was born in Yorkshire, England, November 2, 1821. Deprived of his father when quite young, he was blest with the instruction and example of a godly mother. He was converted at the early age of nine, and was baptized and confirmed in the Episcopal Church, of which his mother was a member, but afterward they both united with the Wesleyan Methodists. When nineteen years of age he was appointed class-leader, and at the age of twenty-one he was licensed to preach. A year later he was united in marriage to Miss Anna Daggit, with whom, in 1851, he came to America, and settled at Jacksonville, Ill. He engaged in business, but by the death of his wife and two youngest children his plans were all thwarted, and in deep affliction he turned his attention wholly to the ministry. He came to Nebraska in the spring of 1855, and was immediately employed on a mission, embracing Richardson and Pawnee Counties, and entered upon his duties as an itinerant with that earnestness and energy which so signally characterized his whole ministry. The following year he was united in marriage with his now bereaved wife, and in the spring of 1858 joined the Kansas and Nebraska Conference, and was appointed to Plattsmouth Mission, which he served one year with ability and success, his labors being blessed with a gracious revival of religion. He was appointed successively to Brownville, Fontenelle, and De Soto. In the latter charge he remained but three months, when he was changed to Omaha, where he remained two years. While here he was newly empowered for his work by receiving the blessing of perfect love, which he ever after retained, and which became richer, sweeter, and more glorious as life passed away; and with this new endowment of power came increased usefulness. After a very successful pastorate in Omaha, he was appointed successively to Bellevue, Plattsmouth, and Brownville. At the latter place, under excessive revival labors, his health failed, and he was compelled to take a superannuated relation, in which he continued four years, when, recovering his health, he was again made effective, and served successively Table Rock, Tecumseh, and Beatrice. In all these charges he made full proof of his ministry, especially in Beatrice, where his memory is still cherished by a grateful people, who were greatly profited by his able ministry and truly Christian life. Closing his pastorate at Beatrice, he was appointed a third time to Plattsmouth. Here his labors in connection with the Conference commenced, and here, with failing health, prostrated by his pulpit efforts, his labors closed. Often, with his countenance all aglow with heavenly transport, he would exclaim, "I am ready now, this moment, to depart if it be the Lord's will." He preached his last sermon from 2 Tim. iv, 6–8. The text and the sermon were a fitting close to his ministerial life. He attended Conference in Omaha last October, took a superannuated relation, and in company with his wife went to Utah, hoping that a change of climate might so restore health as to enable him to resume labor in that dark and difficult field. He desired to live only that he might be useful, and his zeal in the cause of God could only be quenched by the waters of death. While at Salt Lake City he took part in the services of the Church, as far as he was able, greatly to the edification of its members. Leaving there, he went to American Fork, to spend the winter with his brother-in-law, where, January 14, 1878, he passed away from earth in holy triumph, exclaiming, "Glory!" and saying, "They are waiting. I see them, a great company. Let us go."

Brother Hart was a man of strong faith and full of the Holy Ghost, and his preaching was in demonstration of the Spirit and of power. He possessed great energy of character, and was unswerving in his adherence to the right. He was ardent in his affections, and faithful in all the relations of life. Abundant in labors, he gathered many sheaves into the garner of the Lord, and will, doubtless, have many stars in the crown of his rejoicing.

William Keegan.

WILLIAM KEEGAN died at Elgin, Illinois, August 26, 1878, aged fifty-three years. He was born in Ireland, near Dublin, on the seventh of November, 1825. At the age of sixteen he was converted, and united with the Methodist Church. When about twenty years of age he emigrated with his father's family to America. After remaining some time in New York, the family removed to Chicago, making their permanent home there. Brother Keegan then became a member of Clark-st. M. E. Church; was soon licensed to preach by the Quarterly Conference, and preached his first sermon in the old church edifice, on the corner of Clark and Washington-streets, Chicago.

He entered the Rock River Conference at the session of 1850, held at Plainfield, Ill., and was immediately appointed assistant preacher at Jefferson and Owen streets, Chicago. Remaining there one year, he was then appointed to Hanover, Jo Daviess County, Ill. The following year he traveled Galena Circuit, with Rev. F. A. Read as preacher in charge. The succeeding year he was at Dundee and Barrington. In the autumn of 1855 he was stationed at La Salle. Then followed two years of faithful and successful labor at Warren. He was then appointed to Wilmington Circuit, where he labored with acceptability for two years. In 1860 his field of labor was Lisbon, Kendall County, Ill., where he remained two years. In the fall of 1862 he was again appointed to Warren, but the following spring his health failed, he suffered great nervous prostration, and the light of his brilliant intellect was hopelessly clouded and obscured by insanity. In his early ministry and before his health began to give way, Brother Keegan gave promise of eminence as a minister of the Gospel. He had a brilliant mind, gifted in an unusual degree with power of discrimination, and logical analysis. He was an enthusiastic student, an eloquent and impressive speaker, and thoroughly devoted to the work of the Christian ministry. His faith in the Gospel rested upon intelligent convictions, induced by thorough investigation, and carefully tested personal experience.

He rests from his labors, and his works do follow him. The clouds that dimmed his intellect to our view have passed away, and he has gone to a home of unclouded light, where "they that be wise shall shine as the brightness of the firmament, and they that turn many to righteousness as the stars, forever and ever."

I. Wiltse, E. P. Beecher, W. Shroff—3.

1. ISAAC WILTSE was born in Manlius, N. Y., January 7, 1837, and died in Ripon, Wis., March 30, 1878. Reared by pious parents, habitually instructed in the Sabbath-school, and converted at the age of fifteen, it is not strange that he developed a firm, manly Christian character. Early in his religious life he felt called to the work of the ministry, and industriously labored to prepare himself for this high and holy calling. In 1859 he was admitted on trial in the Wisconsin Conference, having been in the local ranks about one year. He was ordained deacon in 1860, and elder in 1862. In the fourth year of his ministry he was united in marriage to Miss Theresa O. Peters, who proved a worthy companion for a worthy itinerant, and who now mourns her irreparable loss. His appointments were: Wautoma, Amherst, Kingston, Door Creek, Lowell, Liberty, Prairie, Dartford, Berlin, Beaver Dam, and Ripon. From the first he evinced an absorbing devotion to his chosen life-work, and always left his charges in a healthful, growing condition. Many are the seals to his ministry where he has labored. In his last field of labor he met the peculiar and trying circumstances of the place with a Christian kindness and manly firmness that challenged universal respect. He fell at his post in the midst of his labors, dying in the triumphs of faith.

Brother Wiltse was a true friend, a noble Christian, a successful minister of our Lord Jesus Christ.

2. ELIJAH PARKES BEECHER was born in Rensselaerville, Albany Co., N. Y., Dec. 7, 1810, and died in Beaver Dam, Dodge County, Wis., Nov. 3, 1877. He was converted and joined the M. E. Church at about twenty-five years of age, and in 1840 was admitted on trial in Oneida Conference, and appointed to Flemingville Charge. His subsequent fields of labor in that Conference were Macdonough, Union, Carolina Center, Bainbridge, North Pitcher, Plymouth, East Hamilton, Cincinnatus, South Onondaga, and Onondaga Valley. In 1855 he was transferred to Wisconsin Conference, and appointed to Evansville Circuit, subsequently to Waterloo and to Fort Atkinson. In the spring of 1859 his health partially failed, and he was placed on the superannuated list, holding that relation for eighteen months, when he was made effective, and appointed successively to Lowell, Randolph, and Burnett. In 1865 he was appointed agent of the American Bible Society, which position he filled with much efficiency for four years. In the fall of 1869 he again retired to the superannuated ranks, and for eight years he occupied his time as far as his strength would allow, to supply the temporal necessities of his family, but was ever ready to do any work that health and opportunity permitted as a minister of the Lord Jesus.

As a preacher Brother Beecher was very earnest and enthusiastic, never allowing the winter season to pass without extra services at the various points on his charge, and as a result, in his pastorate of twenty-three years he invariably had accessions to the membership. Although his health had been broken for some time his death was sudden, but he was fully prepared, his experience having been increasingly joyous and hopeful. He loved ardently the Church, and her ordinances were his delight.

Brother Beecher was married to Miss Rachel J. Osborne, Feb. 16, 1841. Three of his children passed on before him to the spirit land, and five mourn with our dear Sister Beecher their loss. "But they sorrow not as those without hope."

3. WILLIAM SHROFF was born in 1812. Converted in his youth, he early joined the Ohio Conference. After laboring several years in Ohio, he was transferred to Wisconsin Conference, of which he continued a member until his death. Superannuating in 1860 on account of the health of his wife, he resided for a time in Iowa, but subsequently removed to Maryland, where he died May 5, 1877.

Brother Shroff was the subject of long and severe affliction, both in his family and person. His wife died in 1874, after two years, confinement to her bed. For a long time his own health was very poor. These afflictions, with business reverses, hastened his demise. During his last sickness he suffered intensely for nine months, but he endured as seeing Him who is invisible, without murmur or complaint. He was a devoted man of God, ready to labor or to suffer as the Master should order. His death was peaceful and triumphant.

1. JOHN AGAR was born in Newtonbrook, Canada, February 10, 1843, and died in Kendall, New York, February 9, 1878. Brother Agar was of Methodist stock, and strongly adhered to the doctrine in which he was trained. He received his education in one of the best academical schools of this country. At the age of seventeen he experienced religion, and joined the Church. Soon after his conversion he began to preach, and his name appeared on the circuit plan of the Wesleyan Conference in Canada. After preaching three or four years he married Miss Mary J. Hill, of Toronto. Shortly after his marriage he came to this country, and, after preaching one year under the presiding elder, was received into the Western New York Conference in 1873, and was returned to Williamsville, the charge he had supplied the previous year. In 1874 he was sent to Bolivar, where he remained one year. In 1875 he was sent to East Porter and Dickinsonville, where he stayed two years. In 1876 he was sent to Kendall, and was returned in 1877, where he remained until his death.

Brother Agar was a young man of more than ordinary preaching ability. He was logical, scriptural, and forcible in his pulpit efforts; while in his pastoral visitations he was faithful and systematic, doing his work as required by the Discipline. He had a great desire to live, that he might preach only Christ, and him crucified. He contended with his disease long and faithfully, and kept his pulpit sometimes even when he had to sit, such was the interest he had for the cause and the people he served. His end was most triumphant. He took great comfort in having the Bible read to him, and in the prayers of his faithful brethren who came to see him. He passed away with prayer upon his lips, saying, the last night he spent on earth, "Glory to God! This is not excitement, this is not the result of my medicine; it is the glory of God in my soul." Before the next night he was numbered among the angels. He leaves a faithful, devoted wife and a little daughter of five summers, old enough to remember her father, but too young to realize her great loss. He died in the midst of a noble, generous people, who did all in their power to supply his wants and alleviate his sufferings. May the great Shepherd sustain the Church and family bereaved of this our fellow-comrade!

2. AMOS HARD was born in Whitehall, N. Y., on December 12, 1812, and died at Painted Post, November 15, 1877, wanting but one month of sixty-five years of age. His first means of grace were those which have proved mercies to so many—poverty and unavoidable hardship. When six years old his mother was left a widow, and at the age of nine he was thrust upon the world for himself. He had learned the trade of a tanner, when the Lord won his heart, and he was mightily stirred with a divine call to the gospel ministry. Here he hesitated, restrained by his natural diffidence, overwhelmed by a feeling of insufficiency, and tempted by offers of worldly advantage. The struggle was so intense on his mind that he even wished he might die, and thus innocently escape the responsibilities which he felt were thrust upon him. But God had chosen that he should die in a higher sense, and thus cheerfully accept these responsibilities for Christ's sake. Accordingly, in 1835 he became a student in Genesee Wesleyan Seminary, the Elim by which he, his sons, and so many of his younger brethren, have come to their places in our ministry. In 1837 he was married to Miss Elizabeth W. Robinson, who has been the companion of his abundant labors, and still survives him; and in the fall of the same year he connected himself with the Genesee Conference, of which body [parenthetically, styled through four years the Western New York] he remained an honored member to the time of his death. During this time he was appointed pastor of the following charges, namely: Bloomfield, Nunda, Corning, Elba, Kendall, Churchville and Chili, Brockport, Clarkson and Parma. He served in many of these fields for two years, and in one of them four different times. His ministry of forty years was broken by periods of failing health and consequent superannuation, but his labors to save men were scarcely interrupted. On the evening of November 5, 1877, while walking the railroad track from Painted Post to Corning, he fell into an open culvert, and was so injured by the fall as to be unconscious, and in that state was carried to his home. He lingered for some days, and was finally able to recognize and converse with his family and friends, giving them as his parting words: "Farewell! Praise the Lord! Home!" Two sons, his only children, survive him, both converted in childhood, and both members of the ministry which their father has left. Brother Amos Hard as a Christian was thorough and earnest. He tolerated nothing superficial in himself or others. In the words of his life-long friend, Rev. Dr. Reddy, "He abhorred all shams." His own conversion was a fact of his consciousness, and admitted of no doubt. There was a God in it whom he knew to be the Lord by the Holy Ghost. And in dealing with awakened sinners he would not accept sentiment for repentance, nor good desires for faith. He insisted that the human heart must break down before God; that men might have idols which they did not see, and that they must search them out, and give them up if they would be saved. His study and prayer to find out what the Bible meant by "holiness," his hunger for its experience, his wrestlings, and fastings, and rigorous self-testings, and the unutterable sweetness of divine love with which his whole soul was filled, as related by himself, constitute one of the most vivid pictures of a Christian mightily in earnest. An incident was related at his funeral, illustrative of his faith. At the beginning of a series of meetings held by him the interest seemed to warrant the call for inquirers to take the front row of pews. These were vacated, and Brother Hard appealed to those desirous of special prayer or conversation to come forward. No one moved. He then requested that the next tier of pews be likewise vacated, and this was done. He made another fervent appeal. There was no response, but his faith did not fail. He called for the third tier of seats to be emptied, and then he besought his hearers to seek salvation immediately. About fifty persons arose and went forward as inquirers, and thus began a powerful revival of religion. As a preacher Brother Hard was eminently biblical. He was familiar with the Scriptures, ready and apt in their quotation, and his sermons abounded in quaint and pungent reflections. He was always practical, pointed, and full of home thrusts. His preaching searched the heart and hunted down its sins. We call to mind a camp-meeting at which he exhorted a crowd of thoughtless people, until they appeared breathless with fear, while the very air seemed filled with the terrors of the Lord. Measured by the standard of success in winning souls to Christ, few have gone from among us to a richer reward, or leaving behind a more glorious record.

3. Asa Orcutt died at the residence of his son, in Sonora, Steuben County, N. Y., June 17, 1878, in the eighty-second year of his age. He was born in Stafford, Conn., Sept. 18, 1796. In 1806 the family removed to Gilford, in the State of New York, where his mother, a devoted Christian and faithful member of the M. E. Church, maintained family worship alone till, in answer to her prayers, Asa, her oldest son, at the age of sixteen, was converted. After this the devotional services of the family altar devolved upon him. His studious habits and faithfulness as a Christian gave early promise of his subsequent call to the ministry and the life of usefulness which followed. He was licensed to exhort at the age of nineteen, and commenced his labors as a preacher in 1820. His first circuit was in the Beechwoods, in Pennsylvania, under the direction of the presiding elder. In 1821 he was received on trial, and in 1823 in full connection in the Genesee Conference. His appointments after this were as follows: 1823, Batavia; 1824, Orangeville; 1825, Bath; 1826–27. Troupsburgh; 1828–29. Tioga; 1830, Towanda; 1831, Wheeler; 1832, Naples and Wheeler; 1833–1834, Jersey; 1835–36. Seneca; 1837–38, Angelica; 1839–40, Tyrone, supernumerary. This was his last appointment. About this time he removed to the town of Bradford, Steuben County. In that and the adjoining town he lived as a superannuated minister, greatly beloved by the people, till he ended his pilgrimage below and entered the heavenly rest. Brother Orcutt had been twice married, first to Miss Mary Tuttle, Feb. 27, 1825. She died in great peace in 1845. His second wife was Miss Nancy Sebring, who also passed to her heavenly inheritance several years before him. Brother Orcutt was the father of ten children, eight of whom survive him. He was a man of genuine, uniform, and consistent piety. There was a noble simplicity, a transparent truthfulness, a godly sincerity, in his character. He never had any double part to act. What he seemed to be he was, at home, abroad, in youth, in manhood, in age, in prosperity, in adversity, in health, in sickness, in life, in death—"an Israelite indeed, in whom was no guile."

The death of Father Orcutt has severed one of the last links that bind our age to a period now historical and forever memorable and unique; but he, being dead, yet speaketh—speaketh in the monuments of his heroic labors in the souls converted and Churches established through his instrumentality; speaketh in the memory of his godly example, his useful life, his serene old age, and his peaceful death; for death found the venerable pilgrim staff in hand, with his loins girded about and his light burning. His trust in Christ was victorious to the last. Speaking of his past life he said, "I can see nothing in it that I can depend upon for salvation. My whole trust is in the merits of Christ. Through him alone I hope to obtain an inheritance among the saints in light." The memory of the just is blessed!

4. John Parker was born in the town of Painted Post, Steuben County, N. Y., February 22, 1800, and died in the city of Rochester, March 17, 1878. In many respects Brother Parker was a remarkable man. His life measures over three quarters of a century, of the most eventful period of our country's history. He was converted and united with the Methodist Episcopal Church at the age of twenty, and such was his zeal for God, and for the salvation of souls, that he was licensed by the Church as an exhorter about six months after his conversion. He was received on trial in the Genesee Annual Conference, July 24, 1822, at its session in Vienna, (now Phelps,) Ontario County, N. Y., and for fifty-six years he has gone in and out before us as a Christian minister with honor to himself and with credit to the Church. In 1824 he was ordained deacon, and in 1826 he graduated to elder's orders. Such was his desire at this time for a proper education to fit him for his great life-work, that he managed to prosecute his studies at Cazenovia Seminary, while at the same time he performed the work of a pastor on the various charges to which he was sent. His appointments during his long and eventful ministry were as follows: In 1822, Thames, Upper Canada; 1823, Lyon's Creek, Upper Canada; 1824, Herkimer; 1825, Cortland; 1826, Perry; 1827, Norton's Mills, now Honeoye Falls. During this year he was united in marriage to Miss Lucy Blake, of Livonia, N. Y., a most estimable lady, who, after so many years of toil in the itinerant work, survives to mourn his loss. In 1828 he was sent to Canaan Circuit, Pa.; 1829, Victor and Mendon; 1830, Ontario and Palmyra; 1831–32, Canandaigua; 1833, Bloomfield; 1834, Geneseo; 1835–36, Lyons; 1837, East Rochester; 1838–39, Mendon and West Bloomfield; 1840, Groveland and Geneseo; 1841–42, Perry. In 1843 he was granted a supernumerary relation at his own request, for the purpose of settling up some business matters. In 1844 he was sent to Livonia; 1845, Batavia; 1846–47, Canandaigua; 1848–49, Mount Morris; 1850, Rush and Henrietta; 1851, Waterloo; 1852–1854, Elmira District; 1855, Horseheads. In 1856 he was returned superannuated on account of an injury received from a fall. In 1857 he was again made effective and appointed to Pittsford; 1858, Chaplain Monroe County Penitentiary; 1859, Rush; 1860, Henrietta; 1861, Tyre; 1862, Canoga; 1863–64, superannuated; 1865, Conesus; 1866, Scottsburgh; 1867–68, Taylorsville; 1869, Henrietta; 1870, Scottsburgh and East Sparta; 1871, West Webster; 1872, Charlotte. In 1873 he was returned superannuated, and continued in that relation to the time of his death. During his last illness he talked freely of his own religious experience, and of his prospects for the future, and always expressed himself ready to depart and be with Christ. In one interview he exclaimed: "O, I desire to feel constantly the baptism of the Holy Ghost, and of power, and I desire this baptism of the Spirit and of power to rest on the whole Church." Thus closed a long and useful life. Thus our brother ended his journey on earth. Having fought a good fight and finished his course, he is crowned at last. Let us imitate his virtues, and catch a fresh inspiration at his grave. An old pioneer is dead. The hero of many battles sleeps, but not forever, for

"It is not death to die—
To leave this weary road,
And 'mid the brotherhood on high
To be at home with God."

5. Gideon Lanning was born in the State of New Jersey, March 23, 1792. He died in Jacksonville, Tompkins County, N. Y., May 26, 1878. His father moved to New York State in the year 1800, and settled in the forest near Jacksonville. This country was then a wilderness. Ithaca contained about a half dozen houses, and Rochester was without a name or even inhabitants. Benjamin Lanning, the father, was appointed the first leader of a Methodist class formed in Jacksonville in 1804. Gideon was converted and joined the class when a boy of thirteen. He received license to exhort at seventeen, and license to preach at nineteen, and joined the Genesee Conference as a traveling preacher at twenty. He entered the work of the itinerancy with quite delicate health to preach the Gospel in the open air, or in barns, to swim rivers on horseback, to sleep in log-houses, where he could see the stars through the roof, and often to awake and find the snow the heavier part of the covering to the bed. The Genesee Conference was at this time but two years old and numbered but twenty members. Brother Lanning's first appointment was Pompey, Onondaga County, after which he served the following charges: New Amsterdam (now Buffalo,) Newtown, (now Elmira,) Ontario, Lyons, Michigan Mission, (Detroit.) In 1819, on account of ill health, he was transferred to Baltimore Conference and served Auckwick, Huntington, Montgomery, and Fairfax Circuits. In 1823 he returned and served thereafter Catharine, Geneva, and Canandaigua, Crooked Lake, Geneva Station, Bloomfield and Geneseo, Newark Station, Batavia and Alexander, Palmyra, Rushville, Plattsburgh, Churchville and Chili, Stafford and Bethany, Caledonia, Covington, Elba, and finally was stationed at Le Roy, where his health failed him and he did not fill out the year.

Brother Lanning was first married in 1815 to Miss Elizabeth Coats, of Hector, N. Y., who on account of delicate health was never able to endure the more severe trials of the itinerancy. She died at Lima, N. Y., in 1832. He was married again in 1836 to Miss Hester Ann Hudson, of Newark, Wayne County, N. Y., who lives to suffer the sorrows of bereavement and the loneliness of the widow, having buried the fifth and last member of her family. Brother Lanning's sickness for the past two years was protracted and severe. In the early part of 1877 he was four months confined to his room, and most of the time to his bed. In the fall he was obliged to take to his bedroom again and spent seven months in suffering; but his faith and trust in the divine promises did not waver. On the morning of March 23, his eighty-sixth birthday, he designated the seventh chapter of Revelation and hymn 656 for the use in family devotions. God wonderfully manifested his presence, and he exclaimed, "This is the happiest birthday party of my life." He was so baptized with the Spirit that he often spoke of it for many days. On Thursday, May 23, he began to decline more rapidly. The day was one of triumph in prospect of his immediate departure. He gradually sank until Sunday about six o'clock P.M., when he gently dropped his mantle and left us for the home of the blest.

6. Enos Smith, a member of Genesee Conference, was born in Erie, Chemung County, N. Y., August 9, 1830, and died in East Otto, N. Y., October 5, 1877. He was converted in January, 1859, and licensed to exhort in the April following. Having been previously married and lost his wife by death, leaving him with one daughter, he was married a second time to Ellen L. Scofield, who lives to mourn her sad bereavement. After supplying the Honeoye Charge for one year he was received into the Genesee Conference at its session in Lima, October 6, 1864, and appointed to Port Allegheny. His successive appointments were: 1864–65, Port Allegheny; 1866–68, Gainsville; 1869–70, Pike and East Pike; 1871–73, Friendship; 1874–76, East Otto; 1877, Friendship again. During the conference session of 1877 Brother Smith was confined at home by a fever, from which he seemed to be recovering, and was appointed to work as usual; but soon after his disease took an unfavorable turn, and before his friends were hardly aware he was with the angels. His funeral was held in East Otto on Sunday, October 7, amid the tears and mourning of hundreds who loved him, many of whom he had led to Jesus. Brother Smith was a quiet but devoted man and minister. When he entered the ministry he gave himself entirely to this one work, never having turned aside from it for an hour. Every charge on which he labored was benefited by his coming.

7. JOHN POWELL was born in Pembroke, South Wales, September 18, 1815. Of pious parentage, he was reared with such regard for divine things that even in very early life he was remarkable for his thoughtfulness and strict integrity. The paternal home was the hospitable resting-place of the early Wesleyan ministers, who, over the rugged mountains and through the quiet valleys of his native land, instructed the honest Welshmen in the things of God. He was converted at the age of sixteen, and while yet young received license to preach. Of his labors in his native land we have no data. So nearly as we can learn he first came to the United States in 1837, and, probably employed by the presiding elder, was stationed at Niagara, Genesee Conference, and in 1838 at Clarence. In 1839 he was sent to Lewiston. In the fall of 1840 he returned to England, where, at Plymouth, he was united in marriage to her who is now so sadly bereaved. In the year 1842 he returned to this country, and at the session of the Genesee Conference he became a probationer, and was stationed at Webster. His subsequent appointments were as follows: 1843, Niagara and Tonawanda. In 1844 he was ordained a deacon, and sent to Black Rock; 1845–46, Castile, having been in the latter year ordained an elder; 1847, Naples; 1848, Potter, East Genesee Conference; 1849, Lodi and Townsendville; 1850, Jacksonville; 1851, Townsendville and Covert; 1852–53, Springfield; 1854, Frenchtown; 1855–56, Canton; 1857, Mainsburgh; 1858–59, Chatham; 1860–61, Castleton and Hopewell; 1862, Italy Hollow; 1863–64, Jasper; 1865–67, South Sodus. Here he finished up his active itinerancy. In March, 1868, he removed with his family to Hopewell Center, where, among the kindest of earthly friends, he spent the remainder of his pilgrimage below, greatly esteemed and tenderly loved. The last sickness of our departed brother was comparatively brief. From the first attack he felt assured that he should not recover. He was not alarmed, but conversed freely respecting his dissolution. With holy confidence he exclaimed, "Living or dying, all is right." He took his exit from earth May 27, 1878. One has said, "Our people die well." Thus died Rev. J. Powell. None who knew him will doubt that he sleeps in Jesus, and that when Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall he also appear with him in glory. His record is on high, and in the hearts of hundreds to whom he ministered the word of life. May God bless and sustain the bereaved widow and children, and may they all meet, "no wanderer lost, a family in heaven!"

Brodus Hoffman.

BRODUS HOFFMAN died at his home in Eagle Lake, Texas, March 31, 1878. He had served two years at Eagle Lake. He had been assigned to Egypt, but finding he could do nothing there, he went to Eagle Lake, where he found an open door, which he entered at once. He was very successful, and was returned the second year. On account of failing health he did not reach the Conference held at Waco, and hence he was granted a superannuated relation. Rev. G. W. Smith writes: "I met Brother Hoffman for the first time in San Antonio, in 1872. He had lately returned from the frontier, an honorably discharged soldier of the United States army, having served out his term of enlistment. He joined the West Texas Conference in 1874. In all my intercourse with him I found him to be a truly devoted Christian, always abounding in the work of the Lord, visiting the sick, relieving the poor, and cheering the despondent. Hearing that he was dangerously ill I went to see him, and spent a half day in talking with him and reading the Bible. I found him resigned, and only waiting for the boatman to convey him across the stream of death. He expressed himself as highly gratified at having a brother minister as an eyewitness of his parting struggle, and intrusted to me his final message of love to his brethren in the ministry." He was conscious to the last, and just before death waved his hands in triumph and pointed upward. May the widow's God keep and protect his devoted companion, so sadly bereaved!

HENRY R. PARMENTER was admitted on trial in the New England Conference in 1854, and in 1874 was transferred to the Georgia Conference, and appointed to the La Grange Charge, where he discharged the duties of a faithful pastor and diligent teacher for three years, during which time God abundantly blessed his labors. He was in full sympathy with his work. His heart was set upon the elevation of the Freedmen; and, being a medical practitioner, he had many calls upon his time and pocket, especially as he did all this without reward. These combined labors were too much for a sickly man, whose zeal for the Lord's poor ate him up. In 1876 he was appointed presiding elder of the La Grange District, and the preachers and people can testify to his diligent labor in the upbuilding of the work on the district. Mild but firm in the administration of discipline, and full of sympathy for his preachers and people, he made himself as little burdensome to them as possible. Nothing so much grieved him as to be unable to meet an appointment. In the pulpit he was clear and earnest in preaching Christ and him crucified. Much travel and exposure weakened his constitution and hastened his death. In 1877 he was appointed to Newnan Charge, where he preached but twice, and then after being carried to the church to do so. Though a great sufferer, he bore his sufferings with Christian patience, lingering until the 6th of March, when the summons came, and he was called home to rest.

RECEIVED TOO LATE FOR INSERTION IN PROPER PLACE.

East Ohio Conference.

SAMUEL GREGG was born near Youngsville, Warren County, Pa., March 13, 1809, and died in Cleveland, Ohio, October 14, 1877, having been a member of the Methodist Episcopal Church fifty-two years, and a minister of the Gospel forty-five years. Early in life he became the subject of saving grace, and at sixteen he joined the Church. His convictions were deep and thorough; his conversion, radical; his experience of the deep things of God, clear and satisfactory, filling his soul with "joy unspeakable and full of glory." Soon after his conversion the divine Spirit began to move him to activity in the vineyard of the Lord, and his brethren, recognizing his ability, licensed him to exhort in the spring of 1830, and to preach in 1832. He was admitted into the Pittsburgh Conference in 1833, received into full connection and ordained deacon in 1835, and at the first session of the Erie Conference, in the fall of 1836, he was ordained an elder, since which time he has never failed to attend the annual sessions of his Conference, and to participate in its deliberations.

As a preacher Brother Gregg gave evidence of a clear and comprehensive knowledge of the plan of saving grace, presenting Christ as the all-sufficient Saviour of those who by faith accept him, and by his persuasive eloquence leading many to the Fountain of life and salvation, who will be stars in the crown of his rejoicing in the day of the Lord. He was modest and unassuming, and yet possessed of a laudable ambition to succeed in his calling as a minister of the Lord Jesus Christ, which led him to use all the means within his reach to qualify himself for any work the Church might assign him. Accordingly he rose to positions of honor and trust, being appointed to some of the best stations in the Conference—Erie, Jamestown, Painesville, Akron, Cleveland, etc. He also filled acceptably the office of presiding elder on the Ravenna District, and was honored by his brethren as their representative in the General Conference. He has left some evidence of his industry and ability as an author in "Early Ripe Fruit," a charming Sunday-school book, "Infant Church Membership," and two volumes of the "History of the Erie Annual Conference." His end was exceedingly peaceful and his rest glorious. A friend visiting him during the session of his Conference, held in Cleveland, found him failing in body, but in a very happy state of mind, perfectly resigned, and waiting for the coming of the Lord, and saying, "I never look to Him but he smiles on me." A few hours before his departure his peace seemed to "flow like a river," and his visions of heaven to be unclouded as the sun shining in his strength. He requested those present to sing, "I hear thy welcome voice," which was done, after which prayer was offered. One said to him, "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints." He said, "Yes," and quoted several passages of Scripture, the full import of which he seemed to realize and enjoy. The Saviour's promise of peace was fully and gloriously realized in "the chamber where this good man met his fate."
